BOMBERS AND TOY PLANES THRILL DAYTON CROWDS

Seven Army Pilots Race Like Flock of Tornadoes, Ponderous Machines Making High Speed.

STIFF WIND BLOWS ACROSS THE FIELD

"Bathtub" to Be Flown in One of Today's Contests; Pulitzer Speed Classic Tomorrow.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WILBUR WRIGHT FIELD, Oct. 3.—With the first place firmly in his hairy hand, Charles S. (Casey) Jones was forced down within three miles of the finish line in the 120-mile race for light commercial planes in the international air races today. It would have been his third victory in three days. The prize was $1000 in Liberty bonds, and the Detroit Aviation Town and Country Club Trophy.

Piloting the same Curtiss Oriole in which he won the second race yesterday, Jones was breezing along at a rate of 125 miles an hour, nearly a lap ahead of his nearest competitor, when the mishap occurred. It happened after he turned the last pylon, going into the home stretch. Nobody saw the landing. Officials at the pylon reported that he had passed and spectators waited for him to cross the finish line but he did not appear.

A scouting plane was sent out at 12:15 to search for him, and at 12:30 it was announced that Jones had been picked up and that his plane was undamaged. The cause of the trouble was not made known.

One Casey Fails to Win.

Two first prizes were offered in the race, one for speed and the other for efficiency. The accident to Jones allowed Basil L. Rowe, in an S-4-A three-seater, to win first place in the speed contest, with an average speed of 111.5 miles per hour for the distance. Jones' average up to the time when he was compelled to land was slightly more than 122 miles an hour.

There was, however, a poetic justice in Rowe's victory. While in second place in the second race yesterday, a broken pump forced him out of the race, thus undoubtedly depriving him of a considerable share in the prize money. Second place in the race today for speed was won by J. G. Ray, in a Curtiss Oriole, with an average speed of 107.5 miles per hour. Ray won a second place yesterady.

It was announced that the world flyers would alight on the field tomorrow afternoon, escorted by a squadron of pursuit planes and the Barling bomber. Whether they would take part in another exhibition was not stated.

Heavy Artillery on Wing.

The heavy artillery made its first appearance this afternoon when six army pilots, flying huge Martin bombers, took of in the race for the Dayton Chamber of Commerce trophy and $4000 in prizes. All other races had been from standing starts but these ponderous machines were permitted to make a circle in the rear of the grandstand before crossing the starting line. It sounded like a flock of tornadoes as the great machines charged down across the line with their twin Liberty motors, of 800 horsepower each, wide open and spewing black fumes. That piloted by Lieut. C. F. Woolsey made the first lap at a speed of 108 miles an hour and was closely pressed by that of Lieut. Hez McClellan, at 105.

Short Economical Turns.

Despite their great size, the Martins appeared to be maneuvred with ease, making their turns at the pylons short and economical. They hugged them round and strove for speed. At the end of three laps Lieut. D. M. Myers was slightly in the lead, with Lieut. Woolsey hot on his rudder. The distance of the race was 150 miles.

The natural wood color of Lieut. Myers' plane easily distinguished it from the dull green craft of the other flyers. It was also of a newer and somewhat improved type. At the halfway mark Myers was still leading with an average speed for the 75 miles of 109 miles an hour, but Woolsey, whose average was 108, was not far behind. Liuet. McClellan was rapidly losing ground, unable to stand the pace set by the leaders.

Miniature Plane Race.

The second day's program opened with a race between miniature model airplanes, flown by the boys who built them, and resulted

Left His Estate to Friend Who Signed His Death Warrant

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1924)

LONDON, Oct. 3.—All through the days of Sinn Fein war with England and the weeks of negotiating the Irish treaty, there were no closer friends than Kevin O'Higgins and Rory O'Connor.

The treaty was accepted and Sinn Fein split. O'Higgins became Home Minister in the Free State Cabinet; O'Connor elected to fight that Cabinet, but still the two remained friends. O'Connor led those who held the Four Courts in Dublin against the Free State beseigers, but the friendship continued.

Finally O'Connor was captured. He was sentenced to death in December, 1922. The warrant for his execution came to the desk of the best friend he had in the world. All manner of pressure was brought to bear on O'Higgins, but he replied: "He must die tomorrow," and closed his lips tight as he signed.

O'Higgins remained seated at the same desk all night alone. At 8 in the morning messengers brought him word his friend was dead. The Home Minister collapsed.

Colonial Minister Thomas today told the sequel to this story. When O'Higgins was able to return to his office he was informed that the dead rebel's will left his entire estate to the friend who had signed his death warrant.

WOMAN WITH KNIFE GOES ON RAMPAGE

Smashes Two Plate Glass Windows and Slashes Three Autos at 1 A. M.

There was a disturbance in the 4100 block on Enright avenue at 1 o'clock this morning and when the police arrived they found a young woman in a litter of smashed windows and slashed automobiles and rather inclined to glory in the havoc she had wrought. They subdued her with some difficulty and after treatment for alcoholism at city hospital she was locked up at the Deer Street Station.

An inventory of the damage read like this:

James Doyle's grocery, 4069 Enright avenue, two plate glass windows, 5x8 feet, $250.

Mary Kanterman's grocery, 4101 Enright, two plate glass windows, 6x8 feet, $250.

Fred Easter, 4063 Enright, automobile, windshield smashed, top and seat slashed, $100.

Stance Burkitts, 4063 Enright, automobile windshield smashed, tires and top slashed, $150.

Frank Jackson, 4063 Enright, automobile windshield smashed, top slashed, $100.

Under one of the cars was found a butcher knife, with one end of which the yonug woman appeared to have done the smashing and with the other end the slashing.

This morning she said she was Edith Williams, 28 years old, 4120A Enright. As to running amuck at 1 a. m., there was nothing to that. She wasn't there and knew nothing about it. And as to why the police arrested her, if anybody asked her, it was just pure spite work. However, the police will ask for a warrant against her today.

Profitable Aspects of HomeOwnership

A home can be a real home and a profitable investment as well.

Witness the man who saved money and made a profit out of his vegetable garden.

Also the man who bought nine hens and looked after them so well that they laid on an average of 54 eggs a week.

And again, the man to whom the natural increase of real estate values brought wealth.

Properties in the right location and offering the same opportunities are easy to find. They are advertised from day to day in the "Real Estate" columns of the Post-Dispatch.

It will be profitable to take time for careful reading and careful investigation of these properties.

$100,000 WORTH OF BONDS STOLEN FROM BANK HERE

Liberty Central Trust Co. Announces Disappearance of Package and Replacement of Loss.

THEFT WAS DURING BUSINESS HOURS

Missing Securities Half of Shipment by Mail From New York to Customer in St. Louis.

A national private detective agency is investigating the theft of $100,000 of Liberty Bonds from the bond-receiving cage of the Liberty Central Trust Co. between 9 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, and is looking for the thief. Announcement of the theft was made last night by the bank.

The bonds represented half of a shipment from the Chase National Bank, New York, to the Liberty Central Trust Co., for C. F. Childs & Co., customers of the trust company, upon the order of Childs & Co. The trust company has made good the loss, under its insurance.

Package Opened at Bank.

J. L. Johnston, president of the trust company, in a statement, said it had been thoroughly established that none of the bonds was missing from the mail package, which was carefully sealed, when it was received by the registered mail department at 9 a. m. Wednesday. This department, he said, receipted for the package and delivered it to the bond receiving cage, where it was opened and the contents verified.

There were 195 $1000 bonds and 10 $500 bonds of the first issue. They were kept in the receiving cage awaiting instructions from Childs & Co. as to delivery to one of that concern's customers, but delivery was delayed because another package of bonds, necessary to make the whole of the order of the Childs & Co. customer, did not arrive until yesterday morning.

Disappearance of the $100,000 worth of bonds was discovered in the daily check of the receiving cage at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, President Johnston's statement added.

The bond-receiving cage is a detached unit, with three wicket windows opening on the main lobby of the bank. The walls are of marble and glass, about eight feet high, and there is not grating over the top. The windows are closely barred, with open spaces of about 2½ inches over the counter. There is a door leading into the private offices. Desks of two officers of the bank are nearby, across the lobby.

The Employes of Department.

Two women and a man, whose terms of employment with the bank and its predecessors range from four to 18 years, are employed in the bond-receiving cage, W. C. Connett, vice president and counsel, said, and two men and one woman are the only others having access to the cage.

The man, who has worked for the bank four years, has been employed in this cage several months, being put there to take the place of a young woman who left last Tuesday to be married. This young woman returned yesterday to help in the investigation. Connett emphasized that neither she nor the present employes of the cage are under suspicion.

The bonds taken were 98 of the $1000 denomination and four of the $500 size. The serial numbers, which run in various series, are on record. Liberty bonds of the first issue are bulkier than later ones, being made up of three sheets, and for this reason it is believed there will be difficulty in disposing of the bonds for the thief's benefit.

Bonds similar to those stolen were supplied at once by the trust company, it was announced, and six insurance companies indicated their intention of making good the loss.

Previous Similar Case.

On June 27, 1921, $10,000 of Victory notes (the final issue of Liberty bonds) disappeared from a basket at the Liberty Central Trust Co. A representative of surety companies announced later in the hearing of a number of the bank employes that no questions would be asked if the missing notes should be found in the building. On Aug. 24 of that year it was announced the notes were found in a vault by a clerk who was going through some files, and Vice President Connett said indications were they had been misplaced.

SOVIETS FORBID KISSING, A MIDDLE CLASS HABIT, UNHYGIENIC, DANGEROUS

MOSCOW, Oct. 3.

DR. NICHOLAS SEMASHKO, soviet Commissar of Health, has issued an edict against kissing, which, he contends, is one of the most potent means of spreading disease. The new order, if observed, will fall hard upon the Russian peasantry, who are in the habit of kissing one another not only on the lips, but three times on each cheek in salutation. Dr. Semashko is also opposed to the kissing of ladies' hands by men, a national custom in Russia. Not only is this unhygienic, he says, but it is a practice of the Bourgeoisie, which has no place in a proletarian republic.

Handshaking has been prohibited in many departments of the Government, and signs are appearing warning employes that the practice frequently results in communication of disease. The conventional salute, hand from forehead, is suggested as a safer greeting.

As a further health measure, Dr. Semashko advocates a ban on smoking, urging tobacco users to substitute candy and sweetmeats.

NEW TOP PRICES RECORDED IN CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Wheat, Rye, Oats and Corn Go Up With New Foreign Buying on Big Scale Evident.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—With new foreign buying on a big scale plainly evident, all grain scored fresh advances in price today, the markets making many new top records for the season.

World's supply figures were said to show 54,000,000 bushels less wheat available than a month ago.

Rye and oats were conspicuous for the liveliest jumps in price, but all deliveries of wheat, as well as of rye, together with May oats, smashed over the season's previous high levels. Before the initial rush of general commission house buying showed any signs of a let-up, rye was up 5 cents a bushel, oats 3 cents, wheat 2¾c and corn 2½c.

Fluctuations were especially rapid in the wheat market owing to heavy profit-taking sales, but the offerings were readily absorbed. Wheat opening prices, which ranged from ⅜c to 2⅛c higher, with May $1.47 to $1.47¼ and December $1.51¾ to $1.52¼, were soon followed by decided further gains.

PICKEL MARBLE CO. TO QUIT BUSINESS AFTER 50 YEARS

Tired and Want to Take Rest, Says William Pickel Sr., General Manager.

After half a century in business in St. Louis, the Pickel Marble & Granite Co., 1901 North Broadway, is to go out of existence and quit a field of operations which has extended to the Pacific Coast, within the next few weeks.

William Pickel Jr., for more than 20 years vice president and general manager of the firm, told the Post-Dispatch today there was but one reason—he was tired and wanted to take a rest.

As a workman he had entered the business established by his father, had risen to an executive position, and had stayed at his desk almost without a vacation, he said. Now he plans to go abroad.

The Pickel Company's first contract in St. Louis was for the marble work in the old Southern Hotel. Its last big job, that for Loew's State Theater. Between them were contracts for many of the city's hotels and office buildings.

EZRA MEEKER CONTINUES AIR JOURNEY TO DAYTON

Trail Blazer, With Army Pilot Reaches Omaha After Jump From North Platte.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 3.—Lieut Oakley G. Kelley, army pilot, and Ezra Meeker, his 93-year-old companion, arrived here at 10:15 a. m today from North Platte, Neb., on their flight from Vaucouver, Wash., to Dayton, O.

They arrived at North Platte at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, having left Rock Springs, Wyo., at 11:40 a. m.

Meeker, the Oregon trail blazer, who years ago went into the new West by ox team, declared he felt fine upon arriving here, and urged Lieut. Kelley to push on to Omaha, a flight of 245 miles, to spend the night. However, Kelley declared that North Platte was "far enough for today," and assured his aged passenger he would be in Dayton, O., tonight, to attend the air races.

$1,500,000 in Taxes Remitted.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 3.—A remission of $1,500,000 in State taxes will be made by the State Emergency Board within a week, it was learned today. The remission already has been authorized by Gov. Blaine and State Treasurer Levitan, it is said. The remission will be made as result of a balance of more than $10,000,000 in the general revenue fund. A similar remission of $1,110,000 in taxes was made at this time last year.

COOLIDGE BELONGS TO THE WALL STREET BLOC, BROOKHART SAYS

CHARGES GOULD'S SONS "LOOTED" VAST ESTATE

Counsel for Frank Says George and Edwin Had 'Secret Pact' to Use the Funds for Investment.

$8,000,000 LOSS IN STOCKS ALLEGED

'Greed of Gain and Power' Led to 'Scandalous Financing' of Missouri Pacific, Lawyer Declares.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
Copyright, 1924, by the New York Evening Post.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A charge of "a secret pact" between the late George J. Gould and his brother, Edwin, now in France, in the administration of their father's $82,000,000 estate was sprung today in the accounting proceedings before Referee James A. O'Gorman.

The charge was made by Walter B. Walker, attorney for Frank Gould, another of the brothers, in opening his argument for tha restoration of upwards of $50,000,000 to the estate. It is the contention of Frank Gould that mismanagement of the large fortune and violations of the conditions of his father's will cost it that much.

A "secret pact" existed between George and Edwin, Walker asserted, whereby each could use funds in the estate for whatever money he needed to gratify investment in railroad securities in which they were interested.

"Greed of Power and Ambition."

"They played a game in which greed of gain, greed of power and greed of ambition were the determining factors," declared Walker. George J. Gould, he declared, wanted to be one of the nation's big railroad figures by controlling the Missouri Pacific, in which the estate has its principal investment, and Edwin was desirous of having complete power over the St. Louis-Southwestern road, referred to before in the proceedings as "Edwin's pet."

It is the general contention of Frank and his sister, Anna, now the Duchess de Talleyrand, who were minors when their father died in 1892, that their three brothers—George, Howard and Edwin— and thei rsister, Helen, now Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, the four trustes, violated their father's wish and wantonl ydepreciated the calue of the estate.

Securities' Value Slumped.

Walker said today that when Jay Gould died he owned only 19 per cent of the Missouri Pacific stock, mainly in preferred shares, which have no voting power. To gain control of the road, the attorney asserted George J. Gold sold the preferred stock and ran the holdings of the estate up to 30 per cent of the road's capital in his effort to dominate it.

"Further," Walker said, "at the time of Jay Gould's death, we will show that he had approximately 40 per cent of his wealth in what might be termed good, sound securities, first mortgage bonds and the like. After 14 years of the administration of those trustees the securities of this class had dropped to but 1 per cent.

"Scandalous Financing."

The attorney for George and the other trustees having previously contended that the founder of the estate gave "free exercise of unbiased discretion" to them in the purchase and sale of securities. "We charge," asserted Walker, "that the tremendous speculation in the stock of the Missori Pacific Railroad in order to keep control were not made with the 'free exercise of unbiased discretion.'"

The financing of the Missouri Pacific was scandalous. No such tremendous speculations by any stretch of the imagination are authorized in the will.

"In one account alone we find a loss of $8,000,000 in the securities of the Missouri Pacific and allied roads set down in the books of the estat eunder the cryptic designation 'premium and discounts.'"

STIRS TROUBLE IN IOWA FOR G. O. P.

SENATOR BROOKHART

HEAVY PADDING OF COUNTY POLL BOOKS CHARGED

Positive Information in Hands of County Committee, Chairman Autenrieth Announces.

Positive information of heavy padding of the St. Louis County regisration books in the three-day general registration period, ended yesterday, is in the hands of the Republican County Committee, Chairman Al Autenreith announced today. Autenrieth estimated that 1000 to 1500 names had been placed on the books fraudulently, particularly in the north-central and northeastern parts of the county.

A partial compilation of registrants indicates that the total is more than 50,000, a record nmber of voters for the county.

Autenrieth said that much of the committee's information is based on reports of Republican precinct challengers, who checked off names of registrants on lists of known voters of all parties made by the committee. There were numerous registrants, he said, whose names did not appear on these lists. Precinct election officials reported also, he added, that some registrants were strangers in the community.

At Strattman precinct, on Olive Street road, west of Olivette, Autenrieth said, 30 men, who were not on the committee lists, registered. Gangsters are known to frequent this neighborhood. Among other precincts where padding is suspected are O'Neil, Engelholm and Home Heights.

Election Commissioners McElhinney and Hiller said they would conduct an investigation of the charges in the canvass of registration by precinct clerks, Oct. 9 and 10. Autenrieth said the Republican County Committee would cooperate to purge the books of padded names. "We want all the crooks off, whether they are Republicans or Democrats," he declared.

Deputy Sheriff Wengler reported to the Election Board, which had sent him out to investigate, following numerous rumors of padding, that it appeared to him a group of 16 men whose names he found registered in O'Neil precinct, in the northeastern part of the county, had gone to other precincts and registered under other names.

Returns on the registration from 78 of the 123 precincts showed 35,016 voters registered. These precincts were scattered over suburban and rural territory, and the commissioners agreed that a total registration of 50,000 to 55,000 is indicated. They think the average number of voters to the precinct will be 450.

HOLDS PRESIDENT IS WRONG ON 10 BIG QUESTIONS

Iowa Senator, Opening Campaign, Declares Administration Has Snubbed Him Since Primary.

STANDS ON GREAT PRINCIPLES OF PARTY

Issues Statement Asserting Dawes May Be as "Silent as Cal Himself" if He Goes to Iowa Again.

By the Associated Press.

EMMETSBURG, Io., Oct. 3.—Senator Smith W. Brookhart, who early this week denounced Charles G. Dawes, vice presidential candidate, formally opened his campaign for re-election here today with an address in which he attacked President Coolidge and machine party leaders.

Replying to reports that he would support the presidential candidacy of Robert M. La Follette, he said he never had a thought of leaving the Republican party.

The Republican party, Brookhart charged, has strayed from the ideals of its founders while the machine organization had refused to recognize the will of the people.

Referring particularly to his own difference with leaders of his party, Brookhart said that although he had been nominated "by 200,000 Republicans, without a machine and without money," and was "opposed by Wall street's money and by the President's power, his nomination had never been recognized by President Coolidge as the voice of Republicanism in Iowa."

Senator Brookhart declared Republican leaders refused him favor because he had differed on so many occasions from the national administration, naming a dozen issues over which he had opposed the views of President Coolidge. The ship subsidy, repeal of the Esch-Cummins law, Mellon tax reduction, soldiers' bonus, farm relief proposals, and Muscle Shoals were some of these issues, the Senator said.

Farm Bloc, Wall Street Bloc.

"I belong to the farm bloc; the President belongs to the Wall street bloc," he declared, in designating President Coolidge as "the machine Republican candidate."

The recital of differences was preceded by the statement that the Senator "had promised to do as much for Coolidge as he would do for me," and that "he wished the voters to know what each had done for and to the other."

"I have never had a thought of leaving the Republican party," the Senator said by way of reply to reports that he would leave the party to support the presidential candidacy of La Follette.

"My whole soul is wrapped up in the principles of Lincoln, Roosevelt and Kenyon. I will fight any leaders who seek to divert the party from these great purposes.

"Issue has arisen in Iowa as to whether the principle of the Republican party shall be determined by the voters themselves or a small group of crooked, irresponsible dictators set up by the Nonpartisan League of Wall street. This group has assailed me with renewed and vitriolic venom and I, therefore, wish to restate my position and to reform the lines for a finish fight to oust this gang from the control of the Republican party."

Conflict With Administration.

Brookhart said Lincoln assailed "the autocratic powers of the Supreme Court," in the case of the Dred Scott decision; that Roosevelt assailed the "malefactors of great wealth," and that Kenyon organized the farm bloc "for economic freedom and equality of the farmers and common people."

"These ideas," he said, "have brought me in sharp disagreement with many different elements which style themselves Republicans and by their financial power control the national administration.

"I have said that I would do as much for Coolidge as he would do for me and the voters are entitled to know what we have done for each other and also to each other. I shall give you facts from the in-

POTHIER DEFENSE TO TRY TO PROVE MAJOR SHOT SELF

Physicians' Testimony Conflicts as to Powder Burns on Cronkhite's Blouse, Since Destroyed.

VICTIM'S REVOLVER FIRED, SAYS WITNESS

Testimony That Rosenbluth, Jointly Accused, Was With Column When Shots Were Heard.

By the Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 2. — The defense of Roland R. Pothier, now on trial in the Federal District Court here on a charge of murder, as the result of the death of Maj. Alexander P. Cronkhite from gunshot wounds received while on a practice march at Camp Lewis in October, 1918, will be based on expert testimony that Maj. Cronkhite's wound was self-inflicted, the defense indicated as the trial was resumed this morning.

Robert Rosenbluth, who was a Captain in the 213th Engineers, while Pothier was a Sergeant-Bugler in the same regiment, is charged jointly with Pothier with the killing of Maj. Cronkhite. Rosenbluth will be tried later.

Decision on the part of the defense to introduce testimony to show the wound was self-inflicted was said to have been prompted by the testimony of physicians yesterday. The physicians who attended Maj. Cronkhite after he was shot gave conflicting testimony as to whether or not the clothing of the wounded officer contained powder burns.

Maj. Henry Tucker of Philadelphia, a physician, testified that there was a slight stain on the sleeve of Cronkhite's blouse, since destroyed, which might have been a powder burn. Tucker testified similarly before the Military Board of Inquiry at the time of the tragedy.

"Proves Major Held Gun."

Tucker declared he had no grounds upon which to change his statement at that time, which was to the effect that the "powder burn on the inner surface of the right sleeve in line with where the muzzle of the gun would have been proves that the gun was held in the Major's right hand and is absolutely confirmatory evidence of the position of the gun."

However, Lieutenant-Colonel William J. Howard of Whitman, Mass., found no powder burns or other stains when he had examined the blouse at the time of the inquiry, he testified prior to Dr. Tucker.

Description of the wound which caused Maj. Cronkhite's death was furnished on the stand by Dr. E. A. Sommer of Portland, Ore., who performed the autopsy. He said that death would probably be instantaneous from such a wound.

Whether a man so shot could live long enough to say "My God, I'm shot," was a point the doctor was questioned on. Previous testimony had been to the effect that Cronkhite had told Pothier he was shot, immediately after being wounded.

Dr. George C. Kreutz of St. Louis, a regimental Sergeant-Major in the 213th Engineers, to which all three principals belonged, testified that it was his gun which Pothier carried on the day the Major was shot. He said that Pothier borrowed his 45-caliber revolver between 7 and 8 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 25, 1918.

Lieutenant-Colonel Howard, who made an investigation of the shooting, said Rosenbluth appeared after the first shot was fired by the Major at a tobacco tin on one of the gate posts at the entrance to the Shubert farm. As Cronkhite fired his second shot Rosenbluth exclaimed, "You missed it," the witness said. As Cronkhite fired the third shot he said, "I hit it that time."

"Then the Major cocked his gun and as he raised it, it slipped and twirled backward around his finger, discharging the fourth shot into his body with fatal effect," said Howard in repeating the story he said Pothier told him at the time of the investigation.

Didn't See Fatal Shot.

The defendant further told him that he did not see the fourth shot fired and did not know the Major was hit until Cronkhite exclaimed that he had been hit, Howard testified.

George Root Jr. of Seattle, who testified Wednesday that Maj. Cronkhite's gun contained no exploded cartridge, yesterday said, under cross-examination by Maurice A. Langhorn, attorney for the defense, that the revolver was clean when given by him to Maj. Cronkhite the morning of the shooting and that, when he found it where the shooting occurred, it had been used.

"Did you at any time learn of any ill feeling between Cronkhite, Rosenbluth and Pothier?" asked Langhorne.

"No," was the response.

"What was the condition of your gun when you gave it to Maj. Cronkhite the morning of Oct. 25?" "It was clean."

"And its condition when you picked it up after the Major's death?" "It had been fired."

DAVIS AND "AL" SMITH FIRE CROWD IN NEW YORK BY ATTACKS ON G. O. P.

Thousands in Madison Square Garden Shout Approval When "Alibis" Are Cited—Nominee to 'Take Off Coat' to Help Smith

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 2.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, told an audience here this noon that the outstanding issue of the campaign was the question of a nation vote of confidence in the Republican administration.

Speaking in a local theater, Davis said: "Some say that our criticism is not constructive. But the most constructive thing in the world when a train is off the track is to get it back on. I have noticed that the Republicans are not talking so much of promises or performances as they did in 1920."

By Leased Wire From the New

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—New York Democrats ratified at Madison Square Garden their choice for the governorship of New York and for the presidency of the United States.

It was ratification spelled in capital letters and in whoops of joy—whoops so hearty that even hyperbole will not describe them.

From the five boroughs they came last night by thousands to attest the fact that Davis and Smith are their candidates—both New Yorkers, one by birth and the other by adoption. The disappointment many of these same Democrats experienced in Madison Square Garden three months ago, when Gov. Smith failed to get a presidential nomination, was forgotten. Al Smith was on the ticket.

The historic structure was jammed as it was during the Democratic national convention. A few vacant seats at the ends of the topmost gallery were more than counterbalanced by two or three thousand persons who chose to stand at either end of the arena and who for the most part remained until the last volley of oratory had been fired.

Every Democratic leader in the city was on hand. Scores had come from the up-state districts, their number augmented by Democrats who had popped into the city from Connecticut, New Jersey and other outlying areas.

"Here Comes Davis."

Mayor Hylan was just finishing his address, when someone shouted: "What's the matter with Al Smith?"

The silence gave place to a big shout of delight. Then the cry from a man back under the stage: "Here comes Davis."

They were off in a tremendous demonstration. It was not the artificially stimulated demonstration of the sort that took place during the convention. The band was silent. But John W. Davis and Alfred E. Smith, accompanied by half a dozen policemen, came in under the stage. With a whoop 5000 people came to their feet.

They yelled, waved flags, climbed up on their chairs to see. The galleries poured down a volley of sound. The cheering grew in volume as Davis and Smith made their way up the stairway to the platform from which they were to speak. They stood together, shaking hands with the chairman and other dignitaries.

Gov. Smith turned and shook hands with Mayor Hylan, standing just behind him. The crowd were off again at this symptom that for the campaign at least the fight between the two men was forgotten. After three minutes the band struck into "The Star-Spangled Banner," and this brought silence. But it was fully five minutes before anything like real order could be restored.

District Attorney Joab H. Banton, chairman, introduced Davis.

Demonstration for Davis.

Right here came the first real proof that Gov. Smith was not the only man for whom there is enthusiasm in New York. The candidate for the presidency received an acclaim—not quite so loud as when both had entered, not quite so long, but sufficient to demonstrate that he has won his place in the hearts of New York Democracy. This time it was two minutes before order could be restored.

One of the heartiest outbursts during the Davis speech came when he recalled Gov. Smith's convention promise to take his coat off and get to work, and remarked that he (Davis) was willing to take off his coat and collar and tie "and as much more as is removable," to bring about the election of Gov. Smith.

Thereupon Davis sailed into the "alibi" assertions of the Republican party. He recalled that Theodore Roosevelt in his acceptance speech had said that the "Democratic party had promises; the Republican party performs."

"In the name of the prophets there is need for a history class," the presidential nominee shouted.

Opera Seat Illustration.

Then he rehearsed the promises which had been made by the representatives of the Republican party in 1920. It was not surprising, he went on, that some of these promises had not been performed. When two tickets are issued for an opera seat, they both can't be used. The Government, Davis said, has been "held up to shame at home and abroad."

And then the alibis—Doheny's alibi of "old friendship with Fall!" Sinclair's denial of the power of Congress to investigate. Denby's alibi that "he was nothing but a rubber stamp" in the transfer of the oil reserves. This brought laughter and lots of it.

And the laughter gave way to boos and shouts of derision as Davis mentioned an "Assistant Secretary of the Navy" (Roosevelt) whose alibi was that he was nothing but a messenger boy.

The applause continued as Davis promised if he were elected President and a disarmament conference meets in June, 1925, the "United States will be there."

After referring to the convention reminiscences inspired by his presence in the Madison Square Garden Davis reassured his hearers of the complete unanimity between himself and Gov. Smith. Leading to national issues he said:

"I bring to the Democrats of the city and of the State of New York a message of Democratic unity and harmony, of Democratic enthusiasm and purpose, that stretches to the Rocky Mountains and beyond. Democracy of this country knows that it can win the battle this year if it has—and I am sure it has—the will to win it.

"Now any man that goes up and down this country cannot fail to scent among the people of the United States of whatever section, whatever calling, whatever class, a vast and pervasive unrest and discontent, whether it be the laboring man, the farmer, or any other citizen—a feeling of distrust and uneasiness, everywhere a loss of confidence in those now in power, and everywhere seeking some remedy and some redress for the evils of which they complain.

Parallel of 1912.

"And for that condition, so pervasive, so universal, it seems to me that the cause and origin is not far to discover. Like causes, my friends, produce like results, and like results point inevitably to the existence of like causes. And I call your attention today to the similarity between the condition in this country at this hour and that which prevailed 12 years ago in the year 1912.

"Then, as now, privilege had found access to the statute books of this country. Then, as now, corruption had crept into high places. Then, as now, the people felt that those charged with the protection of their interests were failing in that trust, and then, as now, a great party was rent asunder by contest of principle, of ambition, and of distrust that led to the calling of the democracy once more to the services of the nation."

Davis then reviewed the promises made by the Republican party in 1920 and pointed out that a great number of them, like two tickets for the same opera seat, were so contradictory they could not be fulfilled.

"But one promise they made was performed in letter and in spirit," he continued. "They promised to give to this country an administration of the law in Congress and in the legislative chambers entirely different from the administration of Woodrow Wilson. That promise the American people know has been kept.

"There is one industry, however, that has profited greatly, or at least its activities have been enormously increased, in the last three years. Whatever may have happened to any other industry in this country, however much the farmers in the broad West, in the grain-growing states, may have suffered from the loss of their foreign markets, however much the laborer may have suffered by the increase in the price of the things he has had to buy, with no corresponding increase in his wages, one industry has flourished!"

The crowd roared when Davis explained: "That industry has been the alibi industry!"

Davis then reviewed the alibis of Secretary Fall for the $100,000 he got in the naval oil reserve deals; of Secretary Denby for his failure to safeguard the reserves, and he added:

"There was another one—an Assistant Secretary of the Navy"—laughter stopped the speaker. When the house was quiet again, he said: "His alibi was that he was nothing but a messenger boy."

On through the list he went, telling of the alibis of Attorney-General Daugherty, with Jess Smith and Gaston B. Means; Forbes and the Veterans' Bureau and all the other figures in the trail of scandal left by the Republican administration.

"But," he shouted, "there is no alibi for the party policy underlying these conditions."

Just to show that it had not exhausted itself on the two candidates who were there last night, the audience went into something that closely approximated an ecstasy of delight when the name of Gov. Bryan was mentioned. Bryan is not supposed to be popular in New York. It didn't look so when Davis told what he had done in the matter of bringing down the cost of living in Nebraska.

The crowd had been waiting for something about the Ku Klux Klan. The nearest Davis got to it was a repetition of his speech about "equality," which has pleased several cities in the West.

Davis said: "We want equality of right in the country for high and low, rich and poor, white and black."

The crowd believed he meant the Ku Klux Klan and went off into a volley of applause.

Again they shouted as he spoke of "freedom of speech, freedom of conscience and religious faith."

But the longest demonstration followed Davis' mention of "freedom from search and seizure" as one of the things that distinguish the free man from the slave. The yells took on a new quality at this point. They appeared to have more heart in them.

Gov. Smith was in his best form. He got far away from the address he had prepared in advance.

"On the question of conservation we have had one sap bucket," he cried, referring to the gift which was made by President Coolidge to Henry Ford.

"By Nov. 4, 1924, you will see through the bunk of the Republican party," he cried.

Smith drew plaudit after plaudit as he pitched into President Coolidge and the rest of his administration for inaction. The whole Republican press bureau, he said, had taken their cue from National Chairman Butler, who had "dismissed the whole black record" with a statement which Smith said amounted to the following: "There's nothing to it. Boys will be boys and you cannot help it."

Smith struck at President Coolidge straight from the shoulder.

He declared that Mr. Coolidge instead of being the "strong, silent leader, he is popularly believed to be, is a weak, vacillating officer of the Government, unable to lead his own party or make a decision in his own mind."

THREE DEATHS IN DAY OF MEN HURT IN AUTO MISHAPS

Nightwatchman, 79, Run Down on His Way to Work — Suffers Fractured Skull.

Three automobile fatalities were recorded in St. Louis yesterday, bringing the 1924 toll of motor vehicle deaths to 124, an increase of 31 over the same period of 1923. During the first two days of October three men and a boy have died of injuries suffered in automobile accidents.

Yesterday's dead:

Jeremiah Collins, 79 years old, of 3822 Lucky street.

John A. Noser, 40, 5046 North Grand boulevard.

Louis Wagner, 49, 6447 West Park avenue.

Night Watchman Killed.

Collins, who for 20 years was a night watchman in Portland and Westmoreland places, was run down at 6:45 p. m. yesterday as he crossed Kingshighway at Maryland avenue on his way to work. He died at 11 p. m. of skull fracture and internal injuries. The driver, Paul O. Mantler, 6300 Virginia avenue, said he was driving south when Collins suddenly darted in front of his machine.

Noser died at 2 p. m. of injuries suffered the night before, when the auto of Allen Bryant, 27, of 6501 Hobart avenue, St. Louis County, in which he was riding, collided head-on with a Taylor street car in front of 1125 South Kingshighway. Noser suffered skull fracture and internal injuries and never regained consciousness. At the time, Bryant declared he was unhurt, but detectives who went to his home after Noser's death found him in serious condition, suffering with a fractured breast bone discovered several hours after the accident.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in Noser's case. Police reported Noser said the automobile's steering apparatus failed to function.

Run Down by Speeder.

Wagner was the victim of a speeding motorist who ran him down Aug. 17 on the Manchester road, near Centaur, 25 miles from St. Louis, and then sped on before witnesses could note the license number. He died Wednesday midnight at Lutheran Hospital of pneumonia induced by a fracture of the leg and internal injuries. Wagner had parked his automobile on the north side of Manchester road, and was crossing to visit a friend when he was hit by a Ford coupe moving east. His wife, Anna, saw the accident from his automobile.

Homicide at the hands of parties unknown was the Coroner's verdict in Wagner's death. Mrs. Wagner and Miss Emma Peters, who also was in Wagner's car, testified at the inquest.

Brookhart Hits Coolidge But Sticks to G. O. P.

Telling of his nomination, the Senator said his principal supporters were the farmers and laboring people.

"The Republican State convention, dominated by the Coolidge machine, snubbed and insulted me," he continued. "The Coolidge newspapers over the State with a few exceptions have bolted me and continue to denounce me and my platform approved by the voters.

"The Coolidge committees have announced in the press that they would not use me in the campaign."

"The State Republican platform declares for a farm relief bill upon the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill. I approve and stand upon this platform and I ask that the President do the same, but he will not do it. His opposition, widely advertised in Eastern newspapers, defeated the McNary-Haugen bill in Congress.

Railroad Valuation.

"In a recent speech the President quoted a valuation of $31,000,000,000 as the value of the railroads and certain other utilities. The value of these utilities, from his statement, probably would not exceed $5,000,000,000. This would leave $30,000,000,000 as the value of the railroads as approved by the President's speech.

"Wall Street financiers have always made the same claim and with the prestige of this statement they will probably be able to get the final value increased under the Esch-Cummins law after the election, despite the fact that the statement was used to denounce Government ownership and despite the further fact that all the railroads on the security market value were only worth $12,000,000,000. The President is therefore against the reduction of railroad rates and if his idea of valuation is adopted it means another large increase in rates.

"I wired the President asking for an extra session of Congress immediately and Secretary Slemp wrote me that he would call the matter to the attention of the President and hoped I would call when in the city. The Coolidge Cedar Rapids gang immediately brought out an independent candidate for Senator against me.

"The cause of this situation grows out of the following matters in Congress:

"I was against Newberryism. The President was for it.

"I was against the ship subsidy. The President supported it.

"I was in favor of repealing the Esch-Cummins law and the President opposed its repeal.

"I was in favor of investigating corruption in the departments. The President opposed the investigation and criticised the Senate for its action.

"The President favored the Mellon tax bill which reduced taxes on the big incomes by a big percentage and on the little incomes by a little percentage. I helped to amend these reductions in favor of the common people.

"I favored the soldier bonus bill. He vetoed it and I voted to pass it over the veto. It succeeded.

"I favored the postal employes bill. It was vetoed, and I will vote to pass it over the veto.

"On all taxation I favor high taxes on excess profits and large incomes and estates. The President favors the Mellon plan, which taxes the poor.

"I oppose giving Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford or any other private interests. The President favored selling it.

"I belong to the farm bloc. The President belongs to the Wall street bloc.

"Upon this record I stand for my re-election and I promise the farmers, the laborers and the common people that they shall not be doubted, pressed and sacrificed with my knowledge or consent. I will do in the future as I have done in the past."

Renews Attack on Dawes.

Renewing his demand that the Republican National Committee ask the resignation of Charles G. Dawes, the party's nominee for the vice presidency, Brookhart, in a statement issued here, denounced Dawes for being "silent on some phases of his record," and simultaneously charged that the Republican State chairman, B. B. Burnquist, had agreed with him that "Dawes has wrecked the campaign in the West."

"The chairman of the Republican State Committee, Mr. Burnquist, was one of the first men who told me that Dawes has wrecked the Republican campaign in the West," Senator Brookhart said in his statement. "Mr. Dawes was silent," the statement said, "during his trip across Iowa on some of the phases of his record in which the people of the West are most deeply interested.

"Yesterday morning at 5 o'clock he left Chicago like a pistogor hunting for big game. He asked no quarter and would give none. Then he came out to Davenport and shot a pee-wit. This achievement entitles him to a distinction over all his countrymen, and I, therefore, say that let him henceforth be known as 'Peewit Dawes.'

The Glory of Silence.

"And this great hunter has, all at once, another achievement, the glory of silence.

"For many months he has been the biggest noise in America, but yesterday he was silent on his sulphuretted bank deal record. He was silent on the Pure Oil Co., the company used by the Government of the United States for violation of the criminal law. He was silent on the question of depriving labor of its constitutional rights with a society outside the law. He was silent as the grave on the great co-operative question of the farmers—higher beef on the hoof and lower beef on the table.

"But if he will come to Iowa once more and shoot into another flock of peewits, he may become as silent as 'Cal' himself.

"In the meantime, I again demand that the Republican National Committee ask for his resignation so his name can be removed from the ticket."

WOMAN ILL AFTER BEING LOCKED IN POLICE CELL

Acting Lieutenant and Desk Sergeant Are Cited by Board for Hearing in Case.

Detention of a woman in a cell at the North Market Street Police Station for a short time early in the morning of Sept. 7, because of an alleged traffic violation, today resulted in charges being placed against Sergt. Thomas Hunt and Patrolman Mathew King, who were Acting Lieutenant and Desk Sergeant, respectively, at the station on that day. They will have a hearing before the Police Board next Tuesday.

The charges followed an investigation of the incarceration of Mrs. Horace D. Keenan, 32 years old, of 4021 Natural Bridge avenue, wife of the proprietor of a downtown cafe. Mrs. Keenan, as a result of her experience, suffered a nervous condition, from which she has not fully recovered.

At 2 a. m., Sept. 7, a Lincoln coupe driven by Mrs. Keenan and a Ford driven by James Otis, 1927 G street, Granite City, who was accompanied by his wife, Frances, collided at Thirteenth and North Market streets, Mr. and Mrs. Otis being slightly injured. The police reported that Mrs. Keenan was taken to the station, at Tenth and North Market, and booked for felonious wounding, but it did not mention her incarceration. A warrant, applied for the next day, was refused.

A friend of the Keenans, who brought the matter before the Police Board, said Mrs. Keenan was locked in the holdover cell for 15 to 20 minutes, until her husband arrived with a bondsman and obtained her release.

President Brockman of the Police Board said the incarceration was in direct violation of an order published in the Police Journal, Sept. 1, in which police were instructed to extend all possible courtesies to persons arrested for traffic law violations, and not to jail those of reputable character.

Called to headquarters today, Sergeant Hunt said Mrs. Keenan was brought to the station after he had left it to visit the scene of collision. Patrolman King said a report came in of a holdup and he left the station to inform Hunt. Only a clerk and Mrs. Keenan were left in the station, he said, and he thought it best to lock her up for safekeeping before departing. She was let out of the cell upon their return.

FINDS NO EVIDENCE FOR FIRPO'S OUSTER

Commissioner, Urging Deportation Case Be Dropped, Denounces Clergyman.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A recommendation that deportation proceedings against Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine pugilist, be dropped was sent to Secretary of Labor Davis yesterday by Commissioner Henry H. Curran.

At the same time the Commissioner announced that after investigation no evidence was found to support the charge of Canon William E. Chase of Brooklyn, that Firpo brought a woman to this country in July, 1922, for immoral purposes.

A New York newspaper was said by Curran to have been the figure behind the Firpo prosecution. The Commissioner declared that Canon Chase, who appeared as the ostensible prosecutor, had testified at a recent hearing before an Immigration Board, that he waged his fight at the instigation of the newspaper.

Chase also testified, the Commissioner said, that the same publication paid counsel fees in connection with the case.

Statement by Curran.

Curran's announcement said in part:

"After all the fuss and feathers of the publicity in the case had blown away and the matter had come down to an orderly hearing conducted by the Government, Canon Chase admitted, under oath, that he had stated to prospective witnesses at Ellis Island that 'if Firpo had good friends they would tell him to get before it is too late because there are five years staring him in the face.'

"This refers to the perjury proceedings instituted by Canon Chase now pending before United States Commissioner Hitchcock.

"If 'Firpo's friends' had successfully followed the Canon's advice the result would have been that Firpo would have jumped his bail. I doubt if this advice from a Canon would be considered to be in the interest of law and order.

All Charges Unsupported.

"These two tidbits of testimony as to motive are illuminating. The trouble with the rest of Chase's statements was that those that had any importance proved to be entirely without support in fact, although the statements were all made by Chase under oath."

INSURANCE FIRM'S ASSETS IMPAIRED ABOUT $500,000

Receiver Files Report on Financial Status of Interstate Casualty Co. in Federal Court.

$34,500 IN BONDS NOT ACCOUNTED FOR Items Totaling $494,374 of Questionable Value Include Deposits of $123,244 in Defunct Banks.

"Cats and dogs"—assets of little or no value—figure prominently in a report on the financial status of the Interstate Casualty Co., filed in Federal Court today by the company's receiver, former Supreme Judge Charles G. Revelle.

Under the heading "Assets deducted because not admitted under insurance company's practice," are listed items aggregating $494,374.18, which include the following:

Bonds not accounted for, $34,500.

Money withdrawn without authority, $2500.

Cash in defunct banks, $123,244.

Check of J. B. McCutchan charged to Interstate Casualty Co. by Telegraphers' National Bank without authority, $2,703.03.

Collateral loans, $148,200.

The chief item in the "collateral loans" is a note for $85,000 bearing signatures of McCutchan, J. L. McNatt and C. C. Hill. McCutchan was vice president of the Interstate company and McNatt was secretary and general counsel.

Cash in Defunct Banks.

Of the cash in defunct banks, $122,718.98 was in the Citizens' Trust Co. of Gorin, Mo., of which McCutchan was a director. The balance was in a Salt Lake City bank. The Gorin bank is in receivership and Revelle has not been able to ascertain what depositors will get back.

In connection with the deposit in the Gorin bank, Receiver Revelle states that some time before his appointment unsecured notes of "certain individuals" aggregating $104,640 were tendered to the Interstate company in payment of the deposit, but the records fail to show whether the tender was accepted. The "certain individuals" are not mentioned by name in the report, but are understood to be McCutchan and others. The notes have been returned to the bank's receiver and claim asserted for the full amount of the deposit.

"I am at present inclined to the view," the receiver reports, "based upon information, the authenticity of which I have not yet had an opportunity thoroughly to investigate, that it is possible that some of the notes executed by a former officer of the defendant company, ostensibly for the benefit of the company, and secured by collateral belonging to the company, may prove to be notes the proceeds of which were at least partly diverted to the personal use of the maker." No name is mentioned in this connection.

As to the $34,500 in bonds not accounted for, former Supreme Judge Conway Elder, attorney for the receiver, said little is known except that they are missing.

The Total Impairment.

The report lists total assets of $1,222,062.47, less deducted "assets" of $494,374.18, leaving admitted assets of $727,688.29; total liabilities of $760,573.75, or an excess of liabilities over admitted assets of $32,885.46. Adding to this excess the sum of $500,000 paid-in capital stock, the "total impairment" is placed at $532,885.46.

The assets include stock holdings with a par value of $25,000 in the defunct Citizens' Trust Co. of Gorin and of $35,000 in the Granite Bend Mining and Merchandising Co., in which McCutchan is said to be also interested. The receiver reports: "I am convinced that many of the assets and securities are of questionable value and have a market value of considerably less than their par value."

Other assets are securities with a par value of $250,000 on deposit with the State Treasurer of Alabama, which the receiver believes can be sold at par; securities with a par of $208,000 on deposit with the Missouri State Insurance Department, which are not considered of par value now, and bonds of $2500 on deposit with the American Surety Co. at New Orleans.

Complications in Missouri.

The receiver anticipates no trouble in recovering the bonds in Alabama, but the Missouri department is unwilling to surrender the bonds it holds, as they may be required to cover liabilities outstanding against the American General Indemnity Corporation, which was merged with the Interstate company last February. As to the $2500 in bonds, the receiver thinks he may have to sue to recover them.

All other securities and assets are in St. Louis, either in the receiver's possession or with banks as collateral security on notes.

in a new world's record for such craft, both for time and distance. A 40-inch monoplane, built and flown by Robert V. Jaros of Chicago, a student at the University of Illinois, remained in the air 10 minutes and 14.2 seconds, and traversed a distance of more than a mile and a half. The former world's record, held by an Englishman, was five minutes' duration and a distance of 6000 feet.

Boys Show Keen Interest.

The miniature models in the boys' race had propellers driven by elastic bands. The winner of this race got the Mulvihill trophy and $500 in cash. Twenty-five models had been entered by 20 different boys, and the rivalry between the older pilots for the big prizes was as nothing compared to that displayed by the boys who gathered on the starting line with their ships in their hands.

The purpose of this event, of course, is to stimulate interest in aviation among the young, and to spur their inventive faculty. One result of this was apparent. Several of the contestants were winding up their rubber band "motors" with automatic egg-beaters.

The first one got away to a beautiful start. It went fluttering off down the field at a height of 10 feet, darting, hesitating and proceeding on its way like a dragon fly. The owner raced along under it, but the ship outdistanced him, although its pace seemed leisurely enough. It traveled a good 150 yards before falling.

The next was a monoplane, about two feet long. Its propeller was spinning, but the ship veered upward, turned a couple of times, started away nicely, and then did a sudden nose dive to the ground. Two more followed suit. It was plain that the wind would smash the hopes of many of the youthful pilots.

Goes Up at Least 500 Feet.

A graceful monoplane took the air and began to gain altitude. Other models had not risen more than 15 feet. This one climbed and climbed. The owner raced along under it in shirt sleeves and bare head. Still it rose, with twin propellers spinning. It reached a height of at least 500 feet. Evidently it had caught the wind perfectly. Far off down the field it sailed.

The flag officials, stationed 200 yards down the field to signal the moment of falling, began to run back. Still the little dragon fly fluttered and flew. It was visible from the grand stand now only with the aid of field glasses. To the naked eye, Jaros' shirt was merely a white speck far away. The flag officials began to string out for the purpose of relaying the signal back to the timers' stand.

Through the binoculars it could be seen that the model had now flown the entire length of the field, more than a mile, and was still going. Jaros climbed through the wire fence, and continued his chase through a cornfield. When the flags at length fell, signaling the end of the flight, Jaros was invisible, even with glasses.

It was announced from the timers' stand that the flight had broken the world's record for both duration and distance. The ship was in the air 10 minutes, 14.2 seconds, and covered more than a mile and a half.

Stiff Wind for the Pilots.

It was a flawless day from the spectator's standpoint, but a stiff wind which tempered the heat from a burnished sky threatened to multiply the problems of the pilots.

The attendance appeared to be somewhat larger than on yesterday, although thus far there has been nothing to justify the building of a grandstand more than a mile long. It was not a world series crowd.

The panorama of the field and its accessories is indescribably vast. From the tent colony occupied by civilian pilots, on the west side, to the officers' quarters upon the hill behind the army hangars on the east, must be fully two miles, and all in plain view. The row of flags behind the grandstand is more than a mile in length, and perfectly straight for that distance.

From the home pylon, directly in front of the timers' stand, to the second pylon, on the opposite side of the field and in plain view, is a mile, and this stretch furnishes spectators their best view of the races.

"Casey" Has a Very Nice Time at the Party.

"Casey" Jones came to the air party with his little airplane, and now he has two nice trophies and $2000 in Liberty bonds. "Casey," whose given name is Charles S., is a big, iron-jawed bird, with a black mustache, who tests airplanes for the Curtiss company and consequently knows all about 'em. Moreover, like his famous namesake of the ballad, he has a mania for being on time.

When "Casey" alighted at Wilbur Wright field Wednesday, having flown from Selfridge Field, Mich., he believed he had first place in the "on-to-Dayton" race all sewed up. He knew what the ordinary civilian plane could do. But, alas, a member of the Contest Committee came out and said:

"Where do you get that stuff? Selfridge is only 196 miles away, and to win this race the entrant must fly 200 miles."

"Is that so?" said Casey.

"Yes, it's so," said the member. "And you ought to know it."

Contest committees are always composed of sour fellows.

"All right, my mistake," said Casey. "I'll go somewhere that is 200 miles away and fly back."

So he hopped back into his little airplane and flew over to Rantoul, Ill., which admittedly is at least 233 miles away and turned around and flew right back again.

First prize in this race consisted of $1000 in Liberty bonds and the trophy presented by the Dayton chapter of the National Aeronautic Association. There were about 40 entrants.

Casey Flies Like a Goldfish.

The party proper began yesterday, and the second event of the day was a 120-mile race for civilian pilots, in which the winner got $1000 in Liberty bonds and the Central Labor Union trophy.

When the announcer announced what everybody knew—that "Casey" had won, with an average speed of 125 miles an hour, as against 107 for his closest opponent—he also took occasion to declare that the iron-jawed one had been adjudged winner of the "On-to-Dayton" race, which made it a total of two trophies and $2000 in Liberty Bonds. They were nice trophies, and as all of us know who sold ours in 1920 at 95, Liberty Bonds are now considerably above par. It was a nice party for "Casey."

FIRST STEP TAKEN HERE TO RETURN TUDOR WILKINSON

Warrant Charging Him With Making False Affidavit in Obtaining Passport Issued.

The first step in a movement by the Government to extradite from France William Tudor Wilkinson, former St. Louisan, charged with evading income taxes for five years, was taken here today by United States District Attorney Curry, who obtained a warrant charging Wilkinson with a felony in having made a false affidavit in obtaining a passport.

A criminal warrant charging Wilkinson with having failed and refused to make income tax returns for the five-year period, 1919-23, was issued last month, but service has not been obtained on it. This offense is a misdemeanor and Wilkinson could not be extradited under it. The Government contends that he owes $85,841.27 in income taxes and penalties.

Based on Affidavit in France.

The alleged false affidavit was made in France. Wilkinson's American passport had expired. He went before American Vice Consul Einar W. Dieserne at Paris and made affirmation of his loyalty to the United States and stated that his permanent residence was at 4225 Olive street, St. Louis, and that he maintained a temporary residence at 146 Champs Elysee, Paris. He also stated that he had paid Federal income tax regularly to the United States.

It was upon the information in this affidavit that a new passport was issued him for travel in continental Europe, and the affidavit, a copy of which is in the hands of District Attorney Curry here, served as a basis for the warrant issued today.

District Attorney Curry said this affidavit is at variance with the facts, in that Wilkinson has not paid the Federal income tax regularly. The District Attorney conferred with the Department of Justice at Washington concerning the situation, following which he obtained the warrant today from United States Commissioner Atkins, and under this warrant efforts will be made to bring Wilkinson back to this country.

Perjury Extraditable Offense.

Perjury or subornation of perjury are extraditable offenses under our treaty with France, and making a false affidavit is perjury, District Attorney Curry said. The false affidavit warrant was issued under Section 2 of the Espionage Act of June 15, 1917, which sets forth that whoever knowingly and willfully makes a false statement in obtaining a passport shall be guilty of perjury and subject upon conviction to a fine of not more than $2000 and imprisonment for not more than five years, or both fine and imprisonment.

Once Wilkinson is back in the United States the Government will press its claims for collection of the income tax in arrears and will prosecuate him under the warrant issued last month. The maximum punishment upon conviction for refusing to make an income tax return is a fine of $10,000 and one year in jail.

Charges as to Income.

Government investigators have reported that Wilkinson's income on which he made no return was as follows: 1919, $94,201.92; 1920, $47,250; 1921, $15,000; 1922, all received in French coin, $29,909.24; 1923, $100,000.

Wilkinson, who is about 44 years old, resided here until he joined the American air forces in France in 1917. His father was the late John C. Wilkinson of Kirkwood, a director of the former Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co.

Piracy Only "Lesson" To Foreigners to Keep Out of Rum Running

Man Held by French Quoted as Saying He Wanted to Keep Trade Wholly American.

By the Associated Press.

BREST, France, Oct. 3.—Bootlegging and rum running are essentially American institutions into which the New York "rum ring" will permit no foreigner to intrude, Max Jerome Phaff told traveling companions on a Southampton-London train last August, according to affidavits filed with Commandant Fournier, of the French naval court, which is investigating the Mulhouse piracy. Phaff is charged with complicity in this piracy, in which the French steamer was looted of 36,000 cases of whisky, off the Canadian coast last July.

"I am one of the kings of the American bootleggers," Phaff is quoted in the affidavits as informing his fellow travelers. "We don't want any foreigners horning into this business. We just wanted to give these Frenchmen a good lesson."

The "lesson," according to affidavits, which the rum runners wished to teach the French, was administered in the piracy of the Mulhouse.

Commandant Fournier, after reading the affidavit containing the alleged remarks of Phaff, said he was inclined to believe that the defendant was somewhat boastful on that occasion and that instead of being a "king" of the bootleggers, was merely "a very small cog in the huge machinery of American rum running."

He added that, from the information filed in his court, a man of the name of Adelmann of New York City is the man "higher up" who furnished funds in unlimited amounts for the smuggling of liquor into the United States on a big scale. Phaff has refused to discuss Adelmann and the latter's identity is hazy.

Bought Liquor in England.

Magistrate Fournier says that, according to information he has received, the purpose of Phaff's recent trip to Europe, which was concluded by his arrest, was the purchase of £75,000 (approximately $375,000) worth of whisky in England. The Magistrate said his information was to the effect that the liquor bought by Phaff in England was either bound for America or had just been landed in the United States during the last day or two. Phaff was hurrying home on the Leviathan when he was arrested, Sept. 16, on the piracy charge.

"According to the information which we have obtained," Fournier said, "Phaff was anxious to arrive in America in time to make delivery of the liquor cargo which had been purchased in England. Now Adelmann or his agents will receive the shipment and the defendant fears his share of the profits in the enterprise will be lost. Phaff told me: 'My share of this profit amounts to $35,000.'"

The Magistrate said he replied to Phaff: "Just cable Adelmann to deposit that amount with the French Consul-General in New York and I will let you out on bail immediately."

The sworn statement of Capt. Walters that Phaff offered him $10,000 to "pull off the Mulhouse piracy is, besides Phaff's alleged confession, the only additional evidence connecting the defendant with the charge of being an instigator of the piracy. Walters' statement declares he refused Phaff's offer because he had a wife and child, and considered the undertaking too dangerous. Walters now is said to be a co-defendant with a Capt. Ford before the Montreal courts on the charge of piracy in connection with the looting of the ship Lutzen, which belonged to Phaff and Adelmann.

Was to Testify in Montreal.

Phaff has told the French court that his arrest and detention here was for the purpose of preventing him from appearing as a witness in Montreal.

An affidavit from James Kimpton, supercargo of the Mulhouse at the time she was looted, described the Captain of the pirates as literally a two-gun man. Kimpton said the pirate leader kept his revolvers with him at all times and, during the seven days the looters were aboard the French steamer, he even had the weapons on the table when he was eating in the Captain's cabin. Sometimes, it was said, he even held one of the revolvers in his left hand while he ate with his right.

Other affidavits have developed that the pirates' market price for liquor during the latter part of June ran from $15 per case for cheaper grades of whisky to $28 for champagne. It is stated that 2400 cases of whisky were delivered to a buyer in America for $15 per case.

Magistrate Fournier is puzzled by sworn statements that while the looting of the Mulhouse was going on the revenue cutters Manhattan and Kickapoo several times came within hailing distance of the steamer, which was being unloaded, and never interfered.

The investigating magistrate will call the attention of the French Ministry of Colonies to the report that the huge cold storage plant at the island of Saint Pierre de Miquelona, off the coast of Newfoundland, built by the French Government for storing fish, now is exclusively used as a whisky and wine warehouse. Ambassador Jusserand, at Washington, will be asked to have an investigation made there.

WOULD COMPEL BUSSES TO USE PNEUMATIC TIRES

Alderman Uhlemeyer Plans to Introduce Ordinance After Complaints of Street Surface Damage.

An ordinance will be introduced in the Board of Aldermen by Alderman Uhlemeyer of the Fifteenth Ward, requiring motor vehicles used for transportation of passengers to be equipped, within 30 days after passage of the ordinance, with pneumatic tires of a size and design to be designated by the Board of Public Service.

Uhlemeyer's ward includes part of Russell boulevard and Shaw avenue, used by the People's Motor Bus Co. on its Lindenwood route, and there has been complaint that the solid tires of the busses damage the street surface. The ordinance, if passed, will apply to the entire city. Penalties for violations will be $25 to $500, and each day's operation will constitute a separate offense.

POLICE CHASE ENDS IN AUTO COLLISION

Five Hurt When Traffic Stop Violator Runs Into Another Machine.

Night riders of the Page Boulevard Police Station pursued an automobile which ignored an automatic traffic signal at 12:30 a. m. today and precipitated an automobile collision which resulted in the injury of five persons and the wrecking of two machines.

The fleeing driver, Jacob Rice, 36 years old, a merchant of 5342 Easton avenue, was badly cut and bruised, and his wife, Sarah Rice, 30, suffered skull fracture and other serious injuries. His son, William, 7, and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregg, were cut and bruised.

Rice was arrested on police court charges and declared the accident occurred because he was speeding to escape from the detectives, thinking they were holdup men.

The detectives, Robert J. Bourland and William Geisman, said Rice was driving his Essex sedan east on Maple avenue and turned left into Belt avenue when the signal read "Stop"—a double violation. They gave chase to Page boulevard, where Rice's machine crashed head on into the automobile of Fred Christman of 4225 College avenue. Christman's machine was overturned but he crawled from it unhurt. Both cars were wrecked and the five occupants of the Rice machine were taken to city hospital, where Rice was charged with careless driving, violating a traffic signal and making a left turn.

The detectives were in plain clothes and had no way of informing Rice of their identity. Bourland, nicknamed "Tex," is the detective who shot and killed "Monk" Young, a safe cracker, in a filling station at Cates and Hodiamont avenues, April 18 last, when he and Geisman surprised the safecracker at work.

WILLIAM H. MEPHAM DIES SUDDENLY ON THE STREET

Sponsored Plan to Bring I. C. Railroad to Downtown St. Louis Over Free Bridge.

William H. Mepham, one of the sponsors of a plan some years ago to bring the Illinois Southern Railroad to downtown St. Louis over the Free Bridge, fell dead yesterday at 4:15 p. m. at Broadway and Duchouquette street. He was 55 years old and was an agent in the Department of Internal Revenue.

Mepham was believed by relatives and friends to be in good health and only a few hours before his death had conversed with a gathering of friends downtown. He was standing alone on the corner of Broadway and Duchouquette street when he was seen to stagger and fall. He was picked up by a passing motorist and rushed to City Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

He was unmarried and lived at 2608 Gurney Court, the home of Mrs. Ida May Curtis, a sister. Three brothers also survive. They are: Edgar A., a District Tax Assessor, and Hampden, Jr., and Frank Mepham, all of St. Louis. Mepham's father, Hampden Mepham, was killed Nov. 16, 1921, when he was struck by an automobile.

PARIS TO RETAIN STADIUM AND POOL AT LES TOURELLES

Several Other Olympiad Buildings Will Be Presented for Use of Local Athletes.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The question of the final disposal of the expensive stadiums erected here for the recent Olympiad, asked many times last summer when the events were being contested, has now been answered.

The Colombes stadium will revert to the Racing Club of France, one of the most prosperous Rugby and soccer football institutions in the country, which advanced the 2,000,000 francs necessary to begin its construction when the funds appropriated by the Government were slow in materializing. It will be the scene of all the international rugby and soccer matches, as well as the fnals of the French football leagues. The dressing rooms, capable of housing 1500 athletes at one time, will be undisturbed.

The swimming pool and stadium at Les Tourelles will be administered by the city of Paris, which footed the bill for their construction. It remains as the most impressive and durable monument built in connection with the 1924 Olympic games. It is the present intention of the city to throw it open to the public three days a week during the summer months.

The tennis stands near the Colombes stadium will be scrapped. The installation was defective and found little favor with either players or spectators during the games. On the other hand, the swimming pool, the construction of which was abandoned by the Olympic Committee when they decided to use the city pool, is to be filled in and turned into a tennis court.

The expensive stands erected at Saint Cloud for the polo matches also will be torn down.

DOCTOR'S DIPLOMAS STOLEN

It looks like somebody who knows nothing about naprapathy or food chemistry is getting ready to practice both on the strength of Harris of 401 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis.

Dr. Harris is a graduate in both branches and until noon yesterday he had on the walls of his office diplomas certifying to that effect. The naprapathy sheepskin was issued by the American College of Naprapathy, Chicago, and the other by the Eugene Christian School of Applied Food Chemistry, New York. They were stolen while the doctor was at lunch. He reported it to the police.

Predicts Democratic Control.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Democratic control of both the House and Senate in the Congress was predicted by Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, an acting chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee in a statement made public yesterday by the Democratic National Committee. In the House he said the Democrats would have a majority of not less than 50.

GRAND-LEADER

Women's Thread-Silk Hose

Featured in a Special Selling at

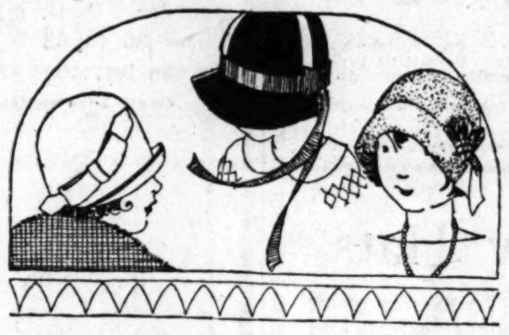
THIS offering should make a strong appeal to the woman who appreciates a good Hosiery value—for it offers Hose of pure-thread silk at a very low price. The Hose are made full fashioned, of very fine gauge, clear and even in weave—reinforced with mercerized lisle tops, double soles and high-spliced heels.

They are of a popular light weight—every pair is perfect, and there is a choice of black and new shades for Fall. Sizes 8½ to 10.

(Main Floor.)



Children's Felt Hats

$2.98 to $7

THE smartest models are represented in this collection of little Felt Hats for girls from six to fourteen years; in shapes and trimmings that rival big sister styles. These are pertly trimmed with felt bows, feathers or ribbons. The high crowns are shown almost exclusively and the brims are turned up, poke or rolled style. Black, brown and sand are the colors and these are the desired ones of the season.

(Millinery Department—Third Floor.)

Imported Beaded Bags

Offer Unusually Attractive Selection

$5.00

A BAG appropriate for afternoon or evening wear may be selected from this attractive assortment—for there is an unusually large variety of designs and color combinations. They are made by hand, with the designs carried out in luster beads—mounted on heavy filigree frames, and finished with dainty chain handles. Each one is nicely lined in a pastel shade.

Five hundred of these Bags have just been received in an import shipment, and are priced to afford unusually attractive values.

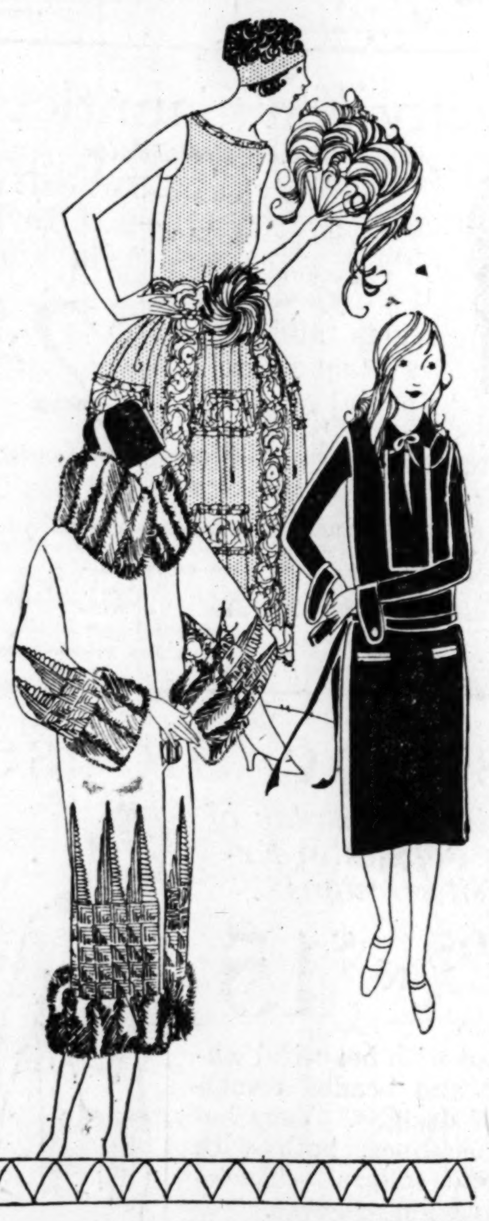
Misses' New Autumn Frocks

Youthful Modes for Street and Afternoon Wear



$35 to $75

THE Misses' Store presents a most engaging variety of smart Frocks in which to successfully meet the occasions of the new season—fashioned with the spirit and charm so expressive of their youthful wearers. The tailored street Frock appears in pencil-striped twill; for afternoon, Satins and bengalines are appealing with trimmings of lace, tucks and embroidery skillfully applied. Shown in the season's favorite shades. Sizes 14 to 20.

Misses' dainty Party Frocks, $35 to $145

Misses' Winter Coats, $55

A remarkable collection of smart Winter Coats for sport or dress wear. Fashioned of Mokine, veloria and other fabrics, luxurious with trimmings of opossum, marmot, sealine (dyed coney); in the new shadings—tan, brown, penny and green.

Other beautiful Winter Coats at $95 to $295

(Misses' Section—Third Floor)

Girls' Attractive Frocks

$19.75 to $35.00

The girl who chooses her new Frocks in the Jaunty Junior Section has a most attractive variety of styles for her selection. While all of the Dresses adhere to the prevailing straight line, some are tailored and others are effectively trimmed. The materials—plaids and stripes in serge, wool crepe, twillsheen and plain weaves in faille, are attractive in the new Fall shades. Sizes 12 to 17.

School Dresses, $5 to $12.75
Girls' Coats, $12.75 to $95

(Jaunty Junior Section—Third Floor)

Women's Smart Sports Coats $39.75 to $59.75

FOR business, town or country sport wear, nothing quite takes the place of the swagger Coat of the sports type. New models, constantly arriving, make our selection unusually attractive. New fabrics, shown to excellent advantage in plainly tailored models, are particularly appealing in rich Autumn tones. Other styles find individuality in trimmings of fur—squirrel, beaver, ringtail, opossum, marmot, civet cat and Hudson seal (dyed muskrat).

(Sports Center—Third Floor.)

Women's Beau Brummel Shirts

Very Specially Priced

BOY MAHARAJAH, 12, MOUNTS IVORY THRONE

Young Prince of Travancore Installed With Full Ceremony.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

MADRAS, Oct. 3.—The civil ceremony of the installation of Prince Chitira Tirumal as Maharajah of Travancore, and of the senior Rani, Setu Lakshmi Bayi, as Regent of Travancore took place last Monday before a large gathering of Europeans and Indians in the new Durbar Hall.

The young Maharajah—he is only 12 years old—was seated on an ivory throne used for many generations by the Rajahs. Overhead flew the banner pesrented to Travancore by Queen Victoria in 1877.

The British agent to the Governor General handed the velvet cap of sovereignty to the young Prince. Proclamations and royal speeches were followed by an artillery salute announcing the completion of the ceremony, after which there was a distribution of ceremonial gifts by the Maharajah.

The actual installation of the young heir to the throne of Travancore is a religious ceremony, owing to the fact that the ruler of Travancore holds the position as steward of the god Padmanabha, to whom the state was dedicated long ago.

The young Prince was taken to the palace in the morning, where ablutions and gifts to Grahmans were made. From the palace, the Prince was conducted to the Padmanabha Temple. He presented a young elephant to the temple, afterward worshiping there. He was then presented with the sword of state, crowned and acclaimed Maharajah with the title of Servant of Deity. He then visited other temples, accompanied by the Regent.

The new Maharajah is the great-grandnephew of the late ruler, Sir Rama Varma, who died on Aug. 9. Owing to a peculiar law of the country the late Maharajah's own children could not inherit the throne and the senior Rani is superior in status to the Maharajah's wife, who is simply Amachi, "the mother of his children." Setu Lakshmi Bayi, the new Regent, who is 28 years old, when a girl often arose at 3 a. m. and studied until the arrival of her English teacher at 7:30.

Travancore, in Southern India, has an area of 6730 square miles and a population of 3,000,000.

OIL PROMOTER ADMITS HE PROMISED 2400 PER CENT

Robert Chew, Charged With Fraud in Mails, Testifies His Wells Were Near Big Producers.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Oct. 3.—Robert Chew, youthful Eldorado, Ark., oil promoter, testified in Federal District Court here yesterday in his trial on a mail fraud charge that promises made in his advertisements, one of which promised investors 2400 per cent return, were made in good faith and that he fully expected to fulfill them.

Chew testified that his oil well locations were near the big producers in the Southern Arkansas fields and that he had reason to believe he could "strike" as well as the others.

Chew identified exhibits introduced by the Government as true copies of the advertisements. He declared he was forced to the wall by the drilling of off-set wells near his producers in compliance with what he said was legal requirements designed to protect those from whom leases were made. Many of the off-set wells proved non-paying, Chew said, and he was forced to sell out several times, at a loss.

He testified that he authorized all of the advertisements sent out of his office, but that they had first been submitted to J. K. Mahoney, an attorney of Eldorado, who, after reading them struck out all portions of the advertisement that promised things he did not believe could be carried out. This Mahoney, later as a witness corroborated.

Chew testified that he had chased "rainbows" in the Arkansas oil fields—always in the hope of finding for himself and stockholders, "the pot of gold at the end," but invariably met with disappointments.

KLAN LEADERS FOUND GUILTY

West Virginian One of 17 Indicted for Attack on Negro.

FAIRMOUNT, W. Va., Oct. 3.—James A. Landis, said to be chairman of a committee of the Fairmont Ku Klux Klan, was found guilty of conspiracy in connection with an assault upon Daniel Washington, a negro, in a verdict returned by a jury last night. Indictments upon similar charges have been returned against 15 other men and one woman. Washington testified that he was lured to a lonely spot and attacked by a band of hooded and robed men, shot and left in a swamp. Mrs. Olive Brown, one of the defendants, testified of plans made to have her lead Washington to the spot.

World War Veteran Dies.

Effects of gas which he suffered during the World War, yesterday caused the death in the Veterans' Hospital at Elgin, Ill., of Ernest Bridges, 31 years old, of Belleville. The body will be sent to Belleville for interment. The funeral will be Saturday under the auspices of the George E. Hilgard Post, American Legion.

PROGRESS MADE IN CAMPAIGN FOR AMENDMENT NO. 7

Representatives of 40 Civic Organizations Hear Reports on City-County Merger Proposal.

$21,000 IN SIGHT TO FINANCE WORK

Amendment, to Be Voted On Nov. 4, Would Permit Naming of Board to Draft Merger Plan.

Progress in the campaign for the constitutional amendment to enable partial or full merger of St. Louis and St. Louis County—amendment No. 7, to be voted on at the election Nov. 4,—was reported at a meeting of representatives of about 40 civic organizations at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

The amendment, to be voted on throughout the State, simply would permit the appointment of a board of freeholders, equally representative of city and county, which would draw up some plan of merger, subject to approval at separate elections in cit-y and county.

F. W. A. Vesper, chairman of the Metropolitan Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, presided. Charles E. Williams, chairman of the finance subcommittee, reported on the finances for carrying on the campaign to inform the voters of the State about the amendment. Officers think $21,000 is "in sight" for the fund, but are calling for more work by committee members to assure enough money. The Board of Aldermen is expected to pass an ordinance today appropriating $10,000 for the fund, provided an equal amount is raised otherwise. Donations of $500 by William Waltke and $100 each by Otto F. Karbe and Samuel Rosenfeld were announced. The Associated Retailers will give $5000 if the fund will be brought thereby to a sufficient total.

A motion was passed by the committee, requesting every civic and commercial organization in the city and county to adopt a resolution indorsing the amendment and pledging support of its members.

Headquarters for the campaign have been opened at 1508 Federal Reserve Bank Building. A speakers' bureau has been organized with Walter B. Weisenburger as chairman. Mercantile companies have been requested to have their traveling men explain the amendment to voters in the State and distribute "literature" about it. Approval of the amendment is contained in both the Democratic and Republican State platforms, it was pointed out, and newspapers are supporting it. Support of all candidates and committeemen of the major parties has been asked, and favorable replies are being received.

The Metropolitan Committee will meet again next Thursday noon.

AMBASSADORSHIPS ON MERIT BASIS, FORECAST BY HUGHES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Ultimate development of the American foreign service to the point where even the highest diplomatic post, that of Ambassador, will be open to men who rise on merit through the lesser positions in the service, is forecast by Secretary Hughes, in an address before the Foreign Service Association, made public at the State Department.

The association is the consolidation of the two similar organizations previously maintained by State Department officers and officials, one for the consular and one for the diplomatic group within the department.

Referring to the action of Congress in opening many grades in the foreign service to merit promotion under the Rogers bill, Hughes said that this should not stop with the specified grades, but that "a large proportion of our legation posts" should be filled in the service. To do this, he said, the service "must achieve a solid reputation," which it could only do by unwavering attention to "the little things that count more than anything else in establishing the service in popular reputation."

"I feel that our highest posts, those of Ambassadors, will in time be largely filled by men coming up through the legations," Hughes said. "That is the end to be achieved, to have a career that goes through to the top, and it can be done if we have the feeling through the country that this service is not merely worthy because of its objects or because of the capacity of certain of its members, but because the whole service is instinct with energy and strength and is fortified by sound preparation through thorough training."

Japanese-German Treaty Proposed.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—It is now learned Japan has requested Germany to open negotiations with Japan for a commercial agreement based on favored nation treatment for both countries. A similar suggestion made by Germany to Japan a year ago was not accepted.

PROPOSED PLAN FOR COTTON FUTURES TRADING PROTESTED

Senator Dial Says Texas Delivery Standard Would Mean Heavy Loss to Farmer.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Senator Dial, Democrat of South Carolina, announced yesterday that he would try to stop the proposal of the Chicago Board of Trade to deal in cotton futures for delivery at Galveston or Houston, on the ground that it would demoralize the market. Beginning of trading is set for Oct. 10.

Senator Dial has lodged a protest with the Department of Agriculture, declaring that such delivery would be illegal and requested that the department, under the cotton futures act, refuse to sanction the rules of the exchange. Should the law be construed to permit this delivery, the Senator said he would attempt to have the law amended to prevent it.

The place of delivery affects the price of a contract, Senator Dial said, and, if cotton sold on the Cotton Exchange can be delivered in Texas, that price would act as a standard to affect the price of cotton at any point in the United States. He declared this would mean a lower price and the loss of millions of dollars by the farmers. Senator Dial wants cotton traded in on the Chicago Exchange to be delivered in Chicago.

Overdue Yacht Arrives.

By the Associated Press.

GREENPORT, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The auxiliary steam yacht Seadrift, owned by C. B. Somerville of Los Angeles, has arrived here 13 days overdue, on her maiden trip from Cowes, England. The yacht had 11 passengers, including a number of wealthy Californians.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

CHICAGO BANKER SUGGESTS LOWER WAGES FOR LABOR

George Woodruff Tells Convention Reduction of Freight Rates and Cost of Living Would Follow.

MUST HELP EUROPE, T. B. M'ADAMS SAYS

Only a Step From "Dawes to Dawn," Former President of Association Declares.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.— A note of confidence in the business future of the next few years, with a word of caution about the part the bankers must play, was sounded at the closing session of the American Bankers' Association convention yesterday by George Woodruff of Chicago.

"Now that we are a creditor nation," said Woodruff, "the purchase of foreign investments is essential, in order that our tariff may continue to operate to our advantage. Foreign purchasers can only repay us in gold, goods or securities. They have no gold. We do not care for much of their goods in competition with our own, so we must accept their securities, so they can pay their debts to us in American dollars.

Impending Changes.

"It would seem as though our leading banks should attempt to inform labor of the impending economic changes and to explain the probable difficulties of the next five or 10 years, but at the same time to state how by an understanding of the difficulties and the exercising of good common sense on the part of our people prosperity may be retained.

"If the problems before us are carefully explained to and thoroughly understood by labor, we may be able to reduce wages without waiting for a great business reaction to compel this readjustment. Such a readjustment should lead to a prompt reduction of freight rates, fuel costs and manufacturing expenses.

Steady Work for Labor.

"The result will be steady work for labor and the lower costs all around will bring down the cost of living to offset the lower wage.

Thomas Branch McAdams, of Richmond, Va., former president of the association said:

"From a cold business standpoint we find ourselves a nation with $10,000,000,000 of past due and unfunded accounts receivable. What chance have we to collect this principal or interest unless we assist in the rebuilding of the business of our debtors, that they may be restored both in spirit and financial strength to such an extent as will enable them to make a satisfactory settlement? Unless we stabilize industry abroad may it again become normal?

"If the League Fails."

"Yet it is not a far cry from Dawes to dawn. The Dawes plan may become in reality the dawn of a new era, if America will but take her place at the side of other nations in carrying forward the work of the world in the day now breaking.

"If the League or Nations fails in its infancy, we have no alternative but to return to the old order. * * *

"World chaos includes the United States, no matter how isolated we conceive ourselves to be.

"Fortunately the league is ont a vital issue in the pending poltical campaign. Its merits and demerits can therefore be considered dispassionately and apart from party obligations. * * *

"We are forced to recognize that it is an organization definitely functioning at the present time as an international body."

LEWIS SEES CHANCE FOR DAVIS

Former Senator Says Strength Grows as Cleveland's Did.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARYVILLE, Mo., Oct. 3.—Former Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, who addressed a Democratic rally here yesterday, said in an interview regarding the presidential campaign that at this time it was "anybody's fight." However, he said, Davis' strength was gaining steadily, "just as Grover Cleveland's did."

Lewis, Dr. A. W. Nelson, Democratic nominee for the governorship; Mrs. Kate Morrow, candidate for Secretary of State; O. J. Jones, candidate for Attorney-General, and John McDaniels, congressional candidate, addressed several thousand persons at the Nodaway farm and school show. Dr. Nelson said he would vote for good roads proposition No. 5, "the same of thousands of other Democrats." Republican candidates speak here today.

Burglar Steals 60 Canaries.

Tailored Ideas Invade Fall Footwear Modes
$10
A decided preference for tailored severity is evidenced in the new Footwear for Fall. Patent leather and calf skin pumps choose either a single strap or appear innocent of adornment, in opera or tailored style. Satin, too, favors simplicity.
The sketch above illustrates the new patent leather one-strap with high-spike heel. It also makes a very smart appearance with a low military heel.

Headquarters for the St. Louis Miss
Shirley Deane
Last week I started to elaborate on the great variety and extremely interesting character of misses' apparel, but found I had so much to tell about the beauty and moderate prices of evening dresses that I was forced to say "continued in our next." So today I will proceed to the daytime Frocks for misses, and tell you about the clever models in Sports Frocks.
Candy Stripes
—run up and down and around, too, in some stunning new flannel Dresses that have just arrived. They are very clever, with double Dutch collars, and long sleeves, and a finely pleated apron front where the stripes run across. Other flannel Frocks are in solid colors, some with smart kid monograms, and some with suede belts, in the new wide width. There are tailored, straightline jerseys, and a number of knitted Frocks, particularly happy for out-of-door sports. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 are all well represented, and prices are from $16.75 to $25.
(Inexpensive Dress Section—Fourth Floor.)
And Now About the Beauty Shop
First I want to say that the location is perfectly ideal. It's so convenient and so quiet, and so secluded! But of course what everyone is most anxious to know about a new Beauty Shop is the operators. Every barber, every operator is an expert at his work—or her work, as the case may be. The barbers are Eastern barbers—men; the permanent waver is, without doubt, a marvel—and all have been selected because of long experience and careful training. The equipment is the newest, the finest, so voila! What more could anyone ask?
(Mezzanine Floor.)

Hats for Junior Girls
A large assortment of children's and misses' Hats includes clever dress models of duvetyne, broadcloth and combination materials, trimmed with streamers, hand embroideries, ostrich bands and fur.
$2.45 to $15
School Hats in wide variety, $1.95 to $5.95
(Children's Hat Shop—Second Floor.)

Misses' Street & Party Frocks
An ever-new and interesting variety of daytime and evening Frocks considers every need and taste of the fastidious miss. The bouffant skirt with short, semi-fitting basque, so becoming to slender lines, is shown in many versions.
$16.75 to $75
(Dress Shop—Fourth Floor.)

Misses' Nobby Tailored Suits
The school and college miss and the business woman find almost daily use for the Tailored Suit. And its smartness and chic in combination with a tailored blouse cannot be denied. It is featured here in navy twill, with 38 or 40 inch coat.
$25 to $75
(Suit Shop—Third Floor.)

Misses' Fur-Trimmed Coats
Sizes 13, 14, 16 and 18 are specially provided in a wide selection of Winter Coats for misses and smaller women. In the newest fabrics, luxuriously fur trimmed, they are developed only in styles that are becoming to youthful lines.
$45 to $295
(Coat Shop—Third Floor.)

Metallic Trims Find Favor in Fall Millinery
New models, added daily to our extensive collection of Five-Dollar Hats, show a tendency to bright, metallic effects, through the introduction of gold and silver cloths and metallic laces.
Drooping brims, pokes, brims that turn up, that appear only to disappear again, and high crowns are shown in every conceivable new style, in Hats that are fairly irresistible.

SUBURBAN LINE'S DIVORCE FROM U. R. CONSIDERED

Bondholders' Committee May Ask Court to Turn Property Over for Separate Operation.

A separation of the old Suburban line properties from the United Railways system appeared as a possibility today, when the Suburban Bondholders' Protective Committee took the position that, unless the new reorganization plan for the U. R. agreed to guarantee payment of the $6,500,000 Suburban issue, the bondholders would ask the Federal Court to turn their property over to them for independent operation.

The latest plan of the Reorganization Committee offered to pay off $2,000,000 in Suburban bonds immediately, take up an additional $1,000,000 in annual payments of $100,000 for 10 years, and allow the remaining $3,500,000 to be extended upon maturity or be refinanced.

The Suburban committee has declined the offer on the ground that the United Railways did not guarantee payment of the Suburban bonds, although they constituted a first mortgage on the Suburban lines. These lines are the present Hodiamont, Sarah, Union, Manchester west of Sarah, Meramec and Kirkwood-Ferguson lines of the United Railways.

Prepared to Operate.

"We would hesitate to segregate the properties," the Suburban Bondholders' Committee announced today, "but the protection of our investment demands that we do so if the Reorganization Committee refuses to become obligor on the bonds. We are prepared to operate the lines and can do so."

There is pending in Federal Court an application for appointment of a separate receiver for the Suburban properties, and a request that the Court turn them over to the bondholders. Hitherto, it had been regarded merely as a formal step.

Herman Stifel, chairman of the Suburban committee, said the plan proposed by the Reorganization Committee was inadequate.

"The sinking fund payment of $100,000 a year for 10 years is inadequate," he said, "and the payment of interest on the new $4,500,000 Suburban bonds is not provided for, notwithstanding the fact that the United Railways proposes to take over the properties and operate them.

"The plan to retire $2,000,000 Suburban consolidated bonds, and issue new bonds on the Suburban properties in discharge of the general mortgage bonds, is not objectionable, provided acceptable provisions be made for the payment of interest, the creation of an adequate sinking fund and the execution of new bonds and mortgage by a satisfactory obligor."

Negotiations are left open for the Reorganization Committee to amend the first offer. In some circles it is thought that the committee will stand upon this proposition and let the court pass upon the fairness of it.

The Reorganization Committee contends that it is unfair on the part of the Suburban bondholders to ask that the reorganized company guarantee the bonds, for the reason that, as a guaranteed bondholder and secured creditor, it would put the Suburbans ahead of the new preferred stock to be issued to Transit bondholders in an adjustment of their bonds.

It is pointed out that the Transit bonds are a lien senior to the Suburbans on all property other than Suburban property. It is pointed out that the Transit owners, by agreeing to the payment of $2,000,000 Suburban bonds immediately and an additional $1,000,000 in 10 years, have agreed to place 46 per cent of the Suburban indebtedness ahead of their securities thus far.

In so far as the guarantee of interest payments are concerned, the Reorganization Committee pointed out that, unless the interest is paid, the Suburban bondholders can take the property in better position than today, as at least $2,000,000 of the bonds will have been bought in at par.

Lines Fail to Earn Interest.

A statement issued by the Reorganization Committee says that, for the past three years, the Suburban lines have failed by an average of $172,217 annually, to earn the interest on the $6,500,000 outstanding bonds. The deficit in 1923 was $99,133 and in 1921 was $243,908, according to the statement. The annual fixed charges under the bond issue amount to $385,000. The annual average net earnings for the past three years are given in the statement as $212,783.

FIRST DIVISION MEN MEET TO HONOR DEAD

President to Speak at Memorial Dedication in Capitol—Reunion Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Veterans who fought in France with the First Division were gathering today in Washington in preparation for the divisional and regimental reunions tonight which will precede the exercises tomorrow at the unveiling of the memorial to their war dead. It was expected that 10,000 or more First Division men, of the more than 60,000 whose names were on the rolls of the famous battle organization in France, would be present tomorrow to participate in the ceremonies.

A three-day program will occupy the veterans, with the dedication of the monument as its chief feature. President Coolidge will deliver the address of dedication, and Private Dan R. Edwards, who won both the Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross for displays of extraordinary valor in action, will unveil the memorial.

Navy Plays Host.

The navy plays host to the veterans today, taking them down the Potomac to Mount Vernon On their return the various regimental and other organizations included in the division were scheduled to meet, preparatory to a divisional reunion at night.

Seven years ago today the First Division was preparing to enter the battle line in the Luneville sector, the first American troops to come in actual contact with he enemy in he World War. It moved into position Oct. 21, 1917, and, two days later, Battery C, Sixth Light Artillery, fired the first shot in the struggle for Pershing's troops. On Nov. 3 three men of the Eighteenth Infantry were killed in a German raiding attack, the first American soldiers to give their lives, and the first German prisoner to fall into American hands was captured.

To aid in the dedication ceremonies, the War Department brought to Washington from northern posts a composite regiment from the Sixteenth and Eighteenth Infantry which now, as during the war, compose the First Brigade, First Division. The Sixth Artillery also was brought to the capital for the ceremonies, although it was impossible to bring the other units of the division, the Twenty-sixth and Twenty-eighth Infantry, and the Fifth and Seventh Artillery. The regulars, supported by the troops of the District of Columbia, will form the military escort of the veterans now out of the service, who also will march tomorrow.

5586 Members Killed.

At Luneville and through the fighting at Cantigny, Soissons, St. Mihiel, the Argonne and Sedan, the First Division lost 5586 men killed. Its total casualties were five times that number, and it counted the prisoners and guns and war materials it captured in the thousands.

STOLEN VEGETABLES UNLOADED

Grocer Finds Unordered Consignment in Front of Store.

When Konstant Jurczly, grocer, at 2400 Elliot avenue, started to open his place of business yesterday morning he found a load of tomatoes, sweet potatoes, spinach, radishes, and an automobile tire on the sidewalk awaiting him. He hadn't ordered anything of the kind so he called the police.

Visitor Tells of Being Robbed.

Lee Simms, 38 years old, who came here from Chicago to visit a sister on Park avenue, was found by policemen yesterday wandering in the vicinity of 8100 Ivory avenue. After a rest, he stated he had left a train at Union Station at 9 p. m. Wednesday and had started to walk to his sister's home. Near Eighteenth street and Park avenue two men in a Ford, he said, had given him a lift. He said after he got in the machine they compelled him to drink a bottle they produced. He remembered little after that. When the police found him he was minus his grip with all his clothes and $80 which he had, he said, when he got off the train.

500 Bottles of Beer Seized.

Five hundred quart bottles filled with beer, 400 empty quarts, a bottle capper, four 12-gallon buckets and four one-gallon buckets were found by police at 9 o'clock last night in a house at 3334 Washington boulevard. Five men in the house were held for investigation.

SANFORD ON STAND SHEDS TEARS AT MENTION OF WIFE

Breaks Down Three Times in Referring to Surrender of Wife's Farm Following Bank Failure.

CASE EXPECTED TO GO TO JURY TODAY

Defendant Admits Authorship of "Cat and Dog" Notes and That He Placed "Accommodation Notes" in Assets.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WARSAW, Mo., Oct. 3.—The case on trial in Circuit Court here, in which Ed L. Sanford, president of the Holland Banking Co., of Springfield, Mo., which failed last June 15 with a loss to depositors of about $2,000,000, is expected to go to the jury today, testimony having been concluded last night.

Sanford, the last witness for the defense, admitted authorship of most of the "cat and dog" notes in the Holland bank about which there has been much discussion, and admitted that he had withdrawn a number of them and substituted other notes in the bank's note case on Sunday, Jan. 13, two days before the bank was closed by its directors. He also admitted having placed $50,000 of "accommodation notes" in the assets of the bank to replace that quantity of real notes which were given to J. L. Hine and C. E. E. Randall of Springfield as a bonus at the time they had sold their controlling interest in the Holland to Sanford in the spring of 1922. He said that he had intended to charge off these accommodation notes out of earnings or profits of the bank, as the notes which had been given to Hine and Randall were worthless, he believed.

Sanford Shed Tears.

Sanford's attorneys, however, in their direct examination did not refer to changes in the records of the bank, which Mrs. Zula B. Murphy, general bookkeeper for the institution, had testified that she had made at Sanford's direction, so the State was prohibited from going into those matters on cross-examination. Hence they stand uncontroverted.

Sanford talked freely, even arguing at times with Special Assistant Attorney-General Roscoe C. Patterson who conducted the cross examination.

Three different times Sanford broke down and shed tears as his testimony involved reference to his wife and the fact that the bank's collapse had made it necessary for them to give up a fine farm near Springfield which he had given to her.

The banker insisted throughout that he believed the Holland was solvent at the time it closed and "still believe it for that matter," he said.

Believed Bank Solvent.

The theory of the defense has been throughout that Sanford did not believe the bank was insolvent. The charge against him is having consented to the acceptance of deposits knowing the bank was in a failing condition.

Toward the close of his testimony Sanford declared that he believed the other officials of the bank were honest and efficient and asserted that he had approved all of their acts. He said that in his opinion Hine and Randall had done more effective work for the depositors of the Holland during their administration in 1921 than anyone else could have done.

The State used only three rebuttal witnesses briefly last night, Finance Commissioner Millspaugh, H. B. McDaniel, a banker of Springfield, and J. W. Brownlow, a Springfield business man and former business associate of Sanford.

ZR-3 TO CARRY 200 POUNDS OF MAIL ON ATLANTIC TRIP

Stamp Collectors and Americans Abroad Eager to Send Letters by New Air Route.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Sept. 14.—In her flight across the Atlantic the ZR-3 will carry 200 pounds of mail which has accumulated in the Friedrichshafen post office since last July, when the German postal authorities made the first announcement that post cards and letters might be sent to North and South America and Canada by the dirigible route. The mail will be made up chiefly of cards and letters sent at the request of the collectors of postage stamps. In many instances Americans in Germany have sent letters addressed to themselves.

One letter has been addressed and stamped with the purpose of reaching San Francisco in record time. It will travel on the ZR-3 to Lakehurst, N. J., and there be transferred to the United States postal authorities for the transcontinental air service. This letter, sent by Alphonse Boutin, chief yeoman in the U. S. Navy, to a friend, Otto von Geldern, a construction engineer in San Francisco, carried German stamps at one end and American postage at the other, with a request to the post-office department to expedite it. It is estimated that this letter may reach its destination, roughly 7000 miles, in six or seven days.

PEACE PALACE GAVEL STOLEN

Souvenir Hunters Believed Responsible for Recent Depredation.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 15. — Even the hallowed precincts of Andrew Carnegie's Peace Palace are not safe from the depredations of souvenir hunters, it seems, for it has become known that the presidential gavel has been stolen from the council table of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

The gavel is artistically carved of ebony, and about 12 inches long. It was presented to the court by the Senate of Leyden University in 1922. It has been missing since Aug. 26, and information leading to its recovery is requested by The Hague Chief of Police.

RATE INCREASE SUSPENDED

I. C. C. Order Affects Towns in in Southern Missouri.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 3.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has granted a suspension of increased class rates into Kansas and Southern Missouri towns, which were to have become effective Oct. 1, according to word received by W. H. Fitzpatrick, traffic commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce.

The State Public Service Commission on its own initiative suspended the interstate advances from St. Louis, St. Joseph and Kansas City, but owing to the fact that the routes from St. Louis and Kansas City are all interstate routes into Southern Missouri, the action of the Public Service Commission did not affect the [illegible] from these points. In all probability a hearing will take place in one of the Southern Missouri towns.

DAVIS CANCELS KANSAS CITY AND WICHITA SPEAKING DATES

St. Louis Speech Oct. 18. Only One He Will Make West of the Mississippi.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 3.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, has cancelled his speaking engagements for Kansas City, Oct. 15; Springfield, Mo., Oct. 16, and Wichita, Kan., Oct. 17. This announcement was made by W. T. Kemper, Democratic National Committeeman from Missouri, who returned yesterday from Washington, where he conferred with Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, director of the Davis campaign itinerary.

Kemper said Davis has decided to spend the time allotted for the three cancelled dates in campaigning in Illinois.

Davis' speech scheduled for Oct. 18, at St. Louis, will be the only one he will make west of the Mississippi, according to presents plans, Kemper said.

Ninth Prize Letter

September 16, 1924.

Thomas W. Garland,
409 N. Broadway,
Saint Louis.

Gentlemen:

"Why I buy all of my apparel at Garland's!"

When I came to St. Louis to reside I called at Garland's and was welcomed by efficient, courteous and trained salesladies and department heads, and was given plenty of time in which to make my selection, without being urged to purchase something against my wish. The Credit Department opened an account for me willingly and I was made to feel that Garland's was the ideal place for me to shop. This was ten years ago, and I am still buying all of my apparel at Garland's, still feeling that I, personally, am interested in Garland's, and that they, personally, are interested in me as a customer.

The line of merchandise displayed by Garland's is up-to-date and moderately priced. There is something always to be found there to suit the need of the business woman as well as the society debutante, and the same careful consideration is given to the one as to the other.

In my position, I am constantly meeting out-of-town ladies, who ask me where to buy garments, and I have no hesitancy in sending them to Garland's.

Yours sincerely,
Miss E. N. Leake,
American Hotel, Public Stenographer,
St. Louis.

OLIVE ST. WIDENING NOTICES PREPARED

Estimate Board Directs Payment of $1,942,604 to Court in Escrow.

Notice is being prepared in the City Counselor's office to property owners on the south side of Olive street, between Twelfth boulevard and Channing avenue, that immediate steps will be taken to move buildings back 40 feet in accordance with the plan to make Olive street a 100-foot wide thoroughfare between those points.

The first step was taken today by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment when it directed the Counselor's office to arrange for payment of $1,942,604 to the Circuit Court in escrow which property owners affected will receive as a result of a special commission's report of the damage to this property in the widening.

Counselor's Opinion.

The money is being paid to the Court under an opinion of the City Counselor, which holds that condemnation of property may proceed immediately if the amount of the damages is held in escrow by the Circuit Court. This, the opinion holds, will eliminate delays in acceptances and appeals.

The total damage assessed against the property is $2,349,507, but this is offset by $406,903 which the commission decided represented the amount the property in question would be benefited by the widening.

Advance money for street openings such as this was raised through a $3,000,000 bond issue for street widenings and openings, a portion of the recent $87,000,000 issue. The money now advanced to the Circuit Court eventually will be returned to the city in part by an assessment of $1,857,130 which other property owners in the benefited district will have to pay. In addition the city takes from the treasury $492,377 to apply to this fund.

Request to Court.

The Circuit Court has been requested to consider the matter in general term and assign one Judge to the work of hearing all cases arising out of the widening.

The Comptroller's office will send the notice to the property owners affected, pointing out that the property will be taken over as soon as possible and that the city will either pay for the cost of moving the buildings back or will do it for the owner. Whether the city will have its own employes handle the situation or award contracts has not been decided.

Mayor Kiel said the city should proceed immediately to the widening, as property on Olive street is being tied up and even if the city lost interest on the money, it should be willing to take its loss to get the project under way.

Fish Dealer Arrested.

Joseph Lasky, proprietor of a fish market at 1314 Biddle street, was arrested by Deputy Game Warden Wiemeyer today on a charge of offering undersized sunfish for sale. According to Wiemeyer, Lasky attempted to sell him sunfish less than six inches long in violation of the State law. A warrant will be applied for tomorrow.

WINE SEIZED IN CHICAGO RAID

Junk Dealer Is Held as "Go-Between" for Fake Congregations.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—David Wexler, junk dealer, was in custody today, charged by Federal officers with being a "go-between" in sacramental wine deals now under investigation. His junk business was used as a blind, Government agents said, to cover operations as an intermediary between fake congregations and societies and wine bootleggers, wine wholesalers and prohibition agents illegally selling wine withdrawal permits. He was arrested after agents questioned wholesale wine agents and congregation officials for hours.

A distributing store of one congregregation was raided yesterday and 450 gallons of wine seized.

San Marino Immigrants Let In.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Every nation in Europe, no matter how diminutive, is entitled to its own quota of immigrants to this country, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals decided today, in directing that six citizens of the tiny republic of San Marino, located within the borders of Italy, be admitted to the United States. The Court ruled that San Marino is a nation separate and distinct from Italy, which entirely surrounds it, basing its action on the ground that the immigration authorities have no power to group the small nations of Europe and designate them as "Other Europe," and establish a blanket quota for them.

Earth at Feeding Limit Population in 300 Years

So Says German Scientist Who Figures Greatest Density Will Be in Fertile Tropics.

By radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1924.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—Within some 300 years the maximum number of inhabitants the Earth can support will walk its surface—if the standard of increase of the 20th century continues.

But most of the people will not live where the present population is most dense, but in the more fertile tropics. The United States, Europe and Asia must cede the palm to Africa and to South America, for a large part of the future of the world lies in the Latin-American countries.

This is the content of a report which Prof. Albert Penck, noted geologist, who has been an exchange professor in America and is a well-known contributor to American geological publications, has just submitted to the Prussian Academy.

Basing his calculations on the minimum living standards of Prof. Max Rubner, Herr Penck has long been making an exhaustive study of the flora and fauna of the world and has come to certain definite conclusions.

Population Earth Can Feed.

He figures that the Earth can, when properly cultivated, nourish eight billion human beings, or five times the present population. The rapid exhaustion of the coal and iron supplies makes it possible that traveling will become more difficult and will mean that most of these inhabitants must live on or near the source of their livelihood.

The future belongs to the tropics, using the word in the climatic and not in the strictly geographical sense. Today the tropics have only 28 per cent of humanity; tomorrow they will be the most populated regions. The United States and the British empire then must occupy secondary places.

Nations' Feeding Capacity.

America, it appears, can nourish some 600,000,000, and the British empire the same number, distributed thus among its various parts: Great Britain, 30,000,000; Canada, 60,000,000; South Africa, 60,000,000, and Australia, 450,000,000.

Brazil alone can provide food and other meals for 1,200,000,000.

China, despite its dense population, can support many more humans than Russia or the United States.

Today Europe and Asia contain four-fifths of the world's population. Within 300 years they will house only one-fourth.

Great emigrations toward and a tremendous increase of people in the tropical regions, therefore, can be expected. Prof. Penck considers the increase of human life to the extreme limits of possibility preferable to Malthusian methods.

GOV. BLAINE'S CAMPAIGN TOUR

He Will Speak in St. Louis and Also in East.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Announcement was made today that Gov. Blaine of Wisconsin would campaign in the Middle West and East for the La Follette-Wheeler ticket, speaking in Detroit Oct. 13; Cleveland, Oct. 14; Baltimore, Oct 15; Boston, Oct. 16; Newark, N. J. Oct. 17; New York, Oct. 18. Philadelphia, Oct. 19; Pittsburg, Oct. 20; Cincinnati, Oct. 21; St. Louis, Oct. 22, and Chicago, Oct. 23.

"Gov. Blaine," said the announcement issued at La Follette headquarters, "is going to tell the story of La Follette in Wisconsin. He will give the facts in the evolution of that progressive commonwealth and give the lie to the Republican propaganda which attempts to pin the 'red' tag on Senator La Follette by a recital of the achievements that are k men and women of Sena lette's home state."

Tries Kellogg's Bran—restores health after 12 years of intense suffering

Mr. Firth writes that he suffered for 12 years from constipation and his friend for 10 years—a total of 22 years' suffering permanently relieved by Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

Gentlemen:

For 12 years I had been troubled with indigestion caused mostly by constipation. Until about a year ago, I would suffer from 4 to 20 weeks at a time.

I happened to see your Krumbled Bran in a store, purchased a package and got almost immediate relief. I am still eating the Krumbled Bran every day.

The most wonderful results obtained with your Krumbled Bran I will now relate. A gentleman who has been taking medicine for about 10 years for constipation could not find anything to give him relief. Three weeks ago I advised him to try Krumbled Bran, as I had told him what wonderful results I had gotten from it. The gentleman in question purchased a box, and he told me that for the first time in 'ten years he is regular without taking medicine.

Yours for success,
William Firth, Jr., 56 Volan St.,
Merchantville, N. J.

Eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. The flavor is delicious. Try it in the recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

ICE FUND BENEFIT CONCERT ON SUNDAY

Requests for Favorite Selections at Missouri Theater Should Be Mailed Before Monday.

Requests for favorite selections to be played at the second pop symphony concert at the Missouri Theater on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 12, should be sent to Director Joseph Littau in care of the Missouri Theater, not later than next Monday. This will permit sufficient rehearsal time for the Missouri Theater Orchestra, which has been augmented to 34 members for these concerts, the first of which will be given Sunday at 3:30 o'clock. Four of the concerts will be given, the last three to be composed of requested numbers, and the proceeds will be given to the Post-Dispatch Free Ice for Babies Milk Fund to make up the $1400 needed to completely finance the past summer's work among tenement children.

The concerts, which will occupy the hour between 3:30 and 4:30 o'clock, will be given as a part of the second regular Sunday afternoon de luxe show at the Grand avenue theater, and next Sunday will include the feature presentation, "Her Love Story," starring Gloria Swanson and another De Forrest phonofilm, the latter reproducing addresses by President Coolidge and John W. Davis. The usual admission prices will be charged. Station K S D will broadcast all musical numbers.

A list of the orchestra's repertoire, which was printed yesterday, is herewith reprinted for convenient reference in making up a program of favorites. This should be mailed to Director Littau as soon as possible. The repertoire includes:

William Tell, Il Trovatore, Poet and Peasant, Selections from Sweethearts, Faust, Humoresque, Pagliacci, Tannhauser, Blossom Time, If I Were King, Martha, Carmen, Second Rhapsody, Light Cavalry, Rigoletto, Glow Worm, Bohemian Girl, Norwegian Echo, Sextette from Lucia, Lakantala, Fifth Nocturne, Nightingale, Zampa, Red Mill, March of the Toys, Raymond, Orpheus, Peer Gynt Suite, Aida, Dance of the Hours, Meditation from Thais, Chocolate Soldier.

AGRICULTURE SWINGS TOWARD PAR, SAYS FEDERAL EXPERT

Conditions Throughout Country Better Than in Last Five Years, Economist Asserts.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Department of Agriculture made public today a report from A. B. Genung, agricultural economist for the department, declaring that agriculture is swinging toward par and not in five years has the United States presented so nearly a picture of balanced prosperity as now. The report was made after he had returned from a tour of the leading agricultural sections of the country.

"Go into the South this fall and you will be impressed with its prosperity," Genung said. "Last year went a long way to wipe out the pressing burden of indebtedness. Another cotton crop, bringing $1,500,000,000 cash, plus a fairly good season for truck crops, potatoes, rice and small fruits, will put the South into a very comfortable position. General sentiment throughout the region is distinctly optimistic.

"Farmers in the corn belt are in better spirits than for four years—not so much from any great increase in income as from a feeling that the stage is being set for better times. At last the hog situation is coming out from its burden of overproduction. Corn prices are up and the expectation is that hog prices are going to ride at higher levels during the coming year. The corn outlook is bad enough. Frosts have hit the North. A heavy percentage of corn will certainly be soft and one of the corn belt's real farm management problems this fall is how best to dispose of the soft corn. Notwithstanding the poor corn crop, the Central States are obviously breathing easier than they have along back.

"The wheat belt is in infinitely better shape than for four years. Yields are splendid, the crop of high quality, and prices improved just at harvest. In the Western spring wheat territory, where none have had a new pair of shoes since the winter of 1919-20, there is particular rejoicing. Men are inclined once more to regard the wheat country as good property.

"Men and growers of grain and many irrigated crops are in very fair shape. The cattle situation remains an enigma. It has been a four-year story of liquidation which still continues. In spite of this there are a lot of cattle left in the range country."

Court Upholds Chicago Boulevard.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Chicago's biggest boulevard project was under way today as workmen resumed demolition of buildings in the path of a widened and double-decked South Water street, site for years of the wholesale produce markets. Hopes of commission merchants to delay the work until a new market place is provided centered today on an appeal in the Superior Court for an injunction restraining the city from proceeding with the wrecking. Similar petitions in Federal Court yesterday were dismissed.

$321,960 COMMUNITY FUND FINAL INSTALLMENT NOW DUE

Three-Fourths of Subscriptions for Year Already Paid, It Is Announced.

Statements for the last installment for the community fund, $321,960, were sent to subscribers yesterday and it was announced that, with the year three-fourths past, more than three-fourths of subscriptions had been paid in, the figures being $1,130,290 paid on pledges amounting to $1,451,250.

Additional payments totaling $27,851 on the 1923 pledges brought that year's subscriptions to 97 per cent paid. A. O. Wilson, treasurer of the fund, expressed a hope that this year's subscriptions should be paid up before the end of the year, since the unemployment situation had placed an unexpectedly heavy burden upon some member organizations, and, although economical management had made the money go farther than was thought possible, the budgets were closely figured.

Missing Boy Sought by Mother.

Charles Eddings, 14 years old, 2719 Locust street, disappeared from his home Sept. 17, and his mother, Mrs. Sadie Eddings, with the help of the police, is searching for him. The boy quit his work two days before he left, and it is believed he has run away with a companion. He was reported to have been seen in Jefferson City a few days after leaving here. The boy is 5 feet, 4 inches in height, weighs about 117 pounds, and has dark hair and blue eyes.

"AL" SMITH TO TALK AT YALE

Woolsey Hall to Be Opened First Time for Political Speech.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Gov. Smith has been informed he will have the unusual honor of making a political speech in Woolsey Hall, Yale University. Never before has this auditorium been thrown open for such a purpose.

When it was learned the Governor was to visit New Haven, an invitation was extended to him to occupy the platform before Yale students. The Governor has changed his New England itinerary to be in New Haven Oct. 9. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who left yesterday for Warm Springs, Va., said that on his return, after two weeks he would make a series of radio speeches on behalf of the Democratic nominees.

Metcalf Nominated for Senate.

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 3.—Jesse H. Metcalf of Providence was unanimously chosen for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate at the Republican State convention here yesterday. Former Governor Aram J. Pothier was named for the governorship.

$4,000,000 IN LITTLE RIVER DRAINAGE BONDS ARE SOLD

Issue Taken by Syndicate Composed of Two St. Louis Firms and One New York Firm.

A new issue of $4,000,000 face value in bonds of the Little River Drainage District was purchased yesterday by a syndicate of brokerage companies, consisting of Kauffman-Smith & Co. and William R. Compton Co. of St. Louis and the Easterbrook company of New York.

It is the fourth issue of bonds to provide for draining property in the Little and White River valleys south of Cape Girardeau. The bonds bear 5½ per cent interest and were sold at $992.70 per $1000 bond, the highest price ever obtained for a Little River issue.

WABASH AND LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROADS MAY BE MERGED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Formation of a new Eastern trunk line to be built around a consolidation of the Lehigh Valley and Wabash railroads was reported yesterday to be under serious consideration in railroad circles.

Partial disruption of the Interstate Commerce Commission's proposed groupings by the activities of the Van Sweringen interests in effecting the "Nickel Plate" merger was said to have turned the attention of prominent banking and railroad interests to the possibility of carrying out the original recommendations of Prof. Ripley of Harvard, which include the Lehigh Valley and the Wabash lines east of the Mississippi River in the same system.

By linking the Lehigh Valley with the Wabash at Buffalo it would be possible to create a trunk line that would reach such important centers as St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit and Toledo with a Seaboard outlet at New York. Bankers for the roads today admitted that the scheme was feasible, but dcelined to say whether active negotiations were under way for carrying it out.

Some color was given to the suggestion that recent reports that acquisition of Lehigh Valley stock had been undertaken by bankers interested in forming the new system. Heretofore buying of these shares has been credited to interests acting for the New York Central. Delay of Wabash directors in taking action on the road's preferred A dividend also was said to have been due to a desire to await developments in the proposed consolidation.

G. O. P. Chairman Says He Has Evidence of Scheme to Put Bryan in White House.

PREDICTS VICTORY FOR COOLIDGE

Tariff Not a Dominant Issue and La Follette Movement Receding, He Declares.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Charles Bryan, Democratic nominee for vice presidency, is considered Republican managers as the formidable opponent President Coolidge has in the coming presidential election, Chairman of the Republican National Committee said yesterday.

Butler contended, however, that President Coolidge's election on Nov. 4 was certain and predicted that if there were no election in November and the choice of a President and Vice President was passed on to Congress, "chaos, disorder and distress would follow for a period no one can estimate."

Three Parties, Four Candidates.

After ranking President Coolidge's opponents as Gov. Bryan first, John W. Davis, second, and Senator La Follette, third, Butler said, "we now have the curious spectacle of three political parties and four presidential candidates."

He explained that he put Bryan first because he had found virtually no Davis sentiment west of the Mississippi, while on the other hand he had evidence of an agreement between the Democrats and the Independents whereby, in the more doubtful Western states, the Democrats would swing to La Follette at the polls and the Independents would support Bryan for the vice presidency if the choice was before Congress.

"There is an effort being made by the two parties to throw the election into Congress," Butler said, "for we have reports of the Western Democrats' desire to support La Follette for very evident purposes."

Butler refused to reveal the names of the States counted upon in the reported agreement by saying that it would be out of place for him to make such a statement.

Silent on Brookhart Letter.

Nor would he comment upon the letter which Senator Brookhart of Iowa wrote demanding the withdrawal of Charles G. Dawes from the Republican ticket. He said that he could not tell what action he would take as he had not yet received the original letter. The letter was addressed to him as chairman of the Republican Committee.

"I have still the same idea of the Iowa result as I had several weeks ago, and that is that Iowa is safe for Coolidge," he asserted.

No Tour for Coolidge.

President Coolidge will not make a tour through the West, Butler said, but will stay in Washington where he will make a few radio speeches on nonpolitical topics.

Butler said plans were under way to intensify the Republican campaign between now and election. The character and record of President Coolidge, he said, would be emphasized and this, he declared, was the major issue of the campaign along with the proposal to limit the powers of the Supreme Court which he said President Coolidge would not sanction.

Butler said he had heard rumors that if the election were thrown into the House some Republicans would vote for Davis if they saw an election there was not otherwise possible and the election of Bryan to the vice presidency appeared likely by the Senate. He gave little credence, however, to the reports of a break in Republican ranks for Davis, and again predicted the election would show a definite majority of electoral votes for Coolidge.

The White House will ask the Attorney-General whether, in the event of a deadlock in the House, should the election go there, and failure of the Senate to elect a Vice President, Secretary of State Hughes could assume the presidency.

A high legal authority of the Government has expressed the opinion that while the Secretary of State would succeed to the presidency in the event of death or disability of both President and Vice President, the Constitution does not authorize him to succeed to the presidency in the event of failure of the electoral college and of Congress to elect.

COOLIDGE IS STILL AHEAD IN POLL OF LITERARY DIGEST

Davis, However, Shows Relative Gain—Returns From 18 States.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Literary Digest today announces that its straw vote on the presidential election as thus far tabulated, gives Coolidge 397,522, Davis 118,259, and La Follette 164,366. These figures mark a relative decline in the Coolidge strength as indicated in the two previous tabulations.

The poll is based on the returns from 16,000,000 ballots that have been mailed to all parts of the country.

The tabulation includes returns from 18 states, with Coolidge leading in all but Texas, Virginia and Wisconsin. The states listed include California, Illinois, New York, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota and Ohio, but not Missouri.

FRENCH SEEK TO DEVELOP FAR-AWAY DESOLATION ISLAND

Exhibition Organized to Awaken Interest in Land Lying in Indian Ocean.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LE HAVRE, France, Sept. 15.—An exhibition has been organized at the Havre museum to awaken interest in Kerguelen or Desolation Island, about 90 miles long, lying in the Indian Ocean half way between South Africa and Australia, which was officially taken over by France in 1893.

Rene E. Bossiere of Havre has made frequent visits to the island and in endeavoring to develop it economically by sheep rearing and as a hunting resort for the adventurous. Etienne Peau, curator of the Havre museum, was recently sent there on a scientific mission and returned with many interesting specimens of flora and fauna. A French company on the island employs 200 people from Oct. 15 to March 10, who prepare and export hides, shells, tusks, oils, etc. Sea elephants abound in great numbers on the shores of Kerguelen.

CONFERENCE AT LONDON ON EGYPTIAN PROBLEMS ENDED

Cairo Premier Says MacDonald Approved Suggestions Regarding the Sudan.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The conversations between Prime Minister MacDonald and Said Zagloul Pasha, the Egyptian Premier, on the Egyptian and Sudanese questions were concluded today, and it was understood the two statesmen had arrived at an understanding which would form the basis for future negotiations on the question of the removal of troops from the Cairo district and from the imperial communications system in Egypt.

Premier Zagloul declared after today's conference that he had made no demands on the British Government, but that his suggestions had met with MacDonald's approval.

AUTOMATIC GEAR-SHIFT IS PARIS AUTO SHOW FEATURE

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—An automatic gear shift is the feature of the Paris automobile salon. The device is exhibited on a Voisin car.

The driver has no gears to handle except when shifting into reverse. As soon as the car is started the shifting is automatic, sliding from first to second and then to third as the speed increases. The gears automatically shift back as the car slows down.

The device is considered of inestimable value to drivers in crowded city traffic.

MINISTER ATTACKS G. O. P.

By the Associated Press.

STERLING, Ill., Oct. 3.—The administration of the late President Harding was charged with being "easy going," and with having "loaded upon the nation a group of scoundrels, blood-sucking leeches upon the Government they were appointed to serve, and to have scandalized the nation" by the Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of Washington, in an address before the Rock River M. E. conference last evening.

"The only party that ignored the question of law enforcement and loyalty to the Constitution was the so-called progressive party, that has not given us one single word on the subject in its platform, and nominated one of the most pronounced wets in the United States for the presidency, namely Robert M. La Follette," he said. "This would be alarming if there were any danger of La Follette getting anywhere. He has been a czar in his own State politics, eliminating from his own State party all the men who would not bow down to his 'graven image.'"

IRISH BOUNDARY BILL PASSED

By the Associated Press.

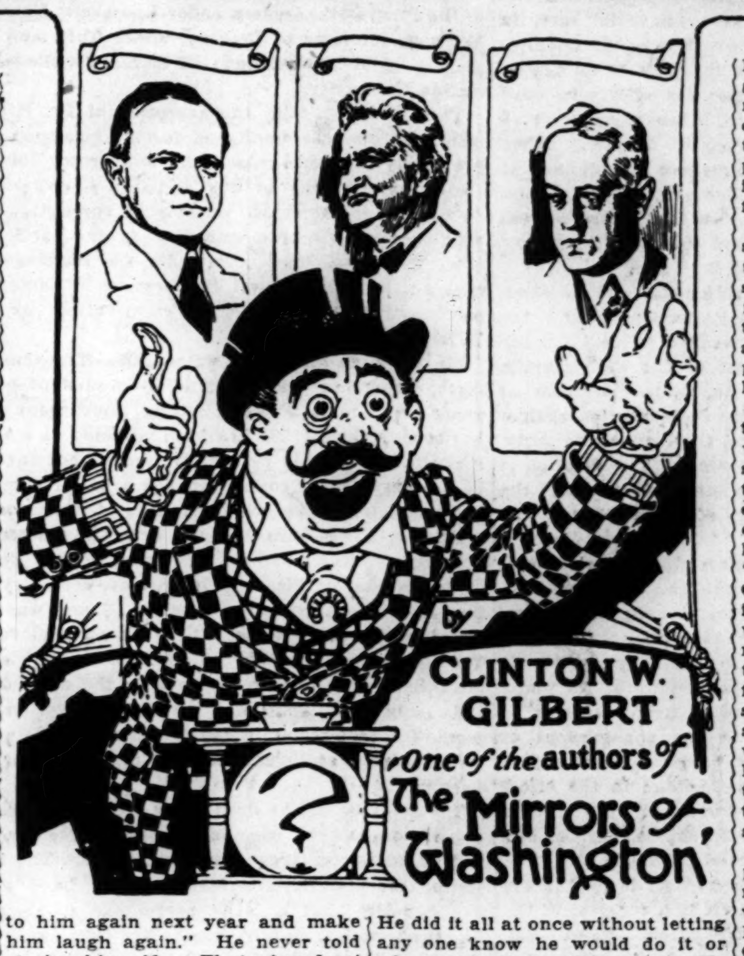
LONDON, Oct. 3.—The Irish bill, providing for a commission to adjust the boundary between Ulster and the Free State, has passed through all its stages earlier than expected.

It passed its third reading yesterday by a vote of 251 to 99.

YOU TAKES YOUR CHOICE

WRITTEN by a newspaper man with the shrewd touch of one who has devoted himself to the great game of politics at Washington, "You Takes Your Choice" (G. P. Putnam's Sons) presents the three candidates and their running mates with a certain detachment and impartiality, setting forth the biographical facts of their existence side by side with their ideals as shown by the records of their achievements; and even peeping a little way into the future.

As one of the authors of "The Mirrors of Washington," Mr. Gilbert is known around the world as a character analyst of uncommon penetration and a writer distinguished by the clarity of his work. His thorough sophistication in the field of public affairs admits of no illusions concerning public men, their motives or abilities. Yet honesty of purpose and good humor are not incompatible in the scientist, and the occasional faint chuckle which marks the progress of the operation proves that he regards the subject with both sympathy and amusement.



CANDIDATE COOLIDGE

(PART 1)

By CLINTON W. GILBERT.

(Copyright, 1924.)

"Like the singed cat, he is better than he looks," wrote Richard W. Irwin of Northampton, Mass., in 1907, of the newly elected member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, Calvin Coolidge. Mr. Irwin was a former State Senator and he was introducing the new Legislator from his home town to the Speaker of the Lower House. Of his appearance at the time Martin Lomasney, the Democratic politician, said: "I took him for a country school teacher or an undertaker," both of whom among the ordinary run of good mixers who usually get sent to the Legislature have more or less of the singed-cat air about them. They are not accepted instantly as of the confraternity. Mr. Irwin, wise in ways of the State Capitol, knew that Mr. Coolidge would not be.

Some time in almost every one's life the whole truth about one is summed up with a flash of insight in a single sentence. Fortunately, this letter of Mr. Irwin's is preserved, for I do not think that a whole book will ever tell more about the external and internal characteristics of the President than was put in those 10 words, "Like the singed cat, he is better than he looks."

And Mr. Irwin went deeper than he knew. I should say that Mr. Coolidge's whole life had been concentrated on "being better than he looked." Ah, but didn't this shy, silent, socially awkward young man do more than look like a singed cat? Didn't he also feel like a singed cat? And didn't the effort to overcome this psychological obstacle account for all the tension, the industry, the ambition, the coldness, the concentration that were so clearly observable?

A great many of us have this singed-cat sense. Some of us never overcome it. We slink away into corners, keep out of sight and behave all our lives as if we were singed cats. Some of us merely feel that because we are singed cats life is not so easy for us as it is for those to whom nature has been more kind. We strive all the harder, become more intense, more persistently ambitious. Of that kind is Mr. Coolidge. Others still, like the fox which had lost its tail, erect their singed-cat condition into a virtue and resolve that they are superior to all ordinary cats. They become arrogant, intolerant, remote and inaccessible. That was what the singed-cat sense did to Mr. Wilson.

I've done pretty well by the singed-cat sense in givnig it two Presidents in recent years. That is the utmost I can do for it, since it is plain that Mr. Harding didn't have it, and no more did Mr. Taft. While as for Mr. Roosevelt, not even in his dreams did the singed cat intrude. You have only to think of Mr. Roosevelt on the one hand and Mr. Wilson and Mr. Coolidge on the other to understand what the singed-cat is.

It would be easy enough to pick out other public men with the singed-cat sense. I think Mr. Hughes had it in that awkward youth of his and felt it pretty strongly when he was plunged into the world of politics. He has compensated for it by developing that extremely logical mind of his. Now don't let every one suppose that because he has a singed cat about him somewhere he is going to be a great man. Ever since the inferiority complex was discovered a lot of people have gone around suspecting themselves of secret greatness. But I've always carried a singed cat around inside of me, and the best it has ever been able to do is to enable me to write pieces like this.

Now, I don't know how better to describe the difference between the man with the singed-cat sense and the man with the more happily hirsute personality than in terms of golf. You know the fellow whose every movement in golf is instinctive and right. He does not know how he does it, but he does it easily and naturally and without a thought. That's the way the fellow who hasn't the singed-cat sense plays the game of life—Roosevelt's way, in short.

Then there is the other golfer whose noodle is full of maxims—"Keep your eye on the ball," "Don't lift up your head," "Follow through." He never makes a movement that is not analyzed to the last flick of the wrists. He knows more about golf than the other. He can be more eloquent on why he missed a 3 and took a 6. He is always going to think his way to the perfect swing. Well, he plays the game of golf the way the man with the singed-cat sense plays the game of life. And it isn't self-consciousness, either. Some times the most unselfconscious people in the world know they are singed cats.

In one statement of Mr. Coolidge's, that declining to be a candidate for President in 1920, I find these two sentences, "it is always well for one to walk humbly," and "I have a great desire to walk humbly," twice in fewer than three hundred words—the singed-cat sense expressing itself. And another speech begins: "Man's nature drives him ever onward. He is forever seeking development"—the singed-cat sense making up for deficiencies. And here is a quotation from another speech:

"We built the ladder by which we rise,

And we mount to the summit round by round."

The singed-cat sense and the bitter driving force of ambition, which converts everything to use, which concentrates attention on self, which makes every little word so important that it is weighed and counted, which shackles the free spirit and makes one the slave of one's own progress—this explains Mr. Coolidge.

President Wilson had the singed-cat sense and became arrogant to forget it. Mr. Coolidge had it, and, a better puritan, kept it always by him, "walked humbly" to remind him to work hard, to waste no time in play or on the lighter by-paths of friendship, to overcome his disability rather than to forget it by seeming different to himself from what he was.

I never knew a man to make better use of his apparent disabilities than Mr. Coolidge has. A friend of mine used to say: "Whatever you do, don't overadvertise. If I should write a funny book or play, and my publisher or producer should advertise it as the funniest book or play that ever came off a typewriter, people would look at it and say, 'but this is not funny at all.' Overexpectation would be aroused. You know how everybody is disappointed at the first view of Niagara Falls. But if you let them find out that the book or play is funny, they enjoy all the pleasure of discovery and of telling about it. They are little Columbuses of a new world."

This advice always seemed to me impractical, for you can't get publishers and producers to "walk humbly" in their advertisements. But Mr. Coolidge had the advantage of being his own publisher and producer. He did walk humbly as Vice-President. He was the most complete singed-cat Vice President Washington has ever seen. Of course people always do look down on Vice Presidents. They are as pathetic as mothers-in-law and as good a joke. They either have to join in the general laugh at their own expense, like Marshall, and are to be trusted in the White House because of their sense of humor, or they become "woolly horses," like Fairbanks, from whose dull stodginess the kind Providence which watches over all things American saves the nation.

Coolidge could not laugh at himself, like Marshall. That self had cost too much effort to be a joke. A fellow who is born, not made, may be a joke. Nor was he prominent enough to be a woolly horse, like Fairbanks. People laughed at him, as at all Vice Presidents, but a little less kindly. His loneliness, his inability to unbend and take life lightly, his mirthlessness, his silence, were the subject of jests. Stories were told about him of which this familiar one is the stock example. A lady rushed up to another at a reception. "I see," she exclaimed, "that you have just made the Vice President laugh. Please tell me what you said to him. I'll remember it and say it to him again next year and make him laugh again." He never told stories himself. That singed-cat sense which causes some men to tell endless stories, and thus get themselves accepted, made him unwilling to waste effort on such trifles.

There was a little malice in this attitude toward the Vice President. He had been over-advertised in connection with the Boston police strike. That exploit of his had been somewhat discounted. People were a little ashamed of their hysteria over his "saving of the nation from the forces of unrest." So all in all, you see, when he became President he was more fortunate than most Presidents are. The possibilities of disillusionment were nil. The possibilities of discovery were boundless. He was certain to be "better than he looked."

The astonishing vista that fills the eye of the bold explorer of the new national figure is that often dreamed of thing, a new alignment of parties, that new world in which all the conservatives will be in one place and all the radicals in another, where men will divide upon principles, where there will be issues and not mere names to fight over, where there will be realities and not mere shadows. And, amazingly enough, the challenge first came not from a radical, but from a conservative.

What struck the country with force when it read his annual message was that at last there was a man in the White House who had taken sides, who was not, "on the one hand," for the conservatives of the East and, "on the other," for the progressives of the West All the time that he was President, Mr. Harding had tried only to hold his party together.

He had sought to give to the progressives the minimum that would satisfy them without alienating the conservatives, and the conservatives their minimum requirement provided it did not enrage the progressives. It was a Government of minimums. The result was that both factions felt cheated. The President was discredited as a futile compromiser. Mr. Coolidge says somewhere that you can't get good Government on a bargain counter. He says it in a sense different from the one in which I now use it. But Mr. Harding kept a bargain counter, and no one was pleased with the bargains. The West went to Magnus Johnson, and the East was mumbling with disaffection and wishing for some other candidate in 1924. Mr. Coolidge had the wit to set up a quality one-price store. It was a novelty; it surprised and delighted the country. Instead of trying to hold his party together, he took the position of the majority of his party and said, "This is where the party stands."

I say he had the "wit" to do this, but I say so with reservations, for no one will ever be able to decide how much it was calculation or how much it was conviction which led him to pronounce flatly for tax revision, to reject the bonus, and not to yield to the temptation to lure the farmer with the bait of Federal aid. No one is in the secret of Mr. Coolidge's motives. He has no confidants. His message came as a complete surprise. Generally a President discusses his plans with members of the Senate and the House, and they whisper his views to the press. Mr. Coolidge talked to as many visitors as Mr. Harding ever did, but when they approached the subject of his policies they met no response.

The method was characteristic. It recalls the occasion when, as Governor of Massachusetts, following a State Constitutional convention, he had to carry out a pretty complete reorganization of the State departments. Many men had to be dismissed or reduced in rank. He did it all at once without letting any one know he would do it or who would lose their jobs. He kept his counsel till the moment of publication came. A man who knows him says he takes no advice. That habit of self-dependence bespeaks a high degree of confidence. Inside him he knows that he has builded surely and well to be better than he looks.

Well, then, did he write that message, having seen clearly the causes of President Harding's failure and, determining to avoid similar mistakes, did he decide to unite behind him the conservative wing of his party, enough to insure his nomination and at least a better possibility of election than was left to Mr. Harding? Was it cold calculation? Many say it was. I think it was calculation, but not all calculation. It was an instance of calculation and conviction pointing in the same direction.

He is shrewd and calculating. You have only to look at his face to see that. It is a Yankee face. It just missed being a mean face, with its tight mouth and the oversharp nose set at too pronounced an angle with the brow. The eyes are narrow and veiled, though they light up readily. The brightness of the eyes and the frequent smile save the face from repelling you. The smile is frugal. There is nothing excessive about it.

The sense perceptions must be acute. It is the face of a realist. No aura surrounds anything upon which it fixes its attention. It regards hard actualities, like the Vermont hill farmer ancestry, which looked long on stones and a thin soil.

I think Mr. Coolidge is a realist about himself. That is a hard thing to be. It is perhaps what has given his face its oversharp look. If Mr. Coolidge were to describe himself it would probably be with substantially those words with which Mr. Irwin described him to Speaker Cole. And if a man has no illusions about himself, he is not likely to have illusions about anything else. Therefore I say he is shrewd and calculating.

He is especially so about the words he employs. I don't know any one who can calculate more accurately than he the effect of what he writes and says. That skill could have been acquired only through incessant practice. Concentrating on the task of being, like the singed cat, better than he looks, he has thought much about the use of every expenditure of energy. He gives you the impression of having no superfluous energy. People speak of him as being "repressed." Energy is a strange thing. Psychologists tell you it is the virtually boundless possession of every human being if he can only call it forth. Mr. Coolidge has never been able to summon from its depths energy that had use for any other purposes than were practical to himself. "Boy or man he never played" some one writes.

We verge here upon his celebrated "silence." Reports are contradictory. People go to the White House and say, "He said much." Others go there and report, "He said almost nothing." I should say that he cannot talk at all, and that he speaks freely and almost frankly. Talk, like play, has no use. It is keeping toy balloons in the air. It is an intellectual sport. It is the free gift of one's personality to another. Like golf or poker, neither of which Mr. Coolidge plays, it may seem a waste to a man with the singed-cat sense and an inward urge to rise despite it. It is a superfluity in which those who are frugal do not indulge.

I have heard Mr. Coolidge saying things many times. He never talked. He knows no short cuts. He does not leap over hedges in getting his idea across. He does not stop when his hearer has caught his intention, but runs out to the dead ends of sentences in prepositional phrases with words in "ity" and "ation." It is no lark for him to open his mouth.

Give him something serious to say, and he says it fully, sometimes too fully. The presidency supplies him with important topics; so the nation has discovered that he is far from silent. There are many men like that, intensely practical men. I don't need to enlarge upon their type.

Mr. Coolidge is impressed with the use, the importance, of what he writes and says. That is one reason why he speaks rather than talks. To talk well you must be casual and at ease. The profoundest thought must be tossed off lightly. Unlike the man who was "terribly at ease in Zion," Mr. Coolidge is terribly aware that he is in Zion. He has learned that words have an immense power to make people see that he is better than he looks. Words made him famous as Governor of Massachusettts. Words in the annual message made him a person before the whole country, a real President, a leader. A man who knows so well the use of words does not employ them lightly and without self-consciousness.

A story illustrates his preoccupation with words. A woman newspaper correspondent obtained, while Mr. Coolidge was still Vice President, an interview with Mrs. Coolidge. But before it could be published the Vice President had to see it. He went over it from end to end, making changes and corrections with his own hand. Nothing that bore the name Coolidge could go into print without being carefully studied for its effect on the public. The newspaper woman still has the copy with the handwritten emendations. If we should ever have a museum of the characteristics of our Presidents, it should go into it.

You have only to compare Mr. Coolidge's style with Mr. Harding's to see how calculated the former is. Mr. Harding had gusto, very bad gusto, but still gusto, like that of the middle-class woman become "comfortable," who puts beauty into her house in the shape of furniture. Mr. Harding loved words not wisely, but too well. Mr. Coolidge does not love words, but makes them serve him—serve him with all their might. Mr. Harding in writing knew that he was doing something magnificent. Mr. Coolidge knows that he is doing something that will "put him over." Mr. Harding in Marion lived in a house with a round wart of a turret on it. That round wart of a turret was beauty; it was the expression of the joy of living. Mr. Harding's style was all round warts of turrets. I have never seen the famous thirty-two-dollar-a-month house of Mr. Coolidge's, but I venture it was just a house to live in, not an expression of Mr. Coolidge's delight with himself.

I know it is a hard thing to say, but I think considerations of use enter into the President's few friendships. His closest friend when he came to Washington was Mr. Frank W. Stearns, a Boston merchant, who had got tired of money-making and turned to the patronage of a political possibility, just as other merchants turn to the patronage of art. Mr. Stearns leaves Washington cold. He and Mr. Coolidge were hardly drawn together because they found each other interesting personalities. Mr. Stearns had faith in Mr. Coolidge, and the singed cat needs some one with faith in him. Mr. Stearns had money and was willing to spend it. He took pleasure in seeing Mr. Coolidge grow politically—the pleasure the amateur gardener takes in watching a century plant bloom. It is said that Mr. Stearns perceived a future President in Lieutenant-Governor Coolidge. It is the one indication of a large and ranging intelligence that Mr. Stearns has given.

His other close friend when he became President was William M. Butler of Massachusetts, now his campaign manager. Like the President and his political patron, Mr. Stearns, Mr. Butler is not an inspiring personality. He is silent and reserved, almost shy, cautious, cold, a "hard-boiled business man." The three together hardly form a gay and jovial company. Some other bond than making life more pleasant holds them together. Mr. Butler, too, has his uses. He grew up in politics with Mr. Coolidge. He inherited what was left of the Murray Crane machine in Massachusetts.

I think I have said enough to show how use and practicality govern this man's life. The message was calculated, shrewdly calculated; everything he does is shrewdly calculated. He "walks humbly" because some of his Pilgrim ancestors found that it paid, here and hereafter, to walk humbly in the sight of God. His eye is on the little every-day things on which the large things rest. He has industry, thrift, caution. Nothing is too small for his attention. Imagination does not make prosaic details seem negligible to him. He

DAWES FILLS CONVENTION HALL AT KANSAS CITY

Speaker's Voice Does Not Reach Far Recesses of Building and Crowd Lacks Fire.

CENTERS FIRE ON LA FOLLETTE

Disappointment Apparent in Crowd Because Vice Presidential Nominee Didn't Assail Davis.

BY CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 3.—Charles G. Dawes, Republican nominee for the vice presidency, did not "cuss" once in a 30-minute address to an audience of between 12,000 and 13,000 in Convention Hall here last night, and thereby thoroughly disappointed nearly everybody in the hall. He didn't even say: "Hell an' Maria."

Notwithstanding the size of the audience, which at the beginning of Dawes' speech occupied virtually all the seats, there was something lacking, as big political meetings in Missouri have been known. It could not be said the audience was lacking in enthusiasm, though there was nothing uproarious about it. It gave one the idea of a crowd that had gathered with the idea of being enthusiastic but needed an explosive cap to set it off and some way the cap fizzled.

The hired cheer leader and song master was unable to arouse them to an applause lasting more than a moment.

"We're going to vote for Coolidge," with other stanzas which substituted Dawes and Baker for Coolidge, to the tune of "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah," was a popular song, but the leader had difficulty in getting a very general response.

Voice Doesn't Carry Well.

Unfortunately Dawes voice does not carry well, and in Kansas City where audiences are accustomed to hear the finished oratory of Senator Reed, the Dawes speech could be classed only as disappointing. In the far end of the hall there were calls of "louder" when he began speaking and after 10 minutes, those in that part of the building apparently abandoned hope of hearing the speaker, and more than 1000 persons left the hall. Those within range of his voice remained.

It differed from the old-time political crowd. Four or eight or 12 years ago the appearance of the spectacular candidate on the National ticket would have attracted to Kansas City the active political leaders and workers from nearly all the western half of the State. Chairmen and members of county Republican committees would have been on hand to mingle with State leaders and State candidates. Hotel corridors would have been thronged with out-in-the-State politicians. Yesterday there were virtually none in Kansas City.

The only back-State poltician encountered in frequent visits to the hotels during the day was E. L. Morse of Excelsior Springs, who said he had been attracted to Kansas City by the hope of seeing somebody interested in Republican politics. He said he had not been able to find anybody.

However, Kansas City turned out for the meeting. There were many Democrats in the audience, but it was a Republican audience for the most part. It had hoped to hear the Democrats denounced, but it met only the Republican strategy of ignoring John W. Davis and the Democratic ticket and centering Republican fire on La Follette.

No Wild Cheering.

Dawes cut his speech short and when the crowd left there were to be heard many comments on the failure to attack the Democrats, and there were many questions as to whether that was "good politics." It was mildly an anti-La Follette audience, but it did not go at all wild in cheering Dawes' attack on La Follette.

The impression created by the meeting was that the Republicans will have to send somebody with more experience as a public speaker into Missouri if they hope to get any real enthusiasm aroused. They must have speakers with voices capable of reaching those on the edge of the crowd, speakers who do not jumble their words together in such a way as to make many of their sentences almost unintelligible.

If Dawes had "cussed" a little, he probably would have made up for some of the other defects in his address, but he didn't.

Sam A. Baker, Republican nominee for Governor, spoke for a few minutes before Dawes was introduced, and made a favorable impression on the audience. He said

Our Schools: An Appreciation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN reply to the criticism of "Kind o' Old-Fashioned" relative to our public school system, may I be permitted to say, in a kindly spirit, that in the particular case of my young son, I have attributed a great deal of his progress in both the Arlington Grade School and the Soldan High (where he is now entering upon his third year) to the thorough method of teaching now employed in our public schools. My son has always been permitted to bring home any books he chose, and we have yet to note of his having been taught inaccuracies in any of his studies. Those of his teachers whom I have personally met have always shown a willingness to co-operate in any suggestion for the pupils' advancement. Now, a word of praise for the night school system:

If one would make a visit to these schools on a class night (where I am now a pupil and can speak from experience) one would marvel at the variety of interesting courses offered.

May I ask in conclusion to whom should be given the credit for teaching classes of from 20 to 30 pupils in a room of various ages and degrees of intelligence when each one of us measures up to the same grade upon finishing our respective studies? It is a great pity that these wnoderful night school classes are not more widely known, where one can obtain gratis, so many useful commercial advantages.

Hurrah for the St. Louis public schools, and God bless their teachers!

Rents for Colored.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN reference to the letters in your paper a few days ago from the Colored Welfare Association, I want to say that if the Colored Welfare Association will get after the colored owners and real estate men and try to get them from overcharging us colored people, they will do a lot of good for their own race. We all know that rents went up and that the white owner took advantage of it. But it was a halfway fair deal, and we all thought it fair in most cases. But when the colored man came along and bought property, rents went sky high. It sure is a shame to think that our own people are doing this to us and it is getting worse all along. So my dear Colored Welfare friend, don't blame this on the white people, but get right after the colored people; they are the guilty ones.

J. W. GREENE.

The Dumb Idol in the Temple of Privilege

George Harvey has become the howling dervish of the dumb idol in the temple of privilege. He is whirling and howling in a dust cloud of his own bald assumptions, inventions and conjectures, intended to prove that there is no hope for this country except in the election of Coolidge.

Mr. Harvey, following his "Coolidge or Chaos" article, is trying to make people believe that Mr. Davis is a mere catspaw of chaos, and is not in the running. He hopes to convince the people that Mr. Davis is not a factor in the presidential race, in order that he may induce them to save the Coolidge campaign from impending ruin. His "Coolidge or Chaos" plea and his supplementary efforts to ward off well deserved calamity from the party of privilege and pillage are confessions of despair. When he plays up La Follette as the menace and plays down Davis as hopeless, and Coolidge as the only chance, he means to say that Coolidge is lost unless a great many voters who do not intend to vote for him now are induced to come over and save him.

Nothing could be more ridiculous. It is sheer piffle, designed to catch the unthinking. What is the real situation? All of the so-called "dope," the calculations that have come out of the East mainly, have been based upon the Republican landslide of 1920, where there was a tremendous reaction against the Wilson administration and the Democratic party. This year the situation is reversed. The reaction is against the Harding-Coolidge administration and the Republican party as the party of organized privilege and corruption.

There never has been a more disgraceful administration than that of the Republican administration of the last four years, disgraceful under Mr. Harding on account of its utter subservience and surrender to organized greed, in the adoption of the tariff of abominations for the benefit of its plutocratic masters, in the sale of natural resources to profiteering interests, and in the appointment of tools of the political money power to high office. Disgraceful again under Mr. Coolidge in the effort to protect and defend official corruptionists and their allies, and to blacken those who exposed official corruption and attacked entrenched privilege.

In consequence the Republican party is split in the middle. It is not a new split; it is a survival of the split during the Taft administration, when Col. Roosevelt and his followers revolted against the plutocratic influences in control of Mr. Taft's administration and routed Mr. Taft and the Old Guard. The Roosevelt revolt elected Woodrow Wilson, who gave the country one of the best administrations it has known, and carried it triumphantly through the greatest war in history. Mr. Wilson placed the American people in the van of the movement for international justice and world peace.

It took only four years of Republican misrule under Mr. Harding and Mr. Coolidge to reverse all this, to take America wholly out of the international movement for the establishment of justice and law and of arbitration as a substitute for the sword among the nations of the earth, and to revive the saturnalia of organized privilege and pillage, far in excess of anything that happened in Mr. Taft's administration.

The result of these disgraceful four years is a revival of the progressive split under the leadership of Senator La Follette, the originator of the 1912 progressive movement, and a revolt of a great number of Republican voters who undoubtedly will carry out of the Republican party a group of Republican states and greatly weaken the party in every state above Mason and Dixon's line outside of New England.

We are not predicting election results. In the present turmoil no one can say what will happen in this election. But intelligent men can draw logical probabilities from the existing conditions. While Mr. Coolidge has an apparent advantage over Mr. Davis in the calculations based upon 1920 and in surface indications, particularly in the pivotal states of the East, the better possibilities of the campaign lie on the side of Mr. Davis, and the indications in his favor are steadily improving.

Mr. Coolidge's party is split. It is conceded from Republican sources that Mr. La Follette has a first-class chance of carrying Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Idaho and Washington, all rock-ribbed Republican states, with Montana, which is inclined to be Democratic, making a total of 50 electoral votes. It is now conceded, since Brookhart's bolt against Dawes, that La Follette has a good chance of carrying Iowa, or at least of defeating Coolidge in that State. With Iowa he would have a total of 63 electoral votes.

Not only is the Republican party split up the middle, but it shows marked signs of further disintegration. Not only is there an utter lack of enthusiasm for Mr. Coolidge among the regular Republicans who accomplished his nomination, but Republican leaders, particularly in the West, are falling away from him. Brookhart, in Iowa, has rebelled against Dawes and demanded his removal from the ticket, declaring that the Dawes campaign is wrecking the Republican party in Iowa and the Northwest. It was practically wrecked already.

Senator Norris, running for re-election in Nebraska, asked as to the rumor that he intended to bolt the Coolidge-Dawes ticket, declares that he is making an individual campaign and is not interesting himself in the national ticket. In California Hiram Johnson is denouncing the action of the courts there in defeating the effort of La Follette's followers to place their electoral ticket in the field. California is in a turmoil of revolt.

There is a rebellion in Colorado, and in Kansas William Allen White, a lifelong leading Republican, is leading an independent movement against the regular Republican State ticket because the Republican candidate for Governor is tied up with the Ku Klux Klan. His influence will not help Mr. Coolidge's shaky chances, because Mr. Coolidge himself is tied up with the Ku Klux Klan.

The fight between Coolidge and La Follette is now bitter, but will become bitterer. The regular Republicans must defeat La Follette's plan, or their organization will be wrecked. La Follette must defeat Coolidge, or his whole progressive movement will be futile. He will be unable to reorganize the Republican party. It is a death grapple between the two wings of the party for supremacy. Either wing would prefer the election of Davis to the success of the other wing.

The Republican administration and the party's organization are so vulnerable to attack that there is not and cannot be any drift towards the Coolidge-Dawes ticket by independent voters. On the other hand, there is increasing evidence of a decided drift from Mr. Coolidge to Mr. Davis. The evidence of the drift is found in the repudiation of the Republican party by President Hibben of Princeton University, one of the 31 leading Republicans who misled the people into supporting Mr. Harding on the ground that he would take us into the International Court of Justice and establish co-operative relations for peace with other nations. Dr. Hibben chooses Mr. Davis as the only hope of accomplishing this end.

Others who have deserted the party are Dr. William C. Thompson, president of the Iowa State University; Ida Tarbell, Samuel Untermyer, Everett Colby, one of the Progressive leaders under Roosevelt; Theodore Marburg, Minister to Belgium under Taft, and Virginia C. Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard College, Columbia University.

These recruits, with the exception of Dr. Hibben, who rests his case wholly on foreign relations, give practically the same reasons for supporting John W. Davis, namely, the ability and equipment of the Democratic presidential candidate; corruption and privileged profiteering embodied in the tariff and other Republican measures under the Harding-Coolidge administration, and the promise of American participation in world-peace co-operation by Mr. Davis' election.

Mr. Coolidge himself is vulnerable. The Coolidge myth, which has been built up by persistent propaganda, that he is a silent, strong, courageous man, has been exploded. He has been revealed as a weak, hesitating politician, personally honest, but inclined to condone official corruption for political purposes and completely under the dominance of the barons of privilege. His silence does not arise from strength, but from weakness and political calculation. His selection of Bascom Slemp as his private secretary, his first official act, was discreditable. Slemp was convicted of the sale of postoffices for political funds. The subsequent conduct of Mr. Coolidge, his reluctance to dismiss men involved in the oil scandal, and Daugherty, blackened by the revelations of corruption and abuse in the Department of Justice are damning evidences of his unfitness for reelection.

The evidence of the drift away from Mr. Coolidge is not confined to Republican progressive leaders. It is manifest in large groups of voters. The leaders of the German-American element have given public notice that a large percentage of German-American voters will desert Mr. Coolidge. The pledge of the heads of the Steuben Society, which has taken the place of the old German-American Alliance, to support Mr. La Follette, is supplemented by resolutions to the same effect by the Bavarian Society of St. Louis and other similar organizations.

Labor is in revolt against both old parties, but the evidence points to the greater percentage of loss in the Republican party.

Certainly with Mr. Coolidge's silence on the Ku Klux Klan issue, in contrast with Mr. Davis' outspoken repudiation of the klan and all similar organizations, Mr. Coolidge cannot hope to win any recruits from the Catholics, the Jews and the foreign born, or any other antiklan elements. Both principle and self-protection will incline all of these elements to vote against Mr. Coolidge, and in the aggregate they are a tremendous factor in elections.

There are signs of a defection even in the hitherto solid phalanx of the negro vote. Prominent individual negro leaders and influential negro papers are repudiating the Coolidge ticket.

How will the great masses of people who, through such organizations as the Federation of Churches, the women's organizations, the nonpartisan Association for the League of Nations, who have protested and petitioned in vain for the International Court of Justice and the League of Nations, vote? How can they support Mr. Coolidge, who has utterly failed to make any progress in assuring American participation in the court, and who declared the League of Nations to be "a closed incident." His candidacy offers not one ray of hope for American participation in the great movement for world peace which America inaugurated and once led.

Forty-seven nations have signed the protocol outlawing war, pledging themselves to support arbitration, international law and peace, while America stands idly by, an apostate to the principles, the mission and the policy in which she had been up to 1920 the leader and exemplar. How can the friends of the International Court and the movement for world peace support either Mr. Coolidge or Mr. La Follette, who are pledged against any participation in the International Court or the League? They logically must follow Dr. Hibben.

Progressive Republicans who cannot go so far as Mr. La Follette's radical program, but who oppose Mr. Coolidge's reactionary program, cannot choose but stay at home or support Mr. Davis, the liberal opponent of the Coolidge-Dawes combination.

On the other hand, John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential candidate, is leading a united party. Whatever may have been the differences of party leaders in convention, his nomination was hailed as a triumph of reason and justice by all the party leaders and by the press generally. There is no evidence of party differences.

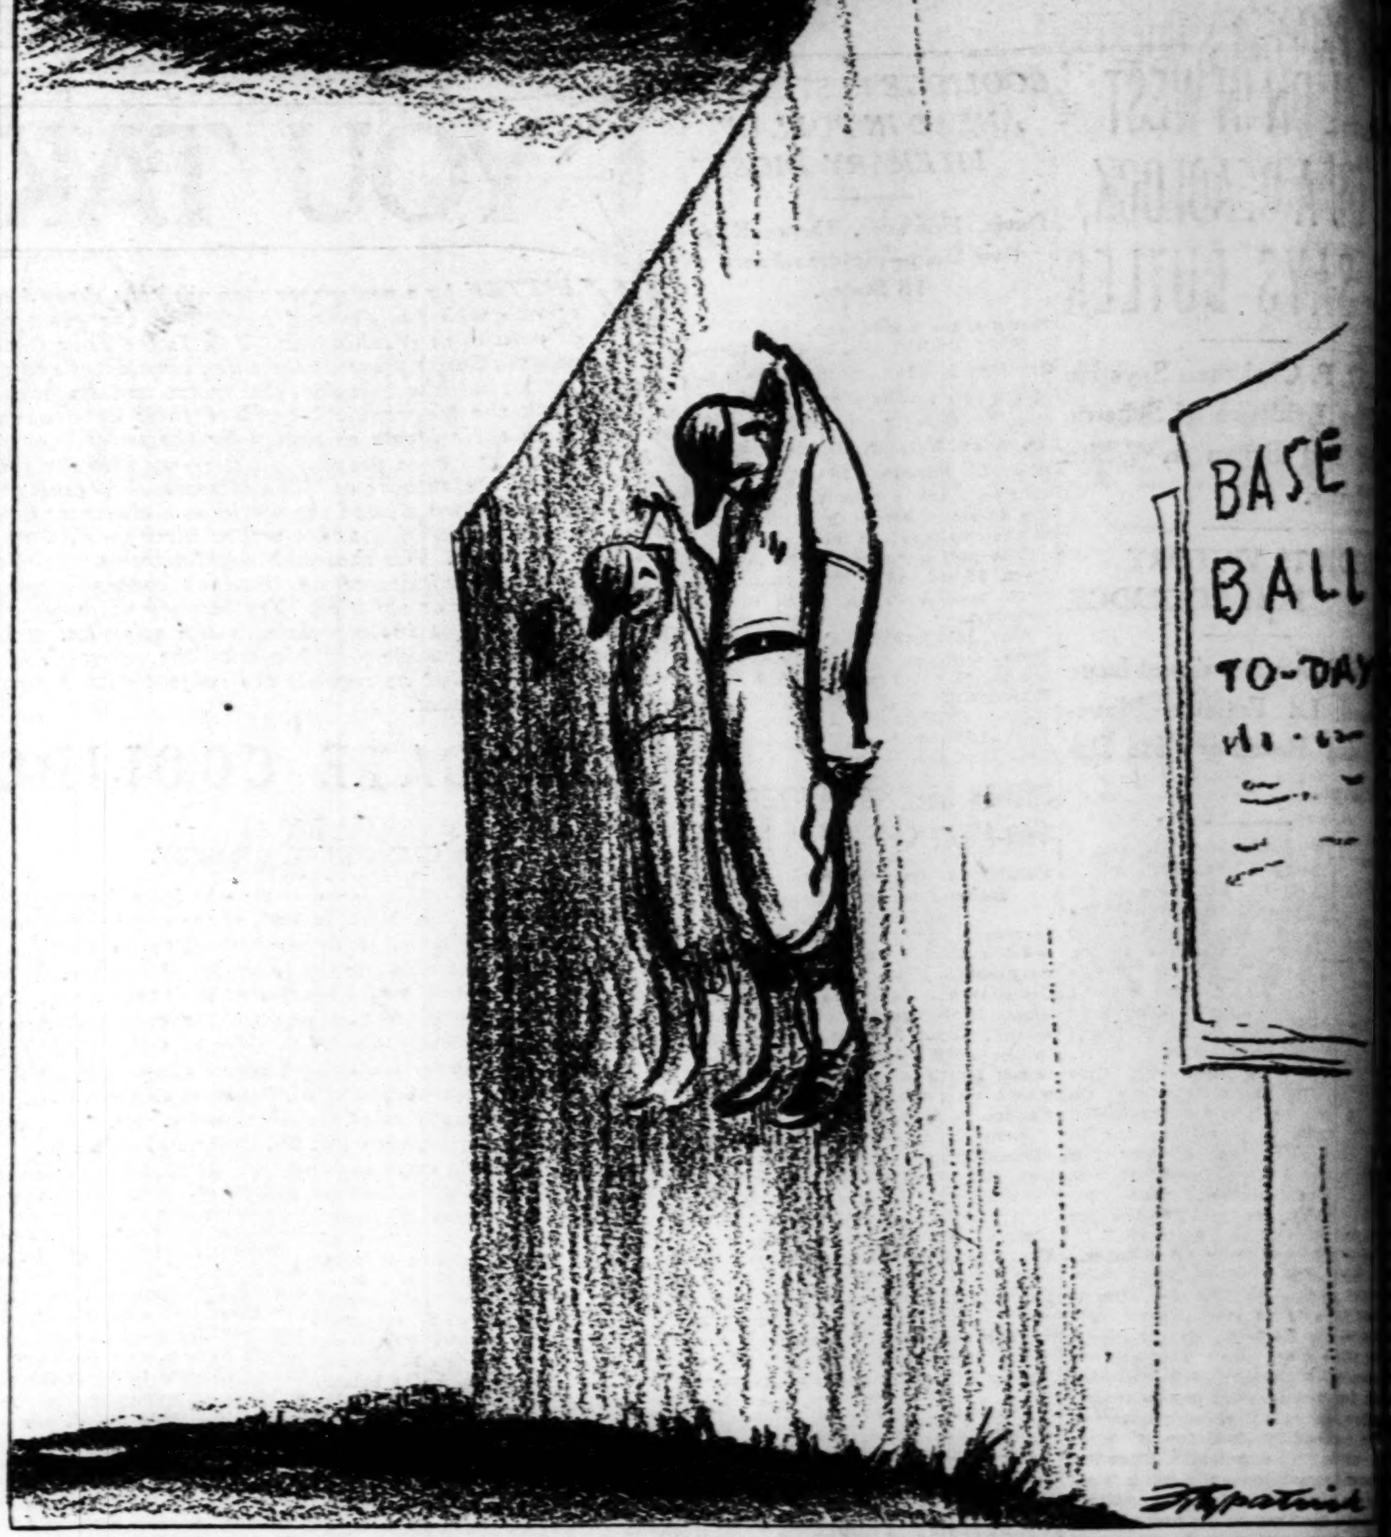
Mr. Davis is admitted, by men of all parties, to be one of the best equipped men for the great office of President that the American people have had the privilege to support. In ability, in experience and training, in understanding of the principles of free constitutional government, in soundness and vigor of opinion on public questions, in clarity and felicity of expression, in personality and character, he is distinguished among the public men of our time.

Mr. Davis is a liberal, standing between the extremes of radicalism represented by the La Follette candidacy and reactionism represented by the Coolidge candidacy.

Mr. Davis stands for progress under constitutional government. He stands for justice, equality under the laws, personal liberty and popular sovereignty as the foundation of progress.

He is opposed to privilege, particularly exemplified in the tariff of abominations which is exploiting the American people for the benefit of a few rich, powerful profiteers. He believes that prosperity should not filter down from the privileged few, but should be fairly distributed, through the freedom of opportunity for all the people.

The people have just begun to learn what manner of man Mr. Davis is. They have just begun to learn what he stands for, in opposition to the evils of privileged plutocracy and corruption which have flourished in Washington, and in favor of a restoration of equality and liberty and popular control of government. He is for the square deal. Whatever doubt may have existed as to his honesty and sincerity of purpose is rapidly disappearing.



THE WONDER IS NOT THAT THERE WERE SO MANY, RATHER THAT SO FEW WE CORRUPT.

No one can tell what will be the effect of a vigorous campaign for honesty and just government against the recognized and admitted evils of privilege and pillage under the party now in power until the votes are cast in November. We know that Mr. Davis' candidacy has grown and is still growing. We know that the factors that are working against Mr. Coolidge and Mr. La Follette will help Mr. Davis.

The propaganda of assumption and bluff which claims for Mr. Coolidge every state that Mr. La Follette does not actually capture ought not to deceive any intelligent man.

The outlook in New York may be bad. We do not know about New York, but the claim is made that New York was going for Coolidge before the stage was set for the campaign by the nomination of Gov. Smith, and is made now, before any campaign has been made in the State. So with the claims with regard to all the Northern states except those conceded to Mr. La Follette. These lightning calculators overlook the fact that La Follette will not only carry some Republican states, but will seriously reduce the Republican vote in all the Middle Western and Western states, just as Roosevelt did in 1912, when his candidacy gave Wilson rock-ribbed Republican states by pluralities and thus elected him.

Conceding La Follette's chances to gain 50, and possibly 63, electoral votes, Mr. Davis has practically assured, with the solid South, that is, those states which supported Cox in the Republican landslide of 1920, with the border states, including West Virginia and taking in Arizona, Maryland, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Tennessee, 200 electoral votes. With Mr. La Follette's 50, not counting Iowa or any of the other doubtful states outside the list already given as probably La Follette's, there will be against Mr. Coolidge 250 electoral votes. This low-down estimate in favor of Mr. Davis and Mr. La Follette gives Mr. Coolidge a majority in the electoral college of 16.

If Mr. Coolidge should lose New York he could not be elected. If he should lose Iowa and another state he would not be elected. If he should lose Indiana and New Jersey, he would not be elected. If he should lose Colorado, Nebraska, Rhode Island and either Indiana or New Jersey, he would not be elected.

If La Follette should carry Iowa and Davis should carry Indiana or New Jersey, Coolidge would be defeated.

The possibilities, nay the probabilities, of Mr. Coolidge's defeat are many. And every possibility of Mr. Coolidge's defeat is a possibility of Mr. Davis' election, through the split in the Republican party and the inevitable drift from Coolidge to Davis. We do not know the conditions in these doubtful states outside of Missouri.

We do know that Mr. Davis, through the split in the Republican party and the gains he will make in the independent vote, stands a chance of carrying by election day quite a number of them. We do know about Missouri. We know that unless every sign fails, Mr. Davis will carry Missouri. We know the factors that are contributing to the Missouri result. These factors are the defection from the Republican party of large groups of voters which are found in all the states. The forces that are working for Mr. Davis in Missouri will work for him in all the states west of New England, at least, that will not be carried by Mr. La Follette.

We must take note not only of cold political calculations and the material of mathematical factors which are based on the election of 1920, we must take note of the moral and spiritual forces that are working the American people against Mr. Coo and the Republican party, and for Mr. D and the great causes he represents. Th are the intangibles, the moral forces th make for sound public opinion and for th establishing of righteousness in govern

The issue is not Coolidge or Chaos, as th howling dervish of the plutocratic proclaims, but Coolidge and Chaos.

The true slogan for Americans wh ish their institutions and the perpet of constitutional freedom is Davis and est Government.

MR. ANTWINE'S OPINION.

"If Senator La Follette is not elected President of the United States it will not be because the American Bankers' Association did not do everything it could for him," Mr. Antwine said.

"The bankers have just held their annual convention at Chicago, and they worked day and night for La Follette in a way to make the railroad brotherhoods or any other organization supporting the Wisconsin ashamed of themselves.

"Probably more balderdash was uttered at that convention than has been uttered in a similar period at any time in history. One man after another got up and declared with vehemence what everybody knows is not so at all.

"For instance: The president of the National Manufacturers' Association, Mr. Edgerton, said that Senator La Follette is the nation's chief liability. The man to whom we owe the exposure of corruption in the Government is our chief national menace! Imagine the people, whose sophistication may not be what it should be but is still something, believing that. I suppose that in Mr. Edgerton's opinion the chief asset of the country is the thieving crowd we have had around Washington the last few years.

"Then let us take the statement of Mr. Markham, president of the Illinois Central Railroad, as to Government ownership of railroads. He told the bankers that this would be an advance toward the commune of Russia. There was Government ownership of railroads all over Europe before the Russian revolution, even in Russia. There is Government ownership of railroads all over Europe now. They have it all over the world, and had it long before the revolution in Russia. Is that the way to argue the railroad question, or would it be better to exhibit the comparative results of private and Government ownership of railroads?

"It is hard to believe that a convention of men as hard-headed as bankers are could sit through all the twaddle handed out at Chicago. One speaker, worthy of a lieutenancy on the staff of Zeno, said the proposed anti-child labor amendment to the Constitution is a rose which conceals a tarantula.

Great Caesar! Can't we have bu banking, private initiative and well-being earth without exploiting the labor of children?

"I don't know how much of a psych ogist a banker is, but if he knows anyth at all about it these bankers must re that they did a wonderful week's work Senator La Follette," Mr. Antwine said.

Social News

AN interestingf visitor in St. St. Louis for the Veiled Prophet ball is Miss Gladys Hearn of Rome, Italy, who arrived Tuesday to visit Miss Juliette Reyburn, daughter of Mrs. Amadee Valle Reyburn of 4634 Lindell boulevard. She will remain a fortnight, during which a number of informal parties will be given for her. Miss Hearn attended Eden Hall in Philadelphia with Miss Reyburn and a number of other St. Louis young women, prior to her removal to Rome five years ago. Her hostess entertained them at tea yesterday informally.

The Hearn family came to the United States in the spring and have spent the summer in the East. They will return to Rome Nov. 1. Mrs. Reyburn and her daughters also returned recently from a summer trip East.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and their children, John Jr., and Mary Lucas Hart, are visiting Mrs. Hart's mother, Mrs. J. B. C. Lucas of 4543 Forest Park boulevard. They are en route from the North, where they spent the summer to their home in St. Augustine, Fla. They will remain until Oct. 15. Mrs. Hart was Miss Mary Lucas.

Leo M. Harrison of New Orleans has arrived in St. Louis for a visit to his mother, Mrs. Frank W. Harrison of 320 Skinker road. He will remain for an indefinite time.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Horix and the latter's small daughter, Edwina Preetorius, are residing in Chicago, and are at present at the Parkway Hotel. Mrs. Horix was, until her marriage last winter, Mrs. Edward L. Preetorius of St. Louis. They have been making their home since their marriage in Washington.

One of the first of the debutante luncheons is to be given by Mrs. Warren Finley McElroy of 23 Portland place, in honor of Miss Elizabeth Dyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dyer of the St. Regis Apartments, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alcee Stewart, Thursday, Oct. 30, at the McElroy home. Mr. and Mrs. McElroy's daughter, Miss Jane, was a popular debutante of last season.

Miss Dyer will entertain the debutantes at a similar affair Friday, Oct. 10, at the Bellerive Country Club.

Mrs. Philip N. Moore, president of the National Council of Women of the United States, will depart early in October for Toronto, Canada, to attend the Canadian Council meeting in the interests of the international council. She will keep engagements later in Philadelphia and Atlantic City, and has called a board meeting of her council in Washington to complete plans for the quinquennial meeting in that city in May, 1925.

Mrs. Horatio N. Davis has given up her rooms at Hotel Chase, and has leased an apartment in the Forest Park Hotel. At present she is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Francis G. Eaton, 60 Vandeventer place.

BRIDE OF THE WEEK

MRS. PERCY ROWLEY KELLER

MRS. KELLER was, until Wednesday, Miss Lilian Gertrude Zipprodt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Zipprodt of 5347 Vernon avenue. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Beardsley officiating, and the couple have departed on a trip to Canada.

sees their use. Personal relations do not divert him from practicality. At a White House reception he almost jerks you by him in the process of the handshake. Visitors at the Executive Mansion go through it as through a hopper. No time is wasted.

Still, he is aware of his defects. He often expresses regret to his acquaintances that he has not the ample personality of his predecessor. Yet his knowledge that he has not saves him from mistakes Mr. Harding felt that by his magnetism alone he could hold together the divergent elements of the Republican party. Mr. Coolidge knows that he cannot.

He tries to build up the personal relations which a President of this country must have. He entertains much at the White House. He sends for editors and business men and politicians and asks them what use he can be to them. If he does not know much about the art of living, he knows much about its practice. As he left the old Coolidge home in Vermont to take office as President a stone step yielded under him. "Father," he said, "you must fix that step." No loose stones under his feet.

But when you have made all allowance for shrewdness and calculation in Mr. Coolidge, you still have much of him to explain. He is far too genuine to be all studied effort. Pure calculation defeats itself. You say. "This fellow is too smart." On the other hand, everybody in Washington is saying of Mr. Coolidge, "There must be something in this fellow," making the discovery that Mr. Irwin invited Speaker Cole to make. You cannot, for example, think of Mr. Coolidge with all his sense of political effect, writing a radical message to Congress, no matter what the temper of the moment may be.

Mr. Coolidge has convictions, or, remembering his Pilgrim origin, I might better say Mr. Coolidge has faiths, for I do not think his position so much reasoned as felt. He has a hereditary instinct to stick close to what is, to distrust change and movements. His ancestors stuck to the Vermont hills when their more restless and imaginative neighbors yielded to the lure of the fertile Western plains. By industry and thrift they made the best of what they had and loved the familiar surroundings. They were cautious. They were content to walk humbly. Mr. Coolidge was born to conservatism. All radicalism spends its force in its revolt and settles down to conservatism. supremely content with its accomplishment. And New England radicalism spent its force in the religious revolt of the seventeenth and the political revolt of the eighteenth century. There is not enough vitality left in your true New Englander to make him reorient his position.

I think I have said before that the President gives the impression of under-vitality rather than over-vitality. He wastes no energy. He does not radiate vitality, like Roosevelt or even like Harding. His humor is characteristic. He has it, no matter what is said on the contrary. But it is the humor of under-vitality. It does not bubble or gurgle. His habit is under-statement; he boils a laugh down to a chuckle, and a chuckle down to a smile.

Men of great vigor are willing to scrap what is, confident that they can substitute something better. If the vigor is not there, there is more caution. Now there are other explanations of conservatism, such as self-interest, hardening of the arteries, and so on. But I was explaining the man who is "born a little conservative." Mr. Coolidge's ancestors wouldn't even scrap the Vermont hills at the invitation of the Western plains.

And there is another side to it. When a man has the singed-cat sense, he reacts in one of two ways to wit. He either gets angry at it, denies its existence, builds up a fictitious self, which he substitutes for his real self, and says to himself, "I am not a singed cat; I am God." This kind of man has no principles. He has no need of any. Principles would merely hedge in such divinity. Or if it doesn't work this way, he accepts the singed cat and says, "I am one; but by industry, thrift, self-control, constant watchfulness, by walking humbly I can nevertheless do much." Such a man needs all the outside aid he can get. He takes to principles as surely as he grows whiskers. They are his guide-rail and his prop. They keep him upright. He has as many faiths as he can conveniently carry about with him. Such a man is Mr. Coolidge. He is the least of an egoist there has been in the White House since Lincoln. His caution, the immobility of his ancestors, his moderate vitality, all combine to make him a conservative. That is the solid part of Coolidge.

He has faith in our institutions. He loves them. Didn't his ancestors help set them up? They are part of his pride and glory. Others may love them because they are the bulwark of property. Mr. Coolidge also loves them for themselves. Mr. Harding got us back to McKinley. Mr. Coolidge takes us all the way back to the Adamses. There is a certain gain. It is a good, solid spot from which to reorient the future.

He has faith in democracy. The picture he has in his head of this world is of one in which the little fellow has an even chance. Didn't he have his, and wasn't he a little fellow? He is a more real democrat at heart than any President I can remember. You feel this at the press conferences in which he takes part. Mr. Harding used to say, "The President thinks," or, "The Executive will do," this or that. Mr. Coolidge say, "I think," or "I will do," this or that. It is Calvin Coolidge talking with you man to man walking humbly, not magnified by the office. The same simplicity in his nature keeps him from allowing the presidency to be used to advertise himself or his family. There is better taste in the White House than in a long time; no personal display.

Besides which, there runs through everything Mr. Coolidge has written an old-fashioned sense of morality. He is a "good man" in the early sense of the words.

By industry, by keeping the faith, by modest self-regarding he has builded something solid out of a man to whom nature had not been very generous. By shrewdness, calculation and unremitting effort he has put that something into a high place. But even after you have exhausted all the pleasures of discovery you cannot say that that something is great. He is a useful President.

He is practical enough to see that radicalism and conservatism don't mix, honest enough to be frankly conservative, and shrewd enough to realize that conservatism may pay in 1924. But he has neither the mental power nor the imagination nor the positive courage to provide a new formula for the future. With his hard sense he brings about a fine discernment of the realities. He sharpens issues dulled by futile compromises. He says the things men want to have said.

That was all he did regarding the Boston police strike. He did not settle that strike. He has not the daring or egoism to precipitate himself unnecessarily into a difficult situation. When the police strike was over, he said the things the country wanted to have said about it, and consistently with his own natural conservatism. His words rather than his actions made him a hero. It was the same with the coal strike. He walked humbly toward Washington.

son, national campaign manager for the La Follette-Wheeler ticket, denied today that any combination existed between the independent forces and the Democratic party to throw the presidential election into the House.

"Undoubtedly the political winds from the West are blowing our way with increasing strength, but it is a popular movement, free and spontaneous," he said.

"We are not concerned about throwing the election into the House. We agree with both the Democratic and Republican leaders that that is assured. Now the fight is on between Coolidge and La Follette for election."

he had been advised by some newspapers not to talk about the good roads issue as it was not a political issue.

"Of course it is not a political issue," he said, "but I am not limited to discussing political issues. I am in favor of Proposition No. 5 to provide funds to complete quickly the road system we have started out to complete, and I am going to talk about it in every speech I make."

He said he also had been told not to talk about the Ku Klux Klan, and he didn't, any more than to say that he had been told not to mention it.

Dawes Calls Coalition Back of La Follette a Menace.

The alliance between the La Follette movement and the Socialist party was condemned as a "menace to American institutions and the American Government" by Charles G. Dawes in his address in Convention Hall here.

"The Democratic party," he said, "occupies the position of the one who attempts to straddle in a real fight, and you all know what happens in such a case—he is lucky to escape with his life."

Dawes quoted from a resolution adopted by the Socialist convention at Cleveland last July and from an article by Eugene V. Debs, several times Socialist candidate for the presidency, to show the nature of the alliance between the La Follette movement and the Socialist party.

The resolution adopted by the Socialist convention declared that the Conference for Progressive Political Action, which nominated La Follette, "was organized with the assistance of the Socialist party and our party co-operated with it in its work and development."

Quotes What Debs Wrote.

The quotation from Debs was read by Dawes from the Socialist World, July issue, as follows:

"No fundamental principle of Socialism has been or will be in the least compromised. We carry forward our propaganda and promote our activities not only as before, but with a renewed and revitalized energy and enthusiasm inspired by the supreme opportunity, and more thrilling and sustaining than ever before. Though he is not a Socialist, we need not blush or apologize to give our support to Robert M. La Follette in the life-giving and hope-inspiring struggle of the present hour."

Dawes Asleep During Brief Layover of Train Here.

When Gen. Dawes arrived in St. Louis in his private car at 7:10 a. m. today, reporters were told he was asleep and had left orders that he did not want to be disturbed during his 20-minute layover here. Apparently he slept undisturbed by the early morning noises of the Union Station trainshed during the period before his departure at 7:30 for Fort Wayne, Ind., where he delivers an address tonight.

Attendants on the train of three private cars explained that Gen. Dawes retired last night very tired after a strenuous day in Kansas City. He plans to return to Chicago after the Fort Wayne address, and Republican leaders are attempting to arrange a meeting in St. Louis at which he will speak, but nothing definite has come of it as yet. He is accompanied on tour by his wife, daughter and son-in-law, Melvin Ericson.

ARGUMENTS BEGIN ON M. P.-GULF COAST MERGER

Attorneys Say Consolidation Will Not Injure Interests of Baton Rouge, La.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Final argument on the application of the Missouri Pacific Railroad to acquire control of the Gulf Coast lines were opened today before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Attorneys for the Missouri Pacific spent the morning in explaining the effect of the merger upon traffic moving to Baton Rouge, La., saying that city would in no way be injured through the consolidation.

ST. REGIS APARTMENTS SOLD FOR $1,750,000

Profit of $550,000 in 12 Years for Claude E. Vrooman Who Was the Builder.

The St. Regis Apartments, sold yesterday to the International Life Insurance Co. for $1,750,000, brought their former owner, Claude E. Vrooman, substantially $550,000 more than they cost 12 years ago, when he bought the property at Kingshighway and Lindell boulevards and erected the first large apartment building in St. Louis.

Not all of the purchase price paid for the apartments yesterday was in cash. While Vrooman would not state the cash consideration, it is understood he will receive $400,000. Much of the balance of the purchase price is in highly improved farm lands in Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas.

Vrooman said today that the St. Regis Apartments have been a paying proposition since he built them, bringing him a profit in the neighborhood of 8 per cent a year on his investment. The annual rental of the apartments is about $176,000 and the building has had virtually no vacancies since its erection.

"I copied the New York apartment buildings in building the St. Regis," Vrooman said today. "There were many who thought I was making a big mistake. But with the success of the St. Regis, apartments began to spring up in all parts of the city. Before the construction of the St. Regis, the apartment, as we now know it, was virtually unknown here."

The International Life Insurance Co. was represented in the negotiations with Vrooman by Albert Carter and Vrooman was represented by the Franciscus Realty Co., which will manage the apartment building for the International Life Insurance Co.

IRISH IMPORTS INCREASE

Exceed Free State's Exports by $58,000,000 in Six Months.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Sept. 22.—The total value of the imports of the Irish Free State during the first six months of this year was about $167,391,000, while the value of the exports was $109,387,465.

Of the exports, Great Britain took nearly $18,500,000, and Northern Ireland a little more than $15,000,000. United States is third on the list, with $489,000. From America the Free State took goods to the value of $8,956,755, or nearly 20 times as much as it sold to America. The Free State exports, consisted for the greatest part of cattle, sheep, pigs, butter and eggs. In the six months the Free State bought nearly $3,000,000 worth of touring motor cars.

The Biography of John W. Davis

By THEODORE A. HUNTLEY.

As Ambassador to Great Britain, He Made Many Friends for America—On His Return to U. S. He Joined New York Law Firm and in 1922 Was Elected President of American Bar Association.

Following is the sixteenth installment of the biography of John W. Davis which will appear in the Daily Post-Dispatch only.

Chapter XVI.

(Copyright 1924, by Duffield & Co., York Contemporary Statesmen.)

"THAT famous after-dinner team of Davis and Reading," as Lloyd George once described it, became an institution during the service of John W. Davis as Ambassador to England. Although absorbed in the exacting duties of his office, the new American representative at the British capital did not neglect the important function devolving upon all diplomatic officers to promote at every opportunity a feeling of friendship for his own country. That he found frequent occasions to do so is attested by a score of felicious public addresses delivered before organizations such as the American Society, the Society of Pilgrims, the Association of British Chambers of Commerce, the Scottish-American Association, the English-Speaking Union and Oxford University. Lloyd George's humorous reference was inspired by the fact that the American Ambassador often appeared on the same program with the Earl of Reading, who had lately returned from a tour of the service as British Ambassador to the United States. Their bantering thrusts, varied with personal encomiums, caused audiences to look forward to their joint appearance with an anticipation which was seldom disappointed.

Ambassador Davis assumed his duties at a particularly difficult period and under trying conditions. Dr. Walter Hines Page, who preceded him, had not only served with distinguished success, but endeared himself to the British people in their hour of exaltation. It was incumbent upon the new Ambassador to maintain the same high standard and uphold the best traditions of American diplomacy during a season to which both nations were passing through an emotional and intellectual slump representing the reaction from the war.

Reaching London but a little more than a month after the signing of the armistice, he found the overseas war organization at its peak. The Embassy staff, which ordinarily consisted of a counselor, several secretaries, military and naval attaches and a handful of clerks, had expended under pressure of war to many times its size. There were some 250 officials and subordinates directly under the Ambassador. All the European activities of the American navy were directed from London. Admiral William F. Sims, the stormy petrel of the naval establishment, famed for official indiscretions, was acting in the dual capacity of naval attache and chief of operations of the American naval forces. J. Butler Wright and Irwin Laughlin, both career men in the diplomatic service, were assigned to the Embassy as counselors. Laughlin, who had served in that capacity during the war, was detailed to new duties shortly after Davis reached London, while Wright remained as counselor during his tenure as Ambassador.

Promoted Direct Methods in Embassy.

It was always Ambassador Davis' desire that all activities of the American Government should be concentrated under the head of the chief of the diplomatic mission, not for purposes of autocratic administration, but in the interest of greater co-ordination and effiicency. Without interfering with the autonomy of the various organizations concentrated in London he was enabled by this policy to bring them into closer cohesion.

Whenver possible direct methods were employed to serve Americans calling up the embassy for assistance, and through personal contacts established with officials of the British Foreign Office and informally with other administrative departments much circumlocution was avoided. It was necessary to introduce reforms with extreme care, however, to avoid offense to British officialdom, as it is a basic principle in the practice of diplomacy that all contacts between the Ambassador of one Government and the Government of the country to which he is assigned shall be made through the medium of the Foreign Office. Under the old diplomacy, if the embassy desired to communicate with the head of the Shipping Commission in behalf of an American claimant, it was customary to address a letter to the secretary of the Foreign Office saying in substance: "My dear Lord Gumdrops: I have the honor to advise that Mr. Skipper, an American citizen, desires to effect, settlement of a shipping claim, and shall welcome your advices as to the procedure to be followed. With assurances of my most distinguished consideration," etc., etc. Some weeks or months later a reply would come form the Foreign Office conveying the information that the communication in question had been referred to the Commissioner of Shipping.

By the time the British Government got around to the point of settlement, if at all, the American claimant usually would have returned home in despair. Under the new diplomacy, given a distinct impetus during the Davis regime, British and American officials got into the habit of calling up by telephone instead of writing letters. By virtue of the friendly feeling existing between the American Embassy and British officials surprising results were accomplished in connection with American claims of this character.

Won New Respect for American Mentality.

Close personal relations existed between Ambassador Davis and the Foreign Office, Lloyd George, and in fact all members of the Cabinet. Lloyd George he knew well, and there was a marked cordiality in their contacts. Ambassador Davis also had the happy faculty of making warm friends, not alone among officials of the executive departments, but with members of Parliament. In addition, his personal qualities and standing in the legal fraternity enabled him to form close friendships with Scottish and Irish peers and members of the bench. These and other unofficial activities made a profound impression upon the people of Great Britain, winning new respect for the American mentality and American character.

During the negotiation of the Treaty of Versailles President Wilson summoned him to Paris for a number of conferences. He was given immediate charge of the Rhineland settlement and wrote this portion of the treaty. Later on, when it became apparent that the Senate would not ratify the document, he faced the delicate and difficult task of maintaining American prestige at the British court. According to associates of that period he succeeded to a remarkable degree, preserving his own dignity and that of the Government he represented, while never faltering in his devotion to the invalid in the White House. Although accepting the assignment in the first place at a pronounced personal sacrifice, he remained at his post until the change of administration in the spring of 1921.

Two unusual honors came to him during his service abroad. In 1920 he was chosen president of the Birmingham and Midland Institute, a distinction previously conferred upon only three predecessors in office—Messrs. Lowell, Choate and Page. A year earlier, when he had been in England but a little more than a month, he was made an honorary bencher of the Honorable Society of the Middle Temple. Only one other American Ambassador, the late Joseph H. Choate, had been similarly honored. Until Mr. Choate's selection no non-British subject had been accorded a place on the governing body of the Parliament of the Inn, the oldest and most notable body of barristers in the British Empire.

Ended Service With Resources Depleted.

When John W. Davis was assigned to London, British statesmen were prepared to extend him a cordial welcome. It was known that he had served with distinction in the legislative and executive branches of the American Government and that he possessed an intimate knowledge of the American judiciary. He was likewise recognized as an authority on the American Constitution and a lawyer of international note. Even in England, where men are reared for statecraft, her statesmen seldom achieve a similar eminence at so early an age. The experiences which marked his departure for the United States in March, 1921, testified to the increased regard resulting from his service. Cabinet members, representatives of the Foreign Office, members of Parliament and numerous lesser dignitaries went to Waterloo Station to see him off. Mrs. Davis was showered with flowers. As their ship left the harbor at Southampton it was escorted by 40 British destroyers led by the flagship of the British fleet. Whistles blew, flags were dipped and the fleet cheered in his honor. After 10 years in public life, Davis returned to the United States in 1921 facing a problem. He had exhausted his capital while in the Government service. Once more a private citizen, he found himself without an income, without a law practice, and "broke." The Lansing estimate had been accurate. Living as modestly as an Ambassadorship permitted and serving at a time when official entertaining was at a minimum, two years and a half in London had cost approximately $75,000 in excess of salary and allowances as Ambassador. His resources had been wiped out completely. The situation demanded attention.

There were two alternatives. He could go back to West Virginia and re-enter practice there, picking up where he had left off in 1913 when appointed Solicitor-General, or accept an attractive offer to enter practice in the wider field of New York. Looking ahead to the political possibilities, some of his friends urged him to return to West Virginia. The decision, however, ignored political considerations entirely. Neither then nor later was the political equation to inter into the question of a law practice, either as to location or character of clientele. He returned to the law as a lawyer, and located in New York.

Entered Noted Law Firm in New York.

practice law in New York upon retiring from the Government service. In 1916, while Solicitor-General, friends had suggested that a good opening awaited him there. There were a number of tentative offers. Early in 1917, shortly before the United States entered the war, an especitlly attractive proposal reached him through a friendly channel. After considerable deliberation an answer was returned that the question would have to be held in abeyance until it were determined definitely whether or not war was coming; that if the United States were to enter the conflict he would not feel free to consider any personal proposal until hostilities should cease. Bernsdorff had been dismissed and the national capital at the time. When it came a few weeks later he gave up all thought of engaging in prvate practice.

As a sequel to these discussions Frank L. Polk broached the subject in London some two years later, and when Davis returned to the United States on leave of absence in 1920 their conversations were renewed. Polk had received an invitation to associate himself with Stetson, Jennings & Russell, the law firm of which Grover Cleveland had been a member, and it was suggested that when Davis relinquished his ambassadorial duties there would be an opening for him in the same office. The prospect offered a congenial and honorable association with a group of professional associates who enjoyed the highest standing at the bar and in the business world, and was attractive from every viewpoint. Thus it was that shortly after his return from London he became associated with the New York firm, later becoming its head. In the succeeding three years he engaged in general practice, declining incidentally a number of proffers to associate himself exclusively with large business interests. As in Clarksburg, the office door was open to all clients alike.

Elected American Bar Association President.

A little more than a year after his return from London he was elected president of the American Bar Association. Back of his choice lay an interesting incident. The movement in his behalf, if it did not have its inception in Clarksburg, was actively encouraged by Harvey F. Smith of that city. Shortly before the American Bar Association's annual meeting in San Francisco in 1922, John W. Davis was called to Clarksburg by the death of a friend. While there Smith called by telephone to suggest that if he would prepare a list of 50 friends well scattered over the United States, the Clarksburg lawyer would undertake a campaign for his election as president of the association.

"Give me a day to think it over," Davis replied. Two days later Smith received a letter from him from New York, dated July 5, 1922. Davis wrote:

"I take my first opportunity on my return to New York to continue our telephone conversation of yesterday. My feelings on the subject are somewhat mixed. In common, I take it, with every other member of the association, I would consider it a very high honor to be elected President. On the other hand, it seems to me the sort of office that ought not to made the subject of a campaign. It really ought to be made the blue ribbon of the bar, to be awarded very much after the fashion of a judicial promotion. This may be a counsel of perfection, but nevertheless is the end, it seems to me, at which we should aim."

Smith and other friends nevertheless proceeded with plans to bring about his election and saw their efforts crowned with success. The influence of William Howard Taft, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, was exerted unofficially toward the success of the enterprise. While debarred by the exalted character of his office from actively participating in the politics of the convention, the Chief Justice spoke in the highest terms of Davis' personal and professional qualifications, and his attitude was an important factor in the result. An active backer at the time was Thomas Shelton of Norfolk, Va., a classmate at Washington and Lee, and a member of the Executive Committee of the American Bar Association.

Washing

is made easy when you use Staufer's Laundry Tablets, the soapless method of cleaning clothes. No wear and tear from hard rubbing—just boil the dirt out and do it quicker. Perfectly safe with the finest fabrics.

Every grocer sells Staufer's. One bar of Staufer's equals two of soap. Over a million and a half bars sold in St. Louis last year.

Excellent for washing dishes, cleaning fine furniture, woodwork, floors, etc.

I LOST 50 POUNDS in 2 Months This Easy Way!

In Paris I Learned a Secret for Which Millionaires Paid Thousands. Let Me Tell It to You Free of Charge

If you are one of many who tried everything to reduce, without success—if you are suffering from a weak heart, high blood pressure, tired feeling, shortness of breath—all due to obesity—at last you can be relieved. If your figure is such that you are embarrassed to appear in public with your husband or your smart-looking slender friends, you can now entertain new hopes. Perhaps it is your bust, your thighs or your arms that you want to reduce; or maybe only one or two rolls of fat have lately appeared. Whatever your case may be, if you want to reduce only certain parts of your body, or if you are 10 pounds too heavy or 100 pounds, you owe it to yourself to investigate this new discovery, WHICH DOES AWAY WITH WEAKENING DIETS, ABSURD CREAMS, TIRESOME EXERCISES, REDUCING CREAMS, ETC.

From my experience, I know how many worthless things you have tried in the past, and in the effort to help you regain slenderness without being again disappointed, I have decided to give out the secret which relieved me of 50 pounds of ugly rolls of fat, and made me feel like a new woman. Simply go to any good druggist, ask for a package of SAN-GRI-NA tablets (remember the name and do not accept any substitute). SAN-GRI-NA is the preparation of a French physician, and the only thing I ever found to reduce my weight—my case was an obstinate one, and I had tried everything known to reduce, without success. It is the first time SAN-GRI-NA is offered to the American public, as up to now it has been used in private practice, where enormous prices have been paid for it. UNTIL YOU TRY IT YOU CANNOT SAY THAT YOUR FAT CANNOT BE REMOVED. Take two small tablets before each meal and watch your fat disappear. Remember, that SAN-GRI-NA is GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS, AND IS SOLD WITH A MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE. It cannot harm you in any way; on the contrary, the moment you start taking it you will feel yourself filled with pep and energy.

On sale at any of Speckart Bros.', Draper's, Enderle's, Otto's, Judge & Dolph's, Wolff-Wilson's or Kranson Bros.' Drug Stores.

LAYS JEWELRY FIRM FAILURE ON BAD YEAR

President of St. Louis Refining Co. Says Bottom Dropped Out of Business.

"The natural result of a terrible business year," was the explanation of Louis B. Moss, president of the St. Louis Refining Co., 609 Pine street, a wholesale jewelry concern, following the filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday against his firm by Harry A. Gleick, attorney for two Eastern jewelry companies with claims totaling $7000.

Moss agrees with Gleick in estimating the firm's liabilities at approximately $100,000, with assets far below this sum.

"We organized five years ago, and made money until this year," Moss said. "Then the bottom dropped out of the wholesale jewelry business and we were forced to sacrifice some of our stock to keep going. The $7000 in claims is just a starter. Our other creditors, all Eastern jewelry concerns, will undoubtedly file additional petitions. It is just as well, as it is useless to stay in business under present conditions."

On Nov. 20, 1921 four armed robbers entered the store of the Refining Company, then at 1005 Pine street, and took a bag containing $30,000 in diamonds. A small part of the loot was recovered the same day in a saloon at Madison, Ill., and Charles Vance, Harry Londo, Charles Heuer, and Thomas Skinner, all police characters were arrested. Heuer later pleaded guilty to participation in the robbery and was sentenced to five years in prison. Vance was shot and killed the day before he was to have been tried on the charge. The charge against Skinner was dropped when he accepted a prison sentence on a burglary charge in another case. Moss said today that the robbery had proved costly to the company as the loss was only partly insured.

The other members of the firm named in the bankruptcy petition, are Charles Shaplin and Edward Extein. The petitioners are the Frutinsky and Wolf Co., and the Modern Watch Co., of New York City. The claims are for merchandise.

CAVERLY NEEDS MORE REST

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Judge John R. Caverly, who sentenced Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, kidnapers—slayers of Robert Franks, to life imprisonment must remain in the hospital, where he retired for a rest after the case was ended, for another week, according to his physician. Precautions were taken to prevent a relapse into the nervous condition that resulted from the strain of the trial, he said.

The Judge, who ended his term as Chief Justice of the Criminal Court with the Franks case, will take a bench in the divorce court when he resumes his duties.

Trick Faucet Tapped Buried Keg.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 3.—A double action faucet which when turned one way flowed water and when turned another flowed "moonshine" liquor was found by the police dry squad in a recent raid. The faucet was "fed" with whisky from a barrel buried four feet under the ground in the basement of a saloon and was forced into the tap by a compressed air arrangement.

'TOO MUCH HIGH BROW STUFF,' PEPPER SAYS

U. S. Senator, Here for Address Tonight, Wants Campaign of Brass Tacks.

Senator George Warren Pepper of Pennsylvania, sent here by the Republican National Committee to open the St. Louis campaign at the Odeon tonight, discussed a few National issues in a brief interview at Hotel Jefferson today.

The Senator said he intended to avoid in his speeches any discussion of the opinions of others on National questions, and to confine himself to his views of the effect of the proposals contained in the issues. This was in response for a request for his opinion of the recent attack of Senator Brookhart of Iowa on Charles G. Dawes, Republican nominee for the vice presidency.

"My only use in this campaign," Senator Pepper said, "is to discuss National issues. Senator Brookhart's opinions on national questions do not come within the scope of the things I am here to discuss.

"I want to emphasize the common sense aspect. There has been too much high brow stuff in this campaign about the Constitution. too much tendency to call people demagogues. There has not been enough getting down to brass tacks."

Railroad Ownership.

The Senator spoke of the La Follette proposal for Government ownership of railroads, and said that $35,000,000,000 would be required to purchase them. "The Government hasn't got the money," he said, "and would have to borrow it from us. Then we would have to increase the tax burden to pay the principal and interest on the loan. That would make tax reduction impossible for a half dozen generations."

He said William J. Bryan, realizing this, had advocated purchase by the Government of the trunk lines and by the states of the feeders. "He forgets," the Senator said, "that the same people pay taxes to the Federal Government and to the state, and that this would increase the taxes of the poor. Bryan said it would mean 48 experiments in Government operation. I say it would be one big hole in the bottom of the treasury and 48 smaller holes.

"Mr. Davis," he continued, "says a good deal of high-brow stuff about the Constitution and that we should enter the League of Nations. His party is not so sure about that and wants a referendum after the election."

Praises Dawes Plan.

Referring to the so-called Dawes plan, he said it was the only feasible way to the financial recovery of Germany, and that the success of the plan depended upon the floating of a big German loan in this country.

"If anybody thinks," he continued, "that a big German loan could be floated after the election of La Follette and Wheeler, or Davis and Bryan, or after a failure to elect anybody and the suspense while Congress was getting ready to act, he is just kidding himself."

Senator Pepper was met at Union Station this morning by Mayor Kiel, Louis J. Becker, chairman of the Republican City Committee; W. F. Phares, chairman of the Republican State Committee, Congressman Newton and Henry S. Caulfield. He will be the only speaker at the meeting tonight, though candidates for State and city offices have been invited to occupy seats on the platform.

BANKER FLEES WITH ASSETS

Private Institution Petitioned Into Bankruptcy.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The private firm of V. Bajardi & Co. was petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy today by three creditors. The petition said that Giuseppe Bajardi, one of the partners, left for Europe some time ago, taking a large amount of the assets. The liabilities are estimated at $300,000 and the assets at $200,000.

AMERICAN IN MEXICO SLAIN

Fenton W. Smith Victim of Bandits in Chihuahua.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 3.—Apparently slain by bandits, the body of Fenton W. Smith, 55 years old, was found 35 miles west of Colonia Dublan, Chihuahua, according to a telegram received yesterday by John W. Dye, American Consul in Jaurez, from Paul Ares of Casa Grandes, manager of the Livestock and Agricultural Loan Co. of Albuquerque, N. M., which has cattle in that district. Smith was employed by the loan company.

The bandits took everything Smith had, including his boots and hat. Dye wired the State Department at Washington and took steps to investigate the case.

City Fireman, 81, Retires After 56 Years on Duty

Rudolph Ufen Joined Departmnet in 1869—Recalls Historic Conflagrations He Fought.

After 56 years as a member of the St. Louis Fire Department, Rudolph Ufen, 81, of 3137 Alfred avenue, has gone to his last fire—officially. He may go again. He likes the smoke, the noise, the thrill. But it will be as Rudolph Ufen, citizen.

Rudolph Ufen.

Yesterday he was free—and out of a job — this man who has fought fires for more than half a century. For 15 years he has been night watchman for Engine Company No. 22, at Sixth and Poplar streets. He wasn't planning to go back last night. "What are you going to do?" he was asked.

"Snooze," he answered, with an inimitable appreciation of the luxury.

Joined in 1869.

J. W. Bame was chief of the department when Rudolph Ufen gave up his liittle express business and joined Deluge Company No. 7 as pipeman in 1869. That old company, he told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday, had its engine house at Fifteenth and Market streets, and it covered a territory bounded on the north by Biddle street, on the east by the river, on the south by Park avenue and on the west by Compton avenue—beyond Compton avenue there were no alarm boxes or fire plugs.

He had served in the 56 years with half a dozen companies and under Fire Chiefs Bame, Clay Sexton, John Lindsay, Charles E. Swingley, F. E. Henderson and W. H. Panzer. When he joined the department firemen were paid $76.65 a month, and there were 89 of them on the roster of the St. Louis companies. When he retired yesterday there were 940 men on the department's rolls and the private's pay today is $155 a month after his probation period.

When Ufen enrolled to fight fires St. Louis had old-fashioned "horse-killer" steamers, and one hook and ladder company. He has seen the modern steamer, the Pompier ladder system, the modern ladder truck, the automotive apparatus, the motor pump, adopted into the system. And he has seen his beloved horses, one by one, go.

The veteran fingered the badge on his cap as he proudly posed for his picture in uniform. He looked at it with affection. "And I've got to turn that in today," he said.

In all his service with the department Ufen was never injured except at the St. Nicholas Hotel fire, Jan. 4, 1884, when his fingers and ears were frozen while firemen fought a blaze with the thermometer at 26 below zero. He was one of those who fought the famous old Southern Hotel fire April 11, 1877, in which 14 lives were lost.

"There was a spectacular fire, too," he said, "when the steamboat James Howard caught upon her return from the Mardi Gras at New Orleans March 13, 1881, at 10:30 p. m. She had just nosed in at the wharf. There were boats there in those days. When they found her afire they cut her loose and we followed her downstream to Miller street. There she got away again, and I went on to find a place to follow her up with the engine. At Barry street she sank. There was a loss of $125,000. And though they dived for her safe and papers they never found them."

All in the Day's Work.

Seldom does Ufen speak of losses or deaths unless the memory of an old comrade who lost his life on duty comes to him. He didn't go into the department to be a hero, or for excitement, adventure or romance. It was a "job" in the days when his express business was not paying. What happened was in the day's work. Big fires were so many big jobs, tackled and conquered. He would rather talk of some of the fire teams he has driven than of rescues he has made.

And now? There is a daughter, Hattie M. Ufen, at home, and a back yard garden aglow with zinnias and cannas. And across in Illinois are two married daughters and their families—on farms where horses are. He'll find enough to keep him busy, he says, and, besides, there's a pension of $50 a month. He was entitled to that pension 30 years ago, after having reached the age of 50, with 20 years of continuous service in the department. But he wouldn't take it then—"because my father," he explained, "took things easy, and at 50 he was as old as I am now.

"So I stayed on, and I'm proud of that; and I'm proud, too, because I have had the good will of every Fire Chief I worked under."

Knights Templar to Cape Girardean

Two hundred Knights Templar of St. Louis, accompanied by their wives, will act as escort to William S. Campbell, grand commander of the Missouri order, when he leaves tonight for Cape Girardeau, where he will pay his official visit to the Southeast Missouri commandery. The party leaves on the steamer Cape Girardeau.

VACATION SYSTEM OF JUDGES DEFENDED

Falkenhainer Replies to Criticism Made in Report of June Grand Jury.

Judge Falkenhainer, presiding Judge of the Circuit Court, today defended the prevailing summer vacation system as practiced by the three Judges of the criminal courts, which was criticised yesterday by the June term grand jury in its final report.

"Throughout the summer there is one court in session, with a judge ready to try all confined cases and anyone who demands a jury trial," he said. "While each of the Judges takes a two-months' vacation, there is always one on the bench, and our experience has shown there is not enough work to keep him occupied more than three days a week."

The retiring jury ventured the opinion: "It does not seem to us meet and proper that the courts should come practically to a standstill during the summer months. We believe greater activity during the period from June to October would relieve the congested fall docket and insure speedier trial for offenders."

Judge Falkenhainer, who has served two years in the criminal courts and last June selected the grand jury which retired yesterday, interprets their criticism as "merely a matter of opinion." The fact that autumn dockets are disposed of proves they are not over-congested, he said. In summer, juries are hard to get, and fair verdicts are doubtful when jurors are confined in uncomfortable rooms. Justice is better served by waiting until autumn, he believes.

The jury also criticised the practice of releasing prisoners on bonds which are inadequate to the offenses charged, often in "amounts trivial considering the penalty for the crime charged." The Circuit Judges are not entirely to blame for this, said Judge Falkenhainer. They must constantly bear in mind that the Supreme Court may order the bond reduced, he said, and recalled a particular case where he ordered a $15,000 bond and an appeal to the higher court caused it to be cut to $7500.

Higher pay and more men for the Police Department were recommended by the jury, which also made suggestions for the prompt investigation of crimes and the handling of traffic accidents. They urged co-operation by pedestrians to avoid traffic accidents and commended the installation of automatic "traffic policemen." The report was signed by Eugene J. Mudd, vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, and foreman of the jury.

INDIA'S RELIGIOUS SECTS END UNITY PARLEY IN GOOD-WILL Agreements May Halt Riots Which Formerly Followed Dissensions Among Cults.

By the Associated Press.

DELHI, Oct. 3.—The Unity Conference, attended by 300 representatives of all the religious communities, including Hindus and Moslems, in India, which had been in session since last week, concluded its work today in an atmosphere of mutual good will.

Leaders expressed the hope that the declarations made at the conference of the rights of the various religious communities on questions which often led to dissensions and riots, would make probable that aggressors hesitate before precipitating trouble.

Leaders of the conference urged the celebration as "Unity day" of the day on which Mohandas Ghandhi completes his three weeks' fast, which he undertook in penance for the recent Hindu-Moslem riots.

DETECTIVES' CLAIM DENIED

East St. Louis Council Turns Down $75 Bill for Finding Auto.

The City Council of East St. Louis yesterday voted the payment of $25,816.57 in bills and claims. They also decided to pave St. Louis avenue, from Tenth street east to the city limtis, with asphalt.

City Commissioner Cook introduced a motion to pay Henry Bishop and Joseph Schrader, private detectives and former Lieutenants on the East St. Louis police force, $75 for finding his automobile, which had been stolen, but his motion was defeated, the Council contending that both men were Deputy Sheriffs and the finding of Cook's car was in their line of duty.

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER

Keyring With Name of South Dakota Firm on Man's Clothing.

The body of a man about 26 years old was taken from the Mississippi at Plum street yesterday. It had been in the river about a week. A keyring with the name "Scharnwiber Bros., Mitchell, S. D.," was found in his clothing. The man was about 5 feet, 4 inches in height, weighed 125 pounds, and was wearing blue shirt, vest and coat, brown trousers and tan shoes.

Bank Robbers Fail to Open Vault.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 3.—Bank robbers gained entrance to the Crittenden County Bank and Trust Co., at Marion, Ark., last night or early today and rifled several cash drawers, but failed in their efforts to open the bank vault, according to a report received by the Memphis police today. It was stated that no money was obtained. Bloodhounds were sent to Marion to aid in the search for the bandits

ARBITRATION OF ECONOMIC ROWS IS NEXT ON LIST

League of Nations Expected to Proceed Eventually to Discussion of Disputes Over Raw Material.

CHINA IS DENIED A NON-PERMANENT SEAT

Delegates From Pekin Walk From Hall When Vote Shows They Have Not Regained Standing.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
A Staff Correspondent of the New York World and Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1924.)

GENEVA, Oct. 3.—Unanimous approval of the compulsory arbitration protocol, as sent to it from committee, wound up the fifth assembly of the League of Nations yesterday. As part of the attempt to bring peace to the world a disarmament conference is called for next year and all governments are urged to ratify the arbitration pact.

But though the assembly adjourned after taking this first step toward universal peace, a wider ideal has chrystallized in the closing days of the session. This is no less than eventual arbitration of raw material disputes, industrial output, immigration, national expansion, racial aspirations—all the fundamental causes of war.

The present arbitration pact is the first step. Next comes the disarmament conference. Finally there will be arbitration of all the vital economic interests of an industrialized world. This grandiose program has more foundation in realism than at first appears. The framers of the arbitration protocol believe arbitration will not succeed unless the cause of trouble is removed.

Must Remove Causes of War.

Paul Boncour, the French Socialist, in an address to the assembly on the protocol, pointed the way, saying:

"War can only be ended by removing the causes of war. Raw materials, their distribution, questions of immigration and emigration are grave problems which must be solved if the work we have just finished is not later upset by interior convulsions."

Belgium today signed the protocol, thus bringing the total of nations which have signed to 11.

The council decided to hold its regular December session in Rome instead of Geneva in compliance with a request made by Premier Mussolini of Italy.

LOGAN DECLINES REPARATIONS POST

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—James A. Logan Jr., has declined the post of fifth member of the Reparation Commission unofficially offered him by members of the commission. This is the post provided for under the Dawes plan, which specifies that it shall be filled by an American citizen.

Logan wrote to the president of the commission, M. Barthou, last Saturday, it is learned, expressing thanks for the honor offered him and the confidence shown in him by his associates. He believed, however, that his duty was to retain the office given him by the American Government and remain an unofficial observer with the commission in which position he thought his usefulness to his country would be greater.

Logan immediately cabled the State Department of his decision. He had long been regarded by the commission as the ideal man for the post and political circles welcomed the idea, because the transformation of an American official into a reparation commissioner, even though he no longer represented the Government, would to European minds indicate a closer relationship of the United States to reparation problems.

TWO HELD FOR REVOLVER SALE

No Permit Charge Against Vendor-Buyer Held as Witness.

Two youths were arrested at 11 o'clock last night as a result of a revolver transaction without a permit in a store at 1304 Chouteau avenue.

Carl Byington, 20 years old, of 1015 South Twelfth street and a companion were standing at Thirteenth street and Chouteau avenue when a policeman came by and stopped to question them. In Byington's pocket he found an unloaded weapon. The youth said he had just bought it for $8 in the nearby store and was taking it home. The officer took him back to the store, where he identified Earl Hopper, 19 years old, as the clerk who had sold it.

Hopper is said to have admitted the sale and was locked up, charged with selling a revolver without a permit. Byington was held as a witness.

PRINCE REPORTED PED BY PARIS ROBBERS

by Police From Where Lured, Says the : Embassy Denies It.

Oct. 3.—The account in the Matin and cabled of an adventure in which of the Asturias was re to have narrowly escaped during a stroll at night in quarters of Paris, was de by the Spanish Embassy. The heir apparent has not left Spain, the Embassy said, "and the good faith of the newspaper has doubtless been imposed upon."

Police headquarters, while not declaring the story untrue, said "the incident has been considerably exaggerated" and announced it would issue a statement later in the day.

The story in the Matin was that the Prince, while here in strict incognito as the Count of Madrid, last week, and during a stroll alone at night was lured into a trap by a pleasant stranger, who invited him to view an ancient house which is said Henry IV. was accustomed to visit in the Rue Tournelles.

As soon as they had crossed the threshold, the story ran, the door was slammed and two men pointed revolvers at the Prince. The latter, however, dashed to a window and shouted for help, his cries bringing two policemen, who arrested the would-be robbers.

FIERCE WAHABIES ROUTED BY BRITISH

Arabs Marching Against Emir Abdullah Mowed Down by Armored Cars.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 10.—The fierce Wahabies of the desert are again on the warpath, and affairs in the land beyond Jordan are in a turmoil. It is reported that 10,000 of these Bedouin Arabs arrived within three hours of Amman, the seat of Emir Abdullah's government, when they were met by British airplanes and armored cars and mowed down by the hundreds before they turned their horses' heads toward the desert from which they came. It was only the arrival of the British forces from Palestine that saved the Emir's government from being completely wiped out, and all Transjordania from being overrun by these men of the desert who behead men, women and children.

In the three short years of its existence the Sharif's government, under the direction of his son Abdullah, has demonstrated its incapacity. As far as peace and safety are concerned, the land was probably better off under the Turks. It is reported, when two men have a difference, that the first man to reach the Emir and place his hand inside the Emir's belt, according to an ancient custom, thereby gains the protection of the prince, and the other man can do nothing against him.

The English Government already has cut to one-half its appropriations for the support of the Sharif's government, as it found that most of the money was used for the support of the royal retinue without any reference to the needs of the country.

The Wahabies are the reform party of the Arab Mohammedans. They do not smoke or drink coffee, nor do they reverence holy places. They live in tents and are strictly nomadic. They are violently opposed to the government of King Hussein and wish to overthrow him and make their own chief king of all Arabia.

This is not the first time that the British forces in Palestine have had to go to the support of the inefficient government beyond Jordan.

CHURCHES IN SCOTCH TOWN ADVERTISE WITH SAMPLES

Ministers Deliver Short Sermons on Street Corners; Claim Good Results.

INVERNESS, Scotland, Sept. 12.—This highland town, which contains 37 churches to care for its 24,000 inhabitants, has much to teach the advertisers whose recent convention in London dealt lengthily with the problem of churth advertising. For a quarter of a century these churches have experienced such competition that they have been compelled to originate and ues many kinds of advertising.

The papers of the city each week are filled with church advertisements. Also the churches have the custom of sending men about the streets with sandwich boards, and the fronts and sides of the churches themselves are resting places for many placards. However, the method most used has nothing to do with advertising agents. It is entirely one of sending out samples in the hope that the churchgoer will want more. The minister or one of the church supporters stands on a street corner and delivers short sermons or announcements, while the ministers of permanent congregations pass about hand bills.

200 Speakers for Fund Campaign.

More than 200 St. Louisans have volunteered as speakers to aid the Community Fund in its campaign to solicit subscriptions, to be held from Nov. 14 to 24. Speakers are to be provided for industrial plants, noonday clubs, school patrons' associations, women's clubs, mothers' clubs and other organizations, according to Myron R. Sturtevant, chairman of the speakers' division, and may be obtained through Walter R. Hoy, secretary, at Bomont 1940. Demonstrations of social service performed by Community Fund agencies will also be given.

Men Cremated 2600 Years Ago.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

NIENBERG, Germany, Sept. 15.—Urns containing the ashes of human beings believed to have been cremated 2600 years ago have been discovered at Wenden, in the valley of the Weser. Dr. Jacob Friesen, who made the find of 127 graves, believes he has unearthed a cemetery of agriculturalists who inhabited the Weser district several centuries before Christ walked in Galilee.

La Follette Cutting Down Coolidge's Lead

689,019 Votes From 18 States in the "Digest's" Nation-wide Poll Are Tabulated and Analyzed This Week

California a Hotly Contested Battle-Ground—The "Solid South" May Turn Tide for Davis

Interest in the "Digest's" nation-wide Presidenial poll is mounting to great heights as the hundreds of thousands of votes are being received and tabulated weekly. An interesting side-light upon the La Follette strength and whence it is drawn is shown in the "Digest" this week by the opinions and observations of editors throughout the country, especially by those in California.

The "Digest" also carries a detailed record of the previous affiliation of those who vote in this largest of Presidential straw-vote polls, and this record is shown weekly in the tabulations. It will become increasingly illuminating as the vote mounts up. As the Richmond, Virginia, Times-Dispatch says, this poll "is an undertaking of real value." At its conclusion it should point unmistakably to the winner in the Presidential election in November.

Why They Parted

"I was down with pain in my right side which at times almost crazed me. Most all of the doctors said operation. But what I want to tell you is the pain disappeared with the first dose of your medicine and I never felt any since. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has the right name—gas, sour stomach and dyspepsia have left, too." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. LIVESTOCK FOR UNIVERSITY

Gifts for Chinese School to Be Shipped From East St. Louis.

Purebred livestock to be used in teaching young Chinese the value of blood strains in meat, dairy and egg production, is being assembled at the National Stockyards for shipment tomorrow to the University of Pekin, China, a nonsectarian Protestant school.

Ten head of beef and dairy cattle, as many swine, three milk goats and 20 chickens are in the shipment. They are the gifts of Eastern breeders to the Chinese school. B. Eubank of Brownwood, Tex., will accompany the shipment and remain to be head of the Animal Husbandry Department at the university.

URGES CHANGES IN LAW TO EXPEDITE JUSTICE

Judicial Conference at Joplin Recommends Legislation to Speed Criminal Cases.

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 3.—Changes in criminal statutes to expedite justice, delay of which was declared to be responsible for serious impairment of law enforcement, were approved by the judicial conference of Missouri, in session here yesterday. The conference was attended by 25 judges from over the State. The changes had been recommended by the Executive Committee of the conference and the president, Judge Hugo Grimm of St. Louis, was instructed to appoint a committee of five to prepare bills to be presented at the next session of the Legislature, carrying out the proposals.

Among the changes proposed are:

Simplification of the statute on forgery, enactment of a law giving protection not only to church congregations holding meetings, but to other assemblies as well; amendment of the law providing for 24, instead of 40, jurors on a panel to try criminal cases; statute requiring juries in the trial of civil suits to find the monthly value of rents, instead of value of monthly rents in deciding cases where the question at issue appertains to rentals; changes to avoid conflicting provisions regarding the contents of the publication notice in cases to perfect or quiet title; amendment to provide that the recent possession of stolen property should be prima facie evidence of guilt, and, unexplained, conclusive evidence.

Repeal of the change of venue law, which permits the transfer of criminal cases from a county simply by obtaining and filing the affidavits of five persons from different parts of the county from which a change is desired also is urged, as well as that challenges of the State and the defendant in trial cases should be equal and that not more than three or four should be allowed to permit the strikes being made, and enactment of a law making it clear that the Judges have the right to instruct juries upon the subjects of punishment in criminal cases.

The conference reelected Judge Grimm as president, and Judge A. B. Frey of St. Louis as secretary.

TRAINMEN INDORSE CANDIDATES

Missouri Legislative Board Announces Selections.

The Missouri Legislative Board of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, at a meeting in Kansas City Wednesday, indorsed all the Democratic Congressmen in rural Missouri seeking re-election. They are M. J. Romjue, Ralph F. Lozier, J. L. Milligan, C. C. Dickinson, Sam C. Major, Clarence Cannon, J. Scott Wolff, James F. Fulbright and Thomas L. Rubey. W. L. Nelson, Democratic opponent of Sid C. Roach, Republican incumbent, also was indorsed. Charles L. Faust, Cleveland A. Newton, L. C. Dyer and Joseph J. Manlove, Republicans, and Harry B. Hawes, Democrat, were not indorsed.

A Coolidge-for-President Club has been organized by employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad in St. Louis. More than 300 workers and their wives are said to have joined. F. M. Kelso is organizer and chairman of the club.

FIDDLERS PLAN GAY REQUIEM

Mississippi Convention to Bury "Late Mr. Boll Weevil" Oct. 21.

By the Associated Press.

POSSOM NECK, Miss., Oct. 3.—John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, Democratic nominees for President and Vice President, have been invited to attend the Old Fiddlers' convention in Kosciusko, Miss., Oct. 21.

"We are making the best cotton crop we have made in many years," says a letter containing the convention's program. "The Lord has sent dry weather and Mr. Boll Weevil has been put to sleep. We are going to celebrate the event by officialy burying Mr. Weevil to the good old tunes of 'Indian Warhoop,' 'Sally Good'n,' 'Whistling Rufus,' 'Arkansas Traveler,' 'Dixie,' 'That Gal O'Mine,' and others."

Holdup at Piggly Wiggly Store.

A minute after the Piggly Wiggly store at 530 North Taylor avenue was opened at 7:15 a. m. today, two youths with revolvers walked in and forced the manager, Ralph Ash, to open the safe from which they took $152, ignoring change which Ash had been counting when they entered. After forcing Ash to open a rear door for them, and warning Ash and his clerk, Earl La Plant, to make no outcry, the robbers escaped through the rear door into an alley.

The reading habits of the people in the first 21 cities show that America is a nation of EVENING newspaper readers.

St. Louis has long been recognized as an EVENING newspaper city with the Post-Dispatch as the one, big, popular newspaper covering the field.

In each of the other 20 major cities there is a leading EVENING newspaper—there is also a morning newspaper.

In these 21 cities the city circulation of the leading EVENING newspapers reaches the magnificent total of 3,192,980, exceeding the first morning newspapers by 1,097,341—more than 52% Greater Coverage than the morning newspapers.

Thus has the combined judgment of newspaper readers in these 21 major cities proved that the Great American Homes everywhere prefer the EVENING newspaper—giving EVENING newspapers a COMPACT circulation that makes the concentration of advertising most profitable.

MILLION IDLE FACE WINTER IN ENGLAND

Problem of Unemployment Continues Unsolved for Last Five Years.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Great Britain's army of more than 1,000,000 jobless persons is facing the fifth winter of unemployment. The permanent solution of this post-war problem is as far away as ever, in the opinion of economists.

Inasmuch as three different governments—Coalition, Conservative and Labor—have dealt with the question, which still awaits solution, it would appear to the detached observer that the problem is one of after-war economics rather than partisan politics.

For five years the unemployment question has been a sort of urchin's joy to whatever political party happened to be in opposition. In fact, it seems to be a problem that is more readily grasped by an opposition than by whichever Government happens to be responsible for the conduct of affairs.

Crux of the Situation.

The Labor Government, not without pride, points to the latest unemployment figures available—1,149,100—as about 120,000 less than for the corresponding figures a year ago. This, however, leaves the minimum at well over a million, where it has been for the last five winters and where, in the view of not a few economists, it is to remain permanently.

The crux of the question, according to a spokesman for the Labor government, lies in the ship-building, cotton, and engineering industries which have never recovered from the disruption in which they were found at the close of the World War.

This spokesman declared that Britain's army of more than a million jobless can never be put to work until the solution of the problem of German reparations has restored the economic equilibrium, not only of Germany but of Europe and the world. Closely akin to this problem, in the view of economists of the Labor party, is the question of trade relations with Russia.

Dole a Necessary Evil.

As the Dawes plan has just been launched and the House of Commons, when Parliament resumes, will debate the treaty which the MacDonald government negotiated with Soviet Russia, the future alone will determine how these latest international agreements will affect world trade conditions.

The unemployment dole is regarded by both philanthropists and economists as a necessary evil—inadequate to take care of the needs of its recipients and demoralizing because payments are made without any return in labor.

A family consisting of father and mother and four children, if eligible to the unemployment dole, will receive 31 shillings ($3.72) a week this winter, as against 24 shillings a week last winter.

GRASSHOPPERS LIKE ALCOHOL

By the Associated Press.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 3.—In a campaign to exterminate grasshoppers in Okanogan County it was found that a mixture used to poison the insects became so attractive when fermented that it was 50 to 75 per cent more efficient. The mixture is composed of molasses, arsenic, lemons, oranges, bran and sawdust.

It was first used freshly mixed, but when some that had been left over night and developed alcohol was spread over the ground as an experiment, it was found of enhanced allurement.

10-Day Tube FREE

Mother! Be sure you get Pepsodent for your child's teeth

DO you want your child to have prettier teeth now, and better protection from tooth troubles in later life?

Mail the coupon then for a 10-day tube of Pepsodent, free. See what the world's leading dentists urge mothers to use as modern science's latest attainment in tooth care.

You will notice a film on your child's teeth. That's a frequent danger sign — an invitation for tooth troubles. The same stubborn film that you can feel by running your tongue across your own teeth. You must combat it. Ordinary dentifrices don't fight it successfully. Harsh, gritty substances are injurious to enamel.

Film is the greatest enemy of tooth health. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it. The acid that leads to early decay forms. Old type methods failed to combat it. Men of science engaged themselves in discovering an effective combatant.

Now in Pepsodent, two new combatants are embodied—combatants approved by highest dental authority. It curdles the film, then gently removes it. It keeps the teeth whiter, cleaner, more sparkling. It is the modern scientific method for better tooth protection. Insist upon it. Get a tube today. Mail the coupon.

Russian Peasants Big Land Owners.

BREMEN, Sept. 23.—A German investigator of Russia, Dr. Adolph Grabowsky, declares that, prior to the war, the peasants of Russia owned 35 per cent of the land, while the royal family and the state owned an equal amount. Today the peasants possess 97 per cent, and the state 3 per cent of the land within the boundaries of the country.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING

See in Post-Dispatch July 28, 1924, what the Federal Trade Commission at Washington term Mount Olive Coal

News Item Post-Dis., July 28, 1924.

'MOUNT OLIVE' COAL PROTECTED BY U. S. COMMISSION RULING

Cannot Be So Advertised Unless It Is Produced in Designated Illinois District.

"Mount Olive" coal means coal produced at or near Mount Olive, Ill., and not coal of claimed equality produced elsewhere, under a ruling of the Federal Trade Commission at Washington, made public Saturday.

——— Co. and the ——— Co., both of St. Louis, are ordered to cease using the words "Mount Olive" in advertising or otherwise in the merchandising of coal unless the coal so designated is produced at Mount Olive or the small district contiguous thereto, including Staunton.

These companies are found by the commission to have been marketing as "Guaranteed Mount Olive Coal," and "Coal Mount Olive grade," mined outside the Mount Olive district. The finding states that for more than 40 years the Mount Olive district has produced "Mount Olive coal," which is of higher quality, and has a higher market value than the coal sold by the ——— and ——— companies.

The companies have claimed that although their coal is not produced within the boundaries of the Mount Olive district, it is of the same quality and value as Mount Olive coal.

Editorial Post-Dispatch, July 29, 1924.

NO PROFIT IN DECEPTION

No fault can be found with the action of the Federal Trade Commission in ordering certain St. Louis coal companies to cease merchandising the output of their mines as coal of a well-known brand when it is not produced in the field implied by the use of the brand.

It appears from the commission's finding that the coal the companies pretended to supply is the product of a restricted field and that it has a quality and value greater than the product of adjacent fields. Assuming the correctness of the commission's conclusion as to its quality and value and the relatively lower quality and value of the product of other fields, the effect of the companies' misrepresentation was to deceive the public into buying inferior fuel in the belief that it was buying superior fuel, a simple case of misbranding and counterfeiting.

Even if it were true, as claimed, that the product offered was of even quality with the other, there would still be the objection to appropriating the enterprise and advertising of producers of the named brand by the companies which had done nothing to give the coal a reputation, which would be unethical if not dishonest.

But it is interesting to be told that the companies against which the order is issued have not found misrepresentation profitable, for one of them has gone out of business and the other is in the hands of a receiver. So again it is shown that in advertising and merchandising it is good business to tell the truth.

NEGRO ROBBER SHOOTS RESTAURANT OWNER

John Lattskou Not Seriously Injured—Holdup Man Flees Empty-Handed.

John Latskou, 39 years old, of 2918 Washington avenue, proprietor of a restaurant at 307 North Leffingwell avenue, was shot in the left side of the head by a negro robber who held up the restaurant at 12:15 a. m. today. At city hospital it was said the bullet did not enter Latskou's head and inflicted only a superficial wound.

Latskou was in the kitchen of the restaurant, preparing an order of food for Frank Thayer, a nightwatchman in the neighborhood, when the negro entered with drawn automatic pistol and forced Thayer to elevate his hands. As the negro started around the counter to the cash register, Latskou peeped through a glass door leading to the kitchen and the negro shot through the door at him, ran out and escaped. The robber got nothing from the cash register.

DIPLOMATIC DIFFERENCE ENDS IN TOBACCO BOYCOTT

Bulgarian Trade Booms When German Refuses to Make Address to Greeks in French.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PLOVDIV, Bulgaria, Sept. 13.—When diplomats disagree, business sometimes goes by the board, and what is Greece's loss may become Bulgaria's gain. Just because a minister insisted French was the language of diplomacy, the tobacco growers of Plovdiv hope to find a new market for their product in Berlin.

Herr von Schoen, German Minister to Greece, arrived in Athens and announced he would make his official address to the President of the Greek Republic in German. But the Greek Foreign Minister, M. Roussos, insisted that French was the language of diplomacy in Greece as elsewhere, and said that Herr von Schoen should speak in French.

The German press then took up the matter, and pointed out with resentment that a Greek Minister to Germany had been permitted to make his presentation address to the president of the German Reich in Greek. The boycott on tobacco, the chief product of Greece, followed.

Germany in 1923 imported 12,000,000 kilograms of tobacco, and Bulgarian growers are hoping to annex a considerable proportion of the Greek shipments for at least as long the the boycott lasts.

188 WARSHIPS OF JAPAN IN MIMIC WAR PROGRAM

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Sept. 15.—For three weeks in October Japan will undergo "invasion" from the Pacific Ocean. The empire, from the Kuriles in the north to Formosa in the south, will be threatened by an "enemy" fleet from the east. It will be the first major maneuvers to be held by the Japanese navy since the Washington armament conference.

One hundred and eighty eight vessels of war will take part in the mimic naval conflict, which is designed to test the defensibility of Japan against attack from the east. The cost of the maneuvers will be 5,000,000 yen, and of this 3,500,000yen will be spent for fuel alone.

All the Japanese navy's air forces will take part in the operations, including about 100 airplanes and the new Astra dirigible of the Kasumigaura corps. This will be the first time that aircraft have taken part in Japanese naval maneuvers.

WASHINGTON GETS LESS RAIN

By the Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 3.—All records for drouth were broken in Western Washington, the area between the Cascade Mountains and the Pacific Ocean, in the weather year ending Sept. 1. This region generally is associated with heavy rainfall, but in the last year only 22.79 inches of rain were measured by the Weather Bureau here. Records dating from 1884 make the average annual moisture 40.79. The banner year for rain was 1897, when the fall was 52.76.

Old-timers commonly assert that the rainfall is diminishing as the forests that once covered Western Washington like a mat are being cut away.

Did the have mercy on that girl when she presented such a pitiful spectacle while standing there in the road crying and pleading for clothes?" he asked. "The crime is a black spot on the history of the country and must be removed."

In charging the jury, Chief Judge Urner said its only concern was to decide whether Leatherman was guilty of tarring and feathering, or of aiding and abetting in tarring and feathering. The penalty in either event is from 18 months to 10 years in the penitentiary.

Mrs. Mary Shank, at the opening of the trial, pleaded guilty to a charge of applying the tar and feathers to the girl's body. The reason for the attack, Mrs. Shank said, was that the girl was too intimate with Lloyd Shank, her husband.

GROH WILL BE. OUT OF GIANTS' BATTING ORDER IN FIRST GAM

Lindstrom, 18-Year-Old Rookie, Will Be at Hot Corner for McGraw's Men

Senators to Start World's Series With Regular Battle Front—Johnson and McQuillan Favored to Pitch — President Coolidge to Hurl First Ball.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—While an undercurrent of suspense remained, the cloak of bribery scandal hanging over the New York Giants seemed to have been brushed aside, temporarily at least today in the bustle of preparations for the opening of the world's series tomorrow.

Prospect of further fireworks in connection wit hthe disclosures that have brought about the banishment of Jimmy O'Connell, outfielder, and Cozy Dolan, coach, of the Giants, was minimized by early developments.

Commissioner Landis, declaring nothing had occurred over night to alter his view that the world's series should go on, announced that the general meeting of club owners slated for today had been postponed. This session, called for the annual draft player process, was expected to develop a lively discussion of the scandal situation, but it was announced it had been deferred until next Wednesday, in New York, because the minor league player selection lists were not completed.

Landis Prepared to Act.

The commissioner declared he anticipated no further steps today in the scandal situation, but added he was prepared to act at any time upon information that would alter the case as he left it Wednesday night with his decision expelling O'Connell and Dolan.

Landis conferred for an hour during the morning with umpires for th eseries, gave them instructions and announced that assignments fo rthe opening game placed Tommy Connolly, dean of the American League representatives, at the home plate; William Klem, National League dean, at first base; William Dinneen, American League, at second, and Ernest Quigley, National League, at third. They will rotate in the direction of first base for the succeeding games.

Members of the two contending clubs, ignoring to all outward appearances the cloud of scandal, thrust over the scene, today went through their final practice. "Bucky" Harris and his Senators went through a snappy drill this morning, while the Giants, making their first appearance at the local park, went through a workout in the afternoon.

Groh Will Be Missing.

Fervent fans indulged in an eleventh hour scramble for tickets that have been in unprecedented demand ever since the Senators became pennant winners for the first time since they entered big league baseball, 40 years ago.

Walter Johnson, idol of Washington fandom, who shares with his young manager, "Buck" Harris, the heroic roles in Washington's triumph, will pitch the opening game and attempt to gain the crown of glory he has been seeking for 18 seasons. Opposed to him probably will be Hughie McQuillan, right handed ace of the Giant hurling corps, although Manager John McGraw may use his southpaw, Art Nehf.

Washington will start its fight for the championship with the same lineup that carried the club to the American League top. With Johnson opposed to them, the Giants are expected to take the field with Terry, a youngster, and left-handed batter, on first, Kelly, regular first sacker, in centerfield, and Mack Wilson, another newcomer, in leftfield in place of Irish Meusel. Capt. Frank Frisch's finger has recovered sufficiently to assure his return to the keystone post, but Henie Groh, regular third baseman, still is hobbling around on a cane, as a result of a twisted knee, and Freddy Lindstrom, 18-year-old schoolboy, will open the series at the hot corner.

Except that Frisch will be back, this makeup of the Giant machine corresponds witn that which composed the club's winning dash for the pennant in the closing days of the campaign.

President to Pitch First Ball.

Meanwhile President Coolidge was said to have perfected a wind-up for the throw-out that will set the series in motion, while Washington officialdom prepared to take part in the spectacle among the 37,000 ticket holders who represent but a lucky minority of the tens of thousands that have sought in vain to obtain the coveted pasteboards.

The day brought a further influx of baseball men, officials, club owners and fars from all parts of the country, but among the notable absentees was Ban Johnson, American League president, who declared he would demand sweeping Federal inquiry into the scandal. Johnson was not expected to arrive until tomorrow.

Landis declined further comment on Johnson's attitude, nor would he comment upon the purpose of Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburg Club owner, to demand that the investigation be reopened. The commissioner referred to his previous advice that they "keep their shirts on."

Meanwhile, a fresh drive was begun on ticket speculators who have continued to do a thriving business.

Bribery Disclosures Probably Prevented A Baseball "Strike"

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.

THE baseball scandal which eliminated Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan from organized baseball probably prevented a strike of the New York players in the world's series which begin in Washington tomorrow.

The New York players held a meeting recently and it was decided to confer with Stanley Harris and the other Washington players over calling a strike unless the players received their salary for the games in addition to their world's series money.

At the joint meeting of the two big leagues last winter it was voted that the players this year would receive only their world's series share and no pay for the games.

With a scandal, it is not likely that the New Yorw players will go through with their plans to call a strike.

FEW FOLLOWERS GREET GIANTS ON ARRIVAL AT NATIONAL CAPITAL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—A handful of spectators gave the New York Giants an undemonstrative reception last night when the National League champions arrived to prepare for the first game of the world series. The players, in charge of Hughie Jennings, assistant manager, went immediately to their hotel.

Hardly a word was spoken as the players made their way from the train to the gates where faces peered expectantly. The Giants marched through a lane formed by police. The crowd, except for an occasional remark, was quiet.

Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan, the disbarred members of the quad, were not with the team.

CLOUDY WEATHER IS PREDICTED FOR FIRST WORLD'S SERIES GAME

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Prediction of cloudy weather for tomorrow's world's series opening was hailed by Washington fans today s an omen for triumph by Walter Johnson, Senator's pitching ace, and his speed ball.

Stopping in front of a newspaper office, Johnson was encountered by a youth bearing the latest meteorological reports.

"Here's good news for you, Walter," the youth volunteered and Johnson grinned as he was handed his bit of encouragement.

SAND WANTS PERMISSION TO STATE HIS CASE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HAZLETON, Pa., Oct. 3.—Heinie Sand, Phillie shortstop, here on a barnstorming tour with the Philadelphia National League team, refused today to discuss further the details of the attempted bribery by Jimmy O'Connell, New York outfielder, and Cozy Dolan, member of the same club.

"I am surprised that Frisch, Kelly and Young are implicated," Sand commented. "It is news to me that they were connected with the case, for as far as I know these players had no connection with the matter at all. O'Connell and Dolan are the only ones I know of that are in the bribery plot.

"I hope that Commissioner Landis will give me permission to state my connection with the case as I feel some of the fans will think that I am a stool pigeon."

Miss Pep and Miss Faust Win and Will Meet in Final in District Golf

Titleholder, Playing Uphill Most of Way, Defeats Mrs. C. E. Hill, 2 and 1—Miss Faust Eliminates Mrs. Richard Eiseman, 6 and 4.

By Dent McSkimming,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

GLEN ECHO COUNTRY CLUB, Oct. 3.—Miss Virginia Pep of Triple A, who has held the St. Louis Women's District Golf Association championship for two years, will meet Miss Audrey Faust of the St. Louis Country Club in the tournament final here tomorrow.

Miss Pep entered the final by defeating Mrs. C. E. Hill of Bellerive, 2 up and 1, in the hardest match of the tournament.

Miss Faust won in rather easy fashion from Mrs. Richard Eiseman of Westwood, 6 and 4.

As was predicted, Mrs. Hill gave Miss Pep a stirring battle all the way. Miss Pep was never more than 1 up on her opponent until the seventeenth, when her 12-foot putt from the edge of the green rimmed the cup and she won with a 4 to Mrs. Hill's 6.

Miss Pep Has Hard Match.

Mrs. Hill held the advantage at the end of the ninth hole, 1 up. For the first time in the tournament, Miss Pep was forced to play an uphill game the greater part of the way. She consistently outdrove the Bellerive golfer but Mrs. Hill's iron approaches were so accurate that they counterbalanced her opponent's longer tee shots.

On the 410-yard fourteenth hole, Miss Pep outdrove Mrs. Hill at least 50 yards, but her second, a long brassie shot, found a bunker at the edge of the green.

She required three strokes to get out of the trap and lost the hole, squaring the match.

Champion Takes Lead.

They halved the next hole, but Miss Pep went into the lead on the short sixteenth. On this hole both overshot the green, but Miss Pep's recovery was only eight feet from the pin, whereas Mrs. Hill shot all the way across the green and required a 5, to Miss Pep's 4.

On the seventeenth Mrs. Hill was in the rough, hooked her second and overshot the green on her third, going into a trap. Miss Pep's second was on the green and her third narrowly missed the cup. She was down in four to Mrs. Hill's six, giving her the match.

The cards follow:

Out—
Miss Pep..6 6 6 5 4 5 7 5 3—47
Mrs. Hill..5 6 5 7 4 5 7 5 3—47
In—
Miss Pep..6 5 5 4 6 4 4 4 5—42—89
Mrs. Hill..7 6 5 4 5 4 5 6 5—47—94

Miss Faust Wins Easily.

Mrs. Eiseman was out-classed almost from the start by Miss Faust who held a six up advantage after nine holes. No medal play cards were kept on this match but Miss Faust approached an 85 for the 18 holes.

Her driving was excellent and her approach shots well executed, but her putting was not always of championship stripe. Miss Faust said after the match that she was well satisfied with her long game but realized that her work on the greens was not as good as she is capable of.

BIG TEN OFFICIALS DISCUSS RULE CHANGES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Uniform interpretation of football rules was before a meeting of Western conference arbiters here today. The session was called by Prof. Ralph W. Aigler of Michigan, chairman of the officials committee and Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the conference.

Among the matters under discussion were: Shoulder pads and shoe cleats, kick offs, prompt starting of games, time out and extra time, roughing in forward passed and various angles in officiating.

R. E. Karls Win Bowling Title

R. E. Karls, of the Majestic Garden team, with a score of 1632 for eight frames, won the invitation sweepstakes tournament at the Washington alleys. His average was 204. J. J. Jabby was second with a score of 1611 and an average of 201.

JIMMY DELANEY AND JIMMY SLATTERY IN 6-ROUND GO TONIGHT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. — Jimmy Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., conqueror of Paul Berlenbach, will meet Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, in a six-round match at Madison Square Garden tonight. The winner will be matched with Harry Greb for the world's middle-weight title, Rickard yesterday said that Greb had already signed a contract for the match.

Although the battle will be for only six rounds due to the fact that Slattery is under the age limit for bouts of longer duration in this State, it has attracted unusual interest owning to the prominence of the principals. Slattery jumped into the limelight a short time ago by walking in with a judge's verdict over Young Stribling, Macon, Ga., a schoolboy boxer, at Buffalo, while Delaney's feat in stopping Berlenbach caused a surprise in Bridgeport.

MLLE. LENGLEN FEARS SHE WILL BE FORCED TO START OVER AGAIN

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 3. — Suzanne Lenglen fears she will have to learn tennis all over again. When the mighty Suzanne returned from her enforced vacation at Pourville, near Dieppe, where she retired after her breakdown at Wimbledon, she found that her drive had lost its speed and her placements their accuracy.

Baltimore Wins Opening Contest

St. Paul Defeated in 9th Inning When Jacobson Hits Home Run.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 3.—The Baltimore Orioles will go into the second contest of the little world's series today with the edge over the Saints, their American Association opponents, as a result of yesterday's ninth inning victory.

By drawing first blood, the Easterners are considered to have placed themselves in a position of distinct advantage in the series. Groves, yesterday's winning twirler, will be ready to come back Sunday for another effort, while the Birds also have defeated Markle, acknowledged peer of the St. Paul mound corps.

It is probable that no clubs in the history of the junior series have ever been better matched, the first game of the series being a bitterly fought affair with honors almost exactly even until Jacobson came to bat in the ninth and clouted the homer that turned apparent defeat into a 4 to 3 victory.

Although Groves had a slight edge on his opponent, Markle, after an unsatisfactory first inning, settled down to splendid work on the rubber, flashing a curve whose sharp breaks were almost impossible to fathom.

Jack Ogden is expected to be on the mound for the Orioles in today's game. Manager Nick Allen of the Saints, will probably send in Bill Merritt, a left-hander.

SCOTT FIELD BOXING PROGRAM FEATURED BY TWO EARLY KNOCKOUTS

Jack Adams of Scott Field won a point verdict after 10 rounds of milling with Bryan Porter of East St. Louis in the feature bout of a boxing card at Scott Field last night. The East St. Louis lad was leading on points until the fourth round when Adams landed a terrific right cross to the heart and Porter was visibly slowed up thereafter.

Jackie Poole, of Belleville, outpointed "Frog" Vidal of Scott Field in six rounds. Jack Corey of East St. Louis, knocked out Soldier Bailey of Scott Field, in the first round of a four-round preliminary, and Jimmy Britton of Scott Field, also knocked out his opponent, Frankie Clark of Belleville, in the first round. "Swede" Johnson of Scott Field and Kid Beal of East St. Louis boxed four listless rounds and were cautioned for holding by Referee Walter Heisner.

LESTER SELL, FORMER CARDINAL, STRIKES OUT 17 OF 21 BATTERS

By the Associated Press.

READING, Pa., Oct. 3.—Lester "Epp" Sell, recently with the St. Louis Cardinals, pitching here yesterday in a 7-inning game for the Reading Police against the Allentown Police, struck out 17 men out of the 21, 10 of them in a row. He hit the eleventh, but struck out the twelfth. The visitors did not get a hit, Reading winning 5 to 0.

Jake Daubert Improves.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 3.—Jake Daubert, captain and first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, was reported today to be "doing well" after an operation yesterday for appendicitis. Mrs. Daubert came to Cincinnati to remain with her husband until he is able to leave for his home in Pennsylvania.

WRAY'S COLUMN

A Matter of Money.

TRYING to drag the entire Giant team into the baseball scandal cesspool seems to be the main objective of many writers and officials, some of whom have axes to grind.

The expressed reason is that there appears no motive for a young man, with a clean record like O'Connell's, a player whose entire baseball future was in front of him, to jeopardize his career by a bribery attempt.

But who can vouch for what passes under the hat of anybody else? Many psychological and other explanations of O'Connell's "boner" might be devised by Clarence Darrow and other psychiatrists. But there is a plain, matter-of-fact reason outstanding—a reason that has been the root of all evil for nearly all time—MONEY.

Big Profit in Sight.

O'CONNELL and Dolan are reported to have offered a bribe of $500. The world's series winners' share will probably run close to $4500 each; and even the losers will get about $3000 apiece. Thus, for an investment of $250 each, Dolan and O'Connell could have made absolutely certain a net return of not less than $2750 apiece.

Many a dazzled mind has fallen for the flash of a $1000 bill, in the world's history.

Until REAL evidence develops, why blacken men who have been acquitted by baseball's high court?

It's a flagrant injustice to the square fellows who have played loyally and honestly all their lives.

Ban Is Outvoted.

NOTHING will come of any discussion contemplating halting this world's series, although Ban Johnson of the American League started the eagle screaming and Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg backed him up.

The Advisory Committee will outvote Johnson, as Heydler and Landis, with Johnson, constitute the committee. Both Heydler and Landis have indicated that there would be no interference with the world's series.

We will say this for Ban Johnson's stand — that it ought to induce Landis to make public the nature of and extent of his information, in order not only to justify his own stand in the matter, but to clear absolutely the reputations of other players whose names have been dragged into the affair.

By making public the facts, Landis could show what proofs O'Connell had, when he tried to implicate other members of the club.

Judge Landis is taking upon himself a large order in deciding what is and what is not good news for public consumption. Baseball owes its financial props, the fans, every scrap of information in all matters that affect its integrity.

Two men are listed for guards, Ellinger and Farwick who both tip the scales at 190 pounds and both of whom are playing their third year. Schmidt, Higi, Klausner Clark and Krug will oppose them.

The battle at center will be watched with interest. Bob Hannegan, last year's Billiken fullback who has been made over into a center with much success, will meet Edgar Garbisch, an all-America choice of 1922. Garbisch is also captain of the team. He weighs 185 pounds and is six feet tall. Hannegan is about six feet and is perhaps heavier than the West Pointer. Broghammer, Stampfli and Kearns were also taken along to relieve Hannegan.

Quarterback McKenzie will be opposed to Yeomans and possibly Johnson, both of whom weigh 179 pounds and are fast. Hewitt, who has been ill, an all-America man weighing 205 pounds, Wilson, another Camp choice of 185 pounds, Gillmore, famous end runner weighing 190 pounds and Trapnell, a 200-pounder are the halfback material while Wood, a versatile man of 190 pounds is listed as fullback.

Billikens Own Flyweight Backfield.

These will be opposed by Fischer, Ramacciotti, O'Reilly, Karst, McCarty and Kapl none of whom, except Ramacciotti, weighs over 165 pounds and most considerably under that.

This flyweight backfield will have to do some tall speeding. It is likely that Savage will display an open attack with lots of chasing around the ends and a few forward passes.

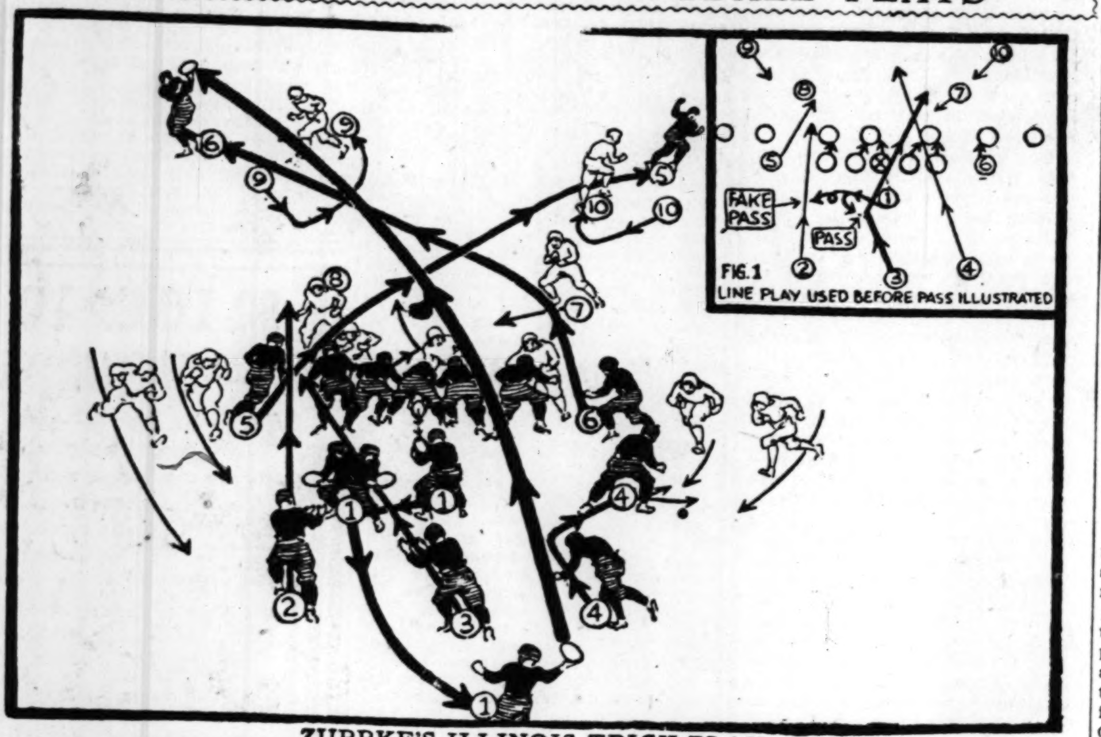
FAMOUS WINNING FOOTBALL PLAYS



ZUPPKE'S ILLINOIS TRICK PLAY.

WINNING PLAY—No. 4

Coach Robert Zuppke of Illinois is a specialist in deception. He figures opponents are packed full of human nature, and therefore may make mistakes. This makes trick plays possible. The accompanying formation is built on this theory, and its success depends on its deception. According to Coach Zuppke, the play given here scored touchdowns for the championship Illinois elevens of 1914-'15-'18.

The diagram in the corner gives the lineup for Zuppke's play, which appears to be a line smash but ends in a forward pass from the quarterback to the right end.

As the formation develops the quarterback fakes first to left halfback, No. 2, and then to fullback, No. 3. The right halfback, No. 4, starts toward the line, but turns and blocks opposing end.

After the double fake the quarterback, No. 1, then rus back and throws. These fakes have a tendency to cause the two lines of defense to come forward to stop what appears to be a smash at the center, which is the most vulnerable spot in the box defense. This forward move or momentary hesitation permits the offensive end to get the jump on the defense, which in this case should mean a touchdown.

Both ends go down, the quarterback throwing to the one that is free.

Ft. Worth Again Dixie Champion

For Fourth Time in Five Years Texans Defeat Southern Leaguers.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 3.—The story of the 1924 Dixie series was written in the final game of the classic played here yesterday and for the fourth time in five years the Fort Worth Panthers were crowned kings of Southern diamonds.

The final game was easily the best exhibition in the eight-game series required to determine the championship. It was a battle between southpaws with Cy Warmoth, the Chick hurler and Josephus "Bugs" Pate, veteran ace of the Fort Worth club. Warmoth held his opponents to six hits, retired nine men on strikes and issued four passes. Pate held the chicks to five hits, four of which were clean, fanned two batters and walked three.

The following is a recapitulation of the eight-game series. Runs: Fort Worth 53; Memphis 17. Hits: Fort Worth, 74; Memphis 66. Errors: Fort Worth, 17; Memphis, 9. Home runs: Fort Worth, 12; Memphis, 0. Attendance: 60,847.

Receipts: $100,683.33.
Texas players' share, $17,029.50.
Southern players' share, $11,353.28.
Clubs share: $52,160.67.
League's share, $20,139.47.

Of the $11,353.28 share to the Southern Association players, the Memphis players will receive only $6,811.95. The remainder will be split between the Atlanta and New Orleans players, on the basis of 25 and 15 per cent of the total reserve. Otherwise the share received by the Memphis club, under the rule of the Southern Association will be divided equally among the eight clubs of the league.

THOS. F. RYAN TO SELL ALL RACING STOCK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Thomas Fortune Ryan will sell all his racing and breeding stock at an early date, it is stated. Oak Ridge Farm in the Virginia Piedmont, between Charlottesville and Lynchburg, also will be sold, it is understood.

Among the racing stock to be sold are Idiosyncrasy, Laurano, winner of the Metropolitan handicap last spring; Jubal, Mino, Early and John S. Mosby.

Oak Ridge Farm embraces several thousand acres.

EPINARD ARRIVES IN LATONIA TO TRAIN FOR NEXT SPECIAL RACE

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 3.—Epinard, champion thoroughbred of France, furnished the main topic or discussion among horsemen and turf followers at Latonia today. The Wertheimer colt arrived at the Mill Dale course yesterday, in the same car with Ladkin, his conqueror at Aqueduct last Saturday.

Both thoroughbreds were reported by their trainers to have made the trip in excellent condition, and both are ready to begin preparation for their engagement in the third international special, to be run over the mile and a quarter distance here Oct. 11.

Uruguay Soccer Team May Play St. Louis Eleven

Olympic Champions Seek Games Here for Next March or April.

St. Louis soccer fans will be given a rare treat next March if plans now under consideration mature. The Uruguay team, which won the Olympic championship at Paris early in the summer, has asked St. Louis officials to arrange dates for the appearance of the team here in late March or early April, 1925. President Winton Barker of the local league has indicated that he will make every effort to bring the South Americans here for one or more games.

In a communication from Rodman Wanamaker, Uruguayan Consul at New York, received by Harry McCarthy, manager of the Vesper-Buicks, today, plans for the trip are outlined. It is planned to play 15 games in the United States and already the financial success of the venture is assured by the booking of three games in New York City with an American League team. Wanamaker's communication was directed to the Vespers as the champions of St. Louis League and national cup finalists.

Critics who reported the Olympic soccer games declared that the South Americans were the fastest combination ever seen in Europe and that their team play was the equal of that of a team of Scotch professionals.

California Polo Team Loses.

By the Associated Press.

WESTBURY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The California polo team was eliminated from the tournament for the Monty Waterbury cup yesterday on Cochrane Field at Meadowbrook, failing to hold a handicap of four goals which it received from the Orange County horsemen and losing in the semifinal match by a score of 12 to 8.

Drury Eleven Will Face Pikers With Better Team Than in 1923

New Coach, Return of Nine Letter Men, and a Few Good Recruits Have Produced Strong Combination at Springfield—Veteran Players Shifted.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 3.—The 1924 Drury College Panthers who play Washington tomorrow appear to be a vast improvement over the squad of last season. There is more fight and pep displayed, as there is a real battle being waged for each position despite the small squad.

An entirely new system of football is being taught the Panthers this season under the guiding hand of Athletic Director Fred. M. Walker, one of the greatest backs ever produced at the University of Chicago. Walker has accomplished considerable during his short time with the squad.

There is little new material at Drury this season, but Coach Walker was cheered some when nine letter men returned to the fold. Several drastic changes will be seen, however, in both the line and backfield. Fryer, who played in the line last year until forced out on account of injuries, is showing to good advantage this year at halfback position.

Drury Has Left-Handed Passer.

He is also a left-handed passer and has been getting good distance with his passes. His line plunging is unusually good.

Clarence Hines, triple threat man of the 1923 Panther backfield, will be seen at end this year. He is fast, rangy and has shown well as a wing candidate. Staubus, another lineman of last year, is working the fullback position to a nicety this season. Staubus can pass the ball farther than any man on the squad.

Two members of the varsity were injured in practice Tuesday afternoon, and will be out of the Saturday game. One of the cripples is Mehrle, a freshman who has been doing unusually good work for a first-year man. Neitzert, end, is the other player on the hospital list. Neitzert has three cracked ribs.

Drury will throw a line on the field Saturday against Washington University that will average about 175 pounds. The backfield will weigh about 162. The weight of the backfield will vary during the game, as the backs and ends will probably be shifted several times.

In all probability Coach Walker's team will rely on straight football while on the offense. There will be some forward passes used, as some attention has been devoted to that type of football. Drury's line for Saturday's game is problematical as a result of injured players. In the backfield Staubus will hold down the fullback position, with Fryer and Neale at halfback and Decker at quarterback.

In the line Keisker will play center, Wheatley and Lockwood guards, Kerr and Davis tackles and Hines and Matthews ends. Matthews is from Nebraska. He was all-state high school end for two years.

LAWSON WATTS FAVORED TO WIN GOLF TITLE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—More than 200 members of the American Bankers Association competed today in the annual banker's golf tournament for the St. Louis cup, held by T. H. Sherman of the State Bank of New York.

L. M. Watts, St. Louis, and Robert J. Barr, New York, were considered leading contenders for the trophy, awarded for the lowest medal score. Play was over three courses of the Olympic Fields club.

Reisler Sues Dempsey.

Pikers Weakened By Injuries for Opening Contest

Veteran Lyle and Al Hays, Backfield Men, Hurt in Scrimmage.

Injuries have begun to take their toll of the Piker football squad, which is to play its opening game of the season against the Drury College Panthers at Francis Field tomorrow afternoon. Several backfield players are sure to be out of the fray and the condition of some of the linemen is still uncertain.

Al Hays, the former County flash, will be unable to make a debut in the backfield because of an injury suffered in scrimmage last week; and Martin Lyle, a veteran halfback, will also be unable to play. Lyle, too, was hurt in scrimmage, and although he is improving ,Coach Wimberly will take no chances with him.

Coach Wimberly expects the Panthers to furnish a good test of Washington's strength. The visitors always have a hard fighting team, and that fact coupled with their eagerness to avenge themselves for Washington's lucky 6—0 victory last year insures a battle tomorrow. The Piker coach hopes to use every promising player on his squad in at least part of the fray.

Lineup Is in Doubt.

The varsity has not yet been chosen, and the opening game will give Coach Wimberly a chance to see his men in action and enable him to pick his eleven for the first conference game next week.

Coach Wimberly has not announced his opening lineup, but it will probably be as follows:

Avis and Goessling, ends.

Levy and Gragg, tackles.

Neupert and Ingamells, guards.

Webster, center.

Capt. Walsh, quarterback.

Floun, Cheatham, Glenn or Jim Ingram, backs.

There are other men on the squad as good as many of the above, and they will, beyond doubt, see action before the struggle is concluded.

The above lineup, however, is a strong one. Four of the linemen, Goessling, Gragg, Neupert and Levy have proved their worth and have won letters. Alvis is an entirely dependabe end. Ingamells has much to learn, but has plenty of courage and tries hard, while Webster is expected to develop into one of the mainstays of the line.

In the backfield, Capt. Walsh and Floun have won their letters. The two Ingram brothers, former freshmen and East St. Louis High stars, have been attracting much attention in practice sessions and are expected to make good. Burt Cheatham, playing his first year of varsity fooball, has also been making a good impression in scrimmage. He is little, but very fast and game.

Kick-off will be at 3 o'clock.

Three Young Senators Shoulder Heavy Burden in World's Series

Goslin, Bluege and McNeely, Little Heralded, Regarded as Important Cogs in the Washington Scheme of Play—McNeeley Played in Only 41 Games.

By Herman Wecke,

Three young players are expected to play important parts for the Senators, champions of the American League, in the world's series with the Giants, starting tomorrow. These athletes are Leon Allen "Goose" Goslin, Ossie Bluege and Earl McNeely. All were important factors in the Washington club's drive to its first American League pennant .

FOTOGRAMS

LEON GOSLIN

Goslin is the best known of the trio. He was obtained by the Senators in August, 1921, being purchased from Columbia, in the South Atlantic League.

That season he hit .260 in 14 clashes. In 1922 he swatted .324 in 101 games and in 1923 an even .300 in 150 battles. The past season was his best in the big tent. He finished with a .343 swat mark in 51 tilts.

Goslin was the real slugger of the Washington forces. He was the man who supplied the punch for the greater part of the campaign. His development had a lot to do with the success of the Harris entry. Included in his hits were 12 home runs. Goslin will be 23 years old on Oct. 16.

FOTOGRAMS

OSCAR BLUEGE

The past season was Bluege's third with the Senators. He came from Peoria in September, 1921, but was turned over to Minneapolis in 1922, coming back to the Washington team that fall. He will be 24 years old this month. Bluege had to fight for a regular job. Regarded as a great fielder, he is none too strong a hitter. Added to this, he was handicapped by a bad knee early in the season, but he won out, gaining his permanent berth at the expense of Prothro and Taylor, a a player purchased from Memphis. Bluege hit .197 in 19 games in 1922; .245 in 109 in 1923, and .274 in 113 the past year. He is regarded as one of the best fielding third-sackers in the Johnson cir cuit.

FOTOGRAMS

EARL McNEELY

McNeely is the luckiest player on the Washington roster. Purchased in midseason from Seattle, he has starred for "Buck" Harris. He played 41 games and batted to an average of .328. He came through with pinch hits that won games for the Senators, especially in the club's final flag drive.

McNeely was used regularly in center field and will be in the game against the National Leaguers.

He is a right-handed batter and covers plenty of ground in the outfield. McNeely replaced "Wid" Matthews, who since has been recalled from Seattle by the Senators.

Dempsey to Fight To Help Rickard

Champion, It Is Said, Will Box Gibbons on Percentage, Indoors.

By Fair Play.

(Copyright, 1924.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Jack Dempsey is going to prove that gratitude can exist in the prizering game. That is the inference to be drawn from reports he will fight Tommy Gibbons in the Madison Square Garden on St. Patrick's day or will go into action at an earlier date.

Where does the gratitude come in? Well, it comes in for Tex Rickard. Tex was pretty nice to Dempsey and Kearns when the two were starting to make their big bid for fame and fortune. Rickard was their benefactor. He listened to them when n oone else would, gave them their chance.

So now Dempsey will appear in an indoor show as a favor to Tex. The past outdoor season has put Rickard under the necessity of asking something of the champion.

There were few good attractions and Rickard had his hand in mighty few indeed. His pickings have been lean.

In order to attract customers and make the last season at the Garden a profitable one the champ will oblige his old friend and make one appearance at a reasonable percentage. It will be a tuning-up bout for next summer's activity and whoever is selected as an opponent it is certain the house will be packed. That is the sort of drawing card Dempsey is.

NO REASON TO DEPORT FIRPO, IMMIGRATION COMMISSIONER ASSERTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. — Luis Angel Firpo's chances of remaining in the United States as long as he wishes brightened today following the favorable report of Immigration Commissioner Henry H. Curran to the Department of Labor. Curran saw no reason why the Argentine fighter should be deported.

Canon Chase, who sought the fighter's deportation before the Wills match, indicated through his attorney that he would not consider the case ended.

Borrow, Leading Money Winner of American Turf in 1915, Is Dead

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.

BORROW is dead. The famous 16-year-old gelding, which was living a life of ease at H. P. Whitney's Brookdale Farm in New Jersey, suddenly collapsed on Tuesday and will be buried in one of the paddocks.

Borrow earned fame both in this country and in England. As a 2-year-old in 1910 he was the leading money winner in Great Britain. At 7 years of age, after being brought here, he was the leading money winner in this country, and at 9 years of age he won the Brooklyn Handicap, beating his stable companion, Regret, and Old Rosebud, in a sensational head and head finish, which is ever recalled by many as one of the greatest races ever run in this country. In that race he ran the mile and a furlong in 1:49 2-5, the fastest time for that distance recorded up to that year, and only two-fifths of a second behind the present world record.

Jimmy Rowe, trainer of the H. P. Whitney horses, took Borrow to Saratoga Springs last summer, believing that he could be trained for another race or two, but the old fellow did not show quite enough to justify starting him. Now he is gone.

SOLDAN STARS OF 1923 WILL OPPOSE FORMER TEAM-MATES SATURDAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., Oct. 3.—Gilbert McDaniel and Roland Crowell, former Soldan High School players, will be fighting their teammates of last year's football team when the Missouri Military Academy team mixes with the Soldan High School boys on Washington field, St. Louis, Saturday morning. McDaniel is the son of Lawrence McDaniel, of 5936 Waterman avenue, and Crowell is the son of W. I. Crowell of 6041 Waterman avenue. Both are linemen.

Selucki, a former McKinley High School backfield man is being used with the first string backs of the Cadet squad and will, no doubt, have a chance to fight his rival school again during the game. The soldier boys came through their game with the heavy Westminster College team last week in better shape than was expected. All the regulars will be ready to start against the Soldan team.

DAN KINSEY INJURED; WILL MISS ILLINOIS GAME WITH NEBRASKA

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—On their mettle after a fortnight of practice, seven Western Conference football teams completed preparations today for their opening games tomorrow. Three other Big Ten teams, which made their season's debut last week also were ready for a renewal of warfare.

Purdue was at Columbus for the conference opening game with Ohio State and Illinois arrived at Lincoln, where Nebraska awaited. These contests vied in holding the center of interest, with each team in fair shape, primed for the conflict.

The Illini backfield suffered from the loss of McIlwaun, Dancy, Kinsey, cripples, but competent subs were available.

Chicago planned a defense for the aerial attack expected from Missouri, which staged a limbering up work out at the Maroon home field. Northwestern's hope of beating South Dakota were raised by the return of Capt. Wienecke to practice sessions after an attack of boils put him out and defense tactics were perfected.

The Michigan Wolverines ended stiff practice on the eve of their engagement with Miami, while Minnesota eased up and confined itself to signal drill and passing in preparation for North Dakota.

Coach Jack Ryan of Wisconsin selected 28 of his 36 players for use against Ames tomorrow in an effort to get as many men under fire as possible. Today's scrimmage and skull practice ended the Badger's training for their second game of the season. Iowa faced the prospect of meeting the Oklahoma Southwestern Teachers, composed largely of Indians, with a line lacking speed and precision, and scant optimism prevailed in the Hawkeye camp. Today's practice at Indiana decided the Indiana eleven to bear the brunt against De Pauw in the Hoosier's opener.

Earl Cooper Is Winner.

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 2.—Earl Cooper won the 150-mile racing in day classic here yesterday afternoon with Bennett Hill second and Tommy Milton third. The time was 1 hour 25 minutes and 13 seconds, a new track record.

The Acceptance of the Big Evening Newspaper in the Centers of Population

In the thickly populated areas where the early morning call of commerce sends the members of the family group scurrying to banks, factories, offices, schools, stores and workshops—scant, if any, attention is given to morning reading.

Analysis shows that it is in the evening when the reunited family relaxes from the business duties of the day that the newspaper—the big EVENING newspaper—joins the group IN THE HOME as an invited and welcome guest, counselor and buying guide.

That this applies to homes of every class is shown by the superior city circulation of the big EVENING newspapers in the 21 largest cities of the United States. These big EVENING newspapers have 52% greater coverage than the first morning newspapers in the same cities. The EVENING newspapers have a combined city circulation of 3,192,980—over a Million more than the morning newspapers.

This compact and more thorough coverage, built up by the preference of the readers themselves, offers and delivers to advertisers the world's most productive, and therefore the most profitable and economical advertising force.

Comparisons show that advertisers throughout the nation have learned the reading habits of the American public and consequently CONCENTRATE the major portion of their appropriations in EVENING newspapers.

In 1923 the EVENING newspapers in the cities analyzed carried 54% more paid advertising than the first morning papers in the same cities, and the increase in newspaper advertising in 1923 over 1922 was nearly 100% greater in these big EVENING newspapers than in their nearest morning contemporaries.

Reader preference for the big EVENING newspaper makes compact circulation—and compact circulation makes the CONCENTRATION of advertising most profitable.

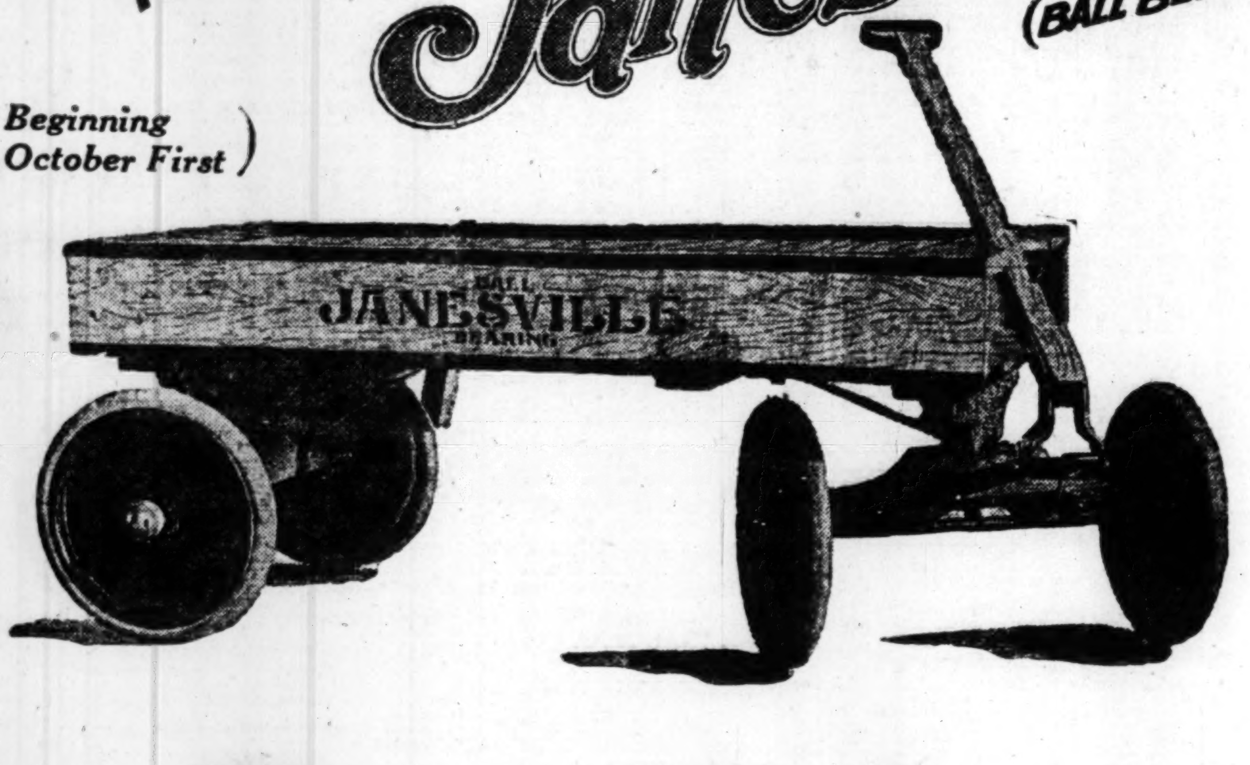
This is particularly true in St. Louis where the Post-Dispatch, because of a superior and more compact circulation, carried over 70% or 9,000,000 lines more advertising than the first morning paper in 1923.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
FIRST IN ST. LOUIS

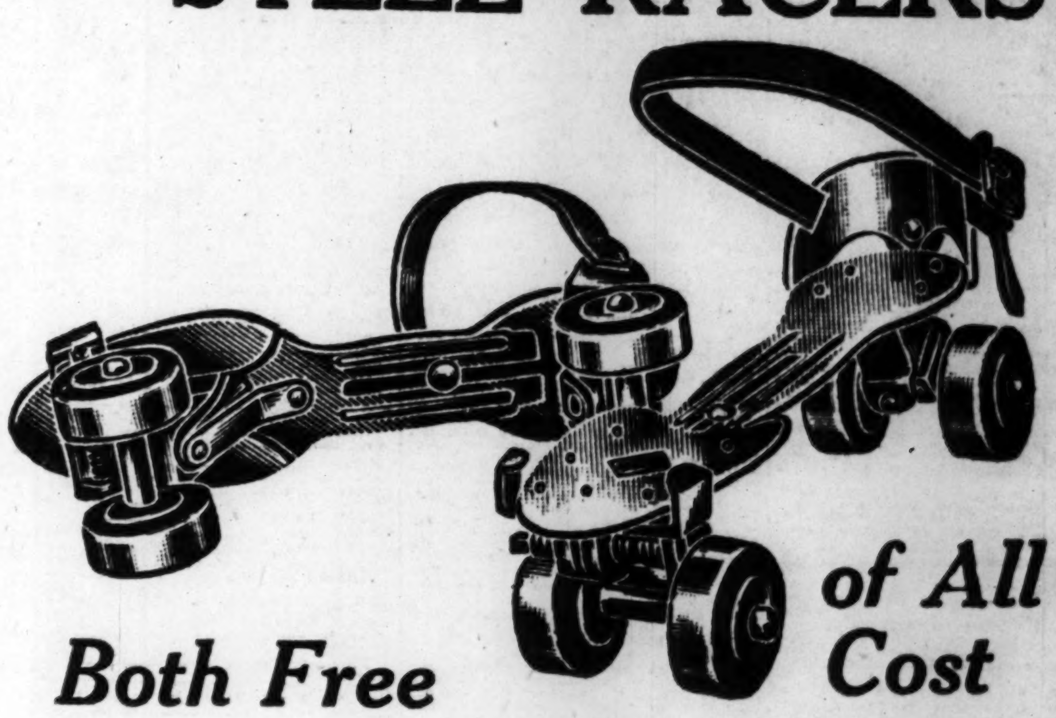
—and now

The Good Janesville (BALL BEARING)

(Beginning October First)



Is Offered in Combination With a Pair of SHERWOOD Ball-Bearing STEEL RACERS



Both Free of All Cost

For Four Subscriptions to the Daily Post-Dispatch

Janesville Specifications Prove Janesville Superiority

10-inch, double-disc wheels—bound together with steel rim instead of rivets or spot welding. Oversize rubber tires—put on to stay! 36x16-inch selected white ash body. Curved pole irons make steering easy. Patented Janesville ball bearings—all wearing parts heat treated and case hardened. Heavy selected white ash bolsters—strong and durable. Extra heavy hound and bolster braces. One-half-inch cold rolled steel axles, fastened to the bolsters with metal clips instead of weakening the axle by drilling holes. Beautifully finished—body and bolsters in natural wood; wheels in red enamel.

Sherwood Steel Racers Make a Worthy Added Prize

IN Sherwood sidewalk Steel Racers all of the time-tested features of standard construction have been retained, while weak points and faults have been eliminated.

Built of finest quality steel throughout, wheels specially designed for free rolling, minimum friction and longest possible wear.

The reinforcing ridge, embossed on top and bottom of bridge between heel and toe plate, gives firmness and rigidity, prevents sagging or bulging and doubles the strength of the Racer without adding weight.

All bearing points are hardened and ground to prevent wear. The four-point contact of wheel bearings insures free and easy rolling against strain at any angle; balls cannot bind or pile up in ball race, thus minimizing ball breakage. Rubber cushions under the bolster absorb shock, provide easy running, and a short turning radius.

October is the banner month for the prize-winning, spare-time effort of boys and girls in the service of the Post-Dispatch. It is the beginning of the long-evening season, when the fireplace and the cozy corner supplant the seaside, the mountains and even the home garden in popular appreciation. Vacation time is in eclipse, and the serious tasks of school and business claim attention. World progress is in the making, and world events challenge the interest of him who would keep pace with world progress. New importance attaches to the home-delivered copy of the Daily Post-Dispatch. Informant, counselor and entertainer, it serves the entire family as a good neighbor, and earns a daily welcome as an outstanding exponent of clean and wholesome, yet vigorous and enterprising journalism.

To extend this unique Post-Dispatch service to the widest possible circle of readers; to surpass all previous October records; to enroll and generously reward even a greater number of boys and girls than participated in our Free Coaster Wagon distribution of last year, the Post-Dispatch now offers as an

October Period Prize Combination { A Janesville (Ball-Bearing) Coaster Wagon and A Pair of Sherwood (Ball-Bearing) Steel Racers

Both prizes will be delivered, free of all cost and without additional requirement, for every group of four approved NEW subscriptions to the Post-Dispatch turned in by boys and girls enrolled under the terms of our Free Janesville Wagon Offer, beginning Wednesday, October First, and continuing throughout the month.

If you have not enrolled, this one-month special, two-prize combination calls to you to act quickly. Detach and mail the enrollment blank below. Do it today!

A second enrollment is not necessary for those who are already working for Janesville Wagon awards. Please remember, though, that the extra prize APPLIES ONLY TO SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED HERE DURING OCTOBER.

HERE ARE THE TERMS OF THE OFFER—READ CAREFULLY:

Offer is open to boys and girls who are not identified with the sale or distribution of the POST-DISPATCH, residing within the city carrier delivery limits of St. Louis, and in towns where daily editions of the POST-DISPATCH are delivered by local newsdealers.

4 subscriptions are required—each for 6 months. No extra credit for yearly subscriptions.

New subscriptions are required—from persons not now reading the Daily POST-DISPATCH, whether purchased from newsboys or newsdealers, or delivered by carrier.

Daily subscriptions are required. No credit allowed for Sunday POST-DISPATCH subscriptions. A Sunday POST-DISPATCH reader who has not been reading the Daily POST-DISPATCH may subscribe through you under this plan.

Verified subscriptions are required. We investigate the validity of the order and the subscriber's responsibility. All orders are received subject to acceptance or rejection by the POST-DISPATCH.

Home-Delivered subscriptions are required. Business district readers are better served by newsboys and cannot be included under the terms of this offer. This makes necessary a definitely restricted area in St. Louis and orders will not be accepted for delivery within the district bounded.

ON THE NORTH BY CASS AV.
ON THE SOUTH BY CHOUTEAU AV.
ON THE WEST BY GRAND BL.
ON THE EAST BY THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER

Bring or send this Enrollment Blank to the Post-Dispatch Janesville Wagon Bureau, 12th and Olive Sts., St. Louis, Mo.

POST-DISPATCH Janesville Wagon Bureau,

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

C. C. S. — The color gray is spelled just that way, "gray."

C. E. M.—The 5-cent piece of the mint 1913 does not command a premium.

N. S. T.—Take the currency to a dealer in coins in order to determine the value.

CLARENCE.—The address of the appliance company in question is not listed in the city directory.

J. A. K. — We do not publish business addresses in this column. Consult the city directory.

READER.—Presumably the animal mentioned in your query is the same as the one referred to in the Bible.

PLASTER.—You had better consult a paper hanger for the information regarding the walls of your kitchen.

B. O. B.—All sorts of books on games and parties can be obtained from books on the subject at the Public Library.

W. J. S.—The answer to your question is 7 bags of cement, ¾ yard of sand and 1 cubic yard of stone.

S. O. S.—Formal dress is not required of those who view the Veiled Prophet's Ball from the spectators' gallery.

P. D. L.—The $2.50 gold piece dated 1910 does not command a premium. (2) The silver dollar dated 1878, proofs only, is worth $1.10. (3) The 10-cent piece dated 1875 is worth from 10c to 15c.

GEO. R.—Application blanks, together with full information regarding the Civil Service examination, may be obtained from the secretary of the Civil Service Board, Old Custom House, Third and Olive streets.

CLARENCE.—Following are the Congressmen from St. Louis: Cleveland A. Newton, Harry Barton Hawes and Leonidas Carstarpher Dyer, and the Senators from Missouri are James A. Reed and Selden Spencer.

JAYO.—Address George M. Cohan, 1482 Broadway, New York City, N. Y. (2) We are not able to locate the address of the other person in question. Write to the "New York World" for this information.

ELIZABETH.—The half dollars dated 1832, 1839, are each worth from 50c to 55c. The Columbian half dollar dated 1893 does not command a premium.

DUMB GERTIE.—The free evening classes at the public schools have commenced. Registration for the different classes is over now, but perhaps they will still take you in if you have some very good reason for not registering before.

READER. — A fresh tongue is necessary for braising. Put tongue in kettle, cover with boiling water, and cook slowly for two hours. Take tongue from water and remove skin and roots. Place in deep pan and surround with one-third cup each of carrot, onion and celery cut in dice, and one sprig parsley; then pour over four cups sauce. Cover closely and bake two hours, turning after the first hour. Serve on platter and strain around the sauce. Following is the sauce for tongue: Brown ¼ cup butter, add ¼ cup flour and stir together until well browned. Add gradually 4 cups of water in which tongue was cooked. Season with salt and pepper and add one teaspoon of seasoning sauce. One and one-half cups stewed and strained tomatoes may be used in place of some of the water.

MR. JOHN G.—Monte Carlo, the world's most notorious gambling center, with its costly Casino, is located in the independent principality of Monaco on the Mediterranean coast of France. Winter resorts are maintained on a magnificent scale. The splendor of the gambling halls, together with the fascination for the game of chance, has gained for Monte Carlo a world reputation. Large sums of money are lost there continually, and jewels and estates are mortgaged to satisfy the demands of the goddess of chance. A syndicate pays so heavily to the Prince of Monaco for its license to gamble that no tax for the support of the government is placed upon the people. The principality was ceded to the ancestors of the Prince of Monaco by Emperor Othol, founder of the Holy Roman Empire. The town of Monte Carlo was founded in 1856, and has been a gambling resort ever since. The chief games played are roulette and treute-quarante.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

W. S. — The note must run 10 years after maturity before it is outlawed.

A READER.—The answer to all your questions is "Yes." It would take at least a page to print the Volstead law in full.

W. A.—Consult a lawyer regarding the matter. If you can prove the facts regarding the agreement you and your grandmother can sue him.

JEFF. B.—He could be fined or imprisoned, or both fined and imprisoned, for lying to the offilcal of the army regarding his condition.

CHARLES C. L.—Section 501 of the law provides that the veteran "may from time to time, with the approval of the Director, change the beneficiary of the policy.

O. L.—We know of no State law of the kind as stated in your query in Missouri. There are doubtless city ordinances of the kind in various Missouri cities.

RAY H.—You could not be compelled to pay for the periodical. Tell the letter carrier that you will refuse to accept any more copies of it.

B. B.—She can get married again without a divorce, without being guilty of bigamy, but if he should turn up later, her second marriage would not be legal. Hence it is safer to get a divorce.

WORRIED. — If the married daughter died, leaving no will and no children, one-half of her share of the estate would go to her husband and one-half to her mother, brothers and sisters.

A. L. V. A. — The inheritance taxes would depend upon the relationship of the person who inherits the property. Write again, stating the relationship of the heir to the deceased.

A WORRIED MOTHER. — You can obtain custody of the boy. If you have any difficulty consult the Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

J. V. M.—Notice by telephone is not sufficient, unless you can prove that she agreed to accept such notice and to waive her right to a written notice. One month's notice, served not later than the day before the rent day, is ordinarily necessary.

INDUSTRIAL LIST LEADS DOWNTURN

Recessions of 2 to 3 Points Occur in Number of Issues in Late Session — Nash Motors Weak.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Stock prices moved within narrow and irregular limits at the opening of today's stock market, with no definite trend apparent in the first few minutes of trading. Lackawanna, selling ex-dividend, recovered its dividend on the first sale and then moved up to 140, which represented a net gain of 2½ points. Baldwin and American Can opened slightly higher, but United States Steel common showed a slight fractional loss on the first sale.

Prices continued to move within a narrow trading area during the first half hour. Postum Cereal moved up 2¼ to a new top at 66⅜. St. Joseph Lead attained a new peak at 33½ and Colorado & Southern at 43, while Frisco preferred, United Drug and Railway Steel Springs each advanced a point. Kresge Department Stores and Delaware & Hudson lost a point each. Standard industrials and rails showed only fractional changes.

Foreign exchanges trading was quiet, with rates slightly easier.

Uneven price movements marked the morning trading. Weakness of Lehigh Valley, American Sugar Refining and Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, each of which lost 2 points, encouraged short selling and profit taking in other quarters. Dupont, Atlantic Coast Line, Rock Island, General Electric and several others dropping a point or so. Standard Industrials and rails offered good resistance to pressure. Montgomery Ward was lifted to a new high at 39 and Fisher Body jumped 3½ points. Independent strength also was shown by American Can, Colorado Fuel, Pullman and American Woolen. Call money renewed at 2½ per cent.

Little alteration occurred in prices of railroad shares during the afternoon selling which assumed widespread proportions among industrials and specialties. Losses of a point or so were common, including United States Steel, Baldwin and other favorite stocks. Nash Motors broke violently, losing nine points, while Consolidated Gas of Baltimore gave way 6½. Recessions of 2 to 3 points occurred in American Car and Foundry, Railway Steel Spring, General Electric, National Lead, May Department Stores and Worthington Pump preferred A.

Foreign Exchange Firmer.

"Advances in grain prices were not without their effect on the foreign exchange market. Thus speculative activity in Argentine currency assumed considerable proportions, based on expectations of a further increase in demand for wheat and corn from South America for European account. Pesos jumped over 35 points to 36.52 cents. Brazilian currency also continued its upswing. Meanwhile sterling and francs were virtually unchanged throughout the day at $4.46 and 5.27 cents respectively. Though a fair amount of forward business developed in the former. Other European rates were somewhat higher.

Weekly Wool Review.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"Wool has easily maintained its strong position during the last week, and, if anything, is against the buyer, despite the fact that London has declined about 5 per cent from the high point of a week ago. London still is the highest market in the world, however, due to the European demand for spot wool, for which a premium has been paid. The foreign primary markets all keep very firm and demand is excellent in Australia, with good clearances constantly.

"The strongest feature of the local market is the decided improvement in the demand for goods, the American Woolen Company having made withdrawals of worsteds as well as woolens, all of which are re-priced on a higher basis, if not withdrawn entirely from sale, an event which has been regarded as inevitable by the wool trade for some time. The Texas situation is strong but not materially changed.

The Commercial Bulletin will publish wool quotations as follows:

Domestic: Missouri ¼ blood 57@58c; ⅜ blood, 56c; ¼ blood, 53@54c.

Scoured basis:

Texas: Fine 12 months (selected) $1.45@1.50; fine 8 months $1.30@1.36.

Territory: Montana and similar: Fine staple choice, $1.45@1.50; ½ blood combining $1.30@1.35; ⅜ blood combining $1.15@1.18; ¼ blood combining, 98c@$1.02.

Pulled: Delaine, $1.52@1.55; AA, $1.50@1.52; fine A supers, $1.30@1.35; A supers, $1.20@1.25.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—The cotton market opened unchanged, the three nearest months al showing first sales at 26.60c. Liverpool was better than due just before the opening, but broke sharply immediately after. Prices eased off right after the start, owing to a generally rainless weather map and October soon traded down to 25.40c and January to 25.45c, or 30, 20 and 15 points dwon from the opening levels. The market then fluctuated narrowly without definite trend.

Fall River reported sales of 50,000 pieces of print cloths for the week against 75,000 last week.

The market experienced a good rally in the second hour of trading, mainly on prospects of more bad weather in the eastern belt and comparatively low crop forecasts by private authorities. December advanced to 25.80c, and January 25.81c, or 52 to 57 points up from the early lows. Later prices reacted on week-end liquidation. Near noon the market rallied again to 25.45c for December.

Mill takings for the week were put at 282,000 to 292,000 bales, against 263,000 last year. Two more private reports were issued, one making condition 53.3 and 11,808,000 bales, and the other 53.1 and 12,400,000.

Liverpool Cotton Steady.

FURTHER GAIN, THEN WHEAT PRICES REACT

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 3.—Wheat futures ran into profit taking sales after opening higher and reacted as did also corn. Liverpool wheat closed 3⅝d to 3¾d higher.

July wheat was higher at the close but other deliveries along with corn were down.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was 2c to 3½c higher, there being urgent demand for good wheat. Hard wheat was 1c higher. Cash corn was steady to 1½c higher. White corn was slow but there was good demand otherwise. Oats were 1c to 1¼c higher. Demand was good.

Further gains in wheat values were recorded in the early period of trade today. Liverpool wheat was 2⅛d to 3⅛d higher in the afternoon cable.

The market continued under the influence of export buying following report of shortage of crop production in Europe.

December wheat opened at $1.46½; May wheat $1.51½. December corn $1.12⅞ to $1.13 and May corn $1.16.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 2442 cars of wheat, compared with 2213 a week ago and 2545 last year. Minneapolis receiving 389 cars, Duluth 647 and Winnipeg 1406.

Local wheat receipts, which were 123,500 bushels, compared with 179,400 a week ago, included 52 cars local and 43 through. Corn receipts, which were 35,000 bushels, compared with 74,200 a week ago, included 14 cars local and 11 through. Oats receipts, which were 108,000 bushels, compared with 90,000 a week ago, included 37 cars local and 17 through. Hay receipts were 25 cars local and 15 through.

Primary receipts of wheat were 2,652,000 bushels, compared with 2,888,000 a week ago; corn receipts were 733,000 bushels, compared with 983,000 a week ago; oats receipts were 1,236,000 bushels, compared with 1,431,000 a week ago; wheat shipments were 3,138,000 bushels, compared with 2,028,000 a week ago; corn shipments were 369,000 bushels, compared with 397,100 a week ago; oats shipments were 424,000 bushels, compared with 1,438,000 a week ago.

Clearances were 627,000 bushels of wheat, 941,000 bushels of oats, 62,000 barrels of flour and 906,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

REALIZING SALES LOWER WHEAT AFTER EARLY RISE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Buying power in grain today seemed to have finally reached the point of saturation. Markets were all wildly excited at the opening, with wheat, oats and provisions all scoring new high prices of the season. Oats showed most excitement, that market not being used to the activity which visited it at the start. Heavy realizing sales in all pits finally filled up the demand and a retrogressive movement developed about mid-session.

Wheat closed near the low point under heavy realizing sales showing losses of ⅝ to 1⅝c. Dec. $1.45⅝ to $1.45¾; May $1.50 to $1.48⅞; July $1.37. Corn closed 1⅝c to 2¼c lower; Dec. $1.10⅝; May $1.13¼ to $1.13; July $1.13¾ @ $1.13½. Oats were 1c lower to ¼c higher; Dec. 56⅝c to 56¾c; May 61⅛c to 61c; July 59½c. Lard closed 15c higher to 22½c lower, ribs unchanged and bellies 2½ to 35c higher. Local cash sales were 620,000 bu. wheat, all to exporters, 82,000 bu corn, 59,000 bu. oats and 10,000 bu. barley. The seaboard reported 1,000,000 bu. wheat and 40,000 bu. rye taken for export. Vessel room was chartered for 50,000 bu. wheat to Montreal and 240,000 bu. wheat and 260,000 bu. rye to Buffalo.

Tremendous buying power was witnessed in the wheat market at the start today, and it continued during the first half of the session. Front page publicity of the recent upward movement seemed to stimulate speculative buying power, but there also was good buying for foreign and seaboard account. Realizing sales were also liberal in volume, but it was not until the session was in progress over an hour that the effect of these offerings were felt. Exporters were again in the market for cash wheat, and they took 240,000 bushels over night. At the seaboard over-night sales for export were said to be over 1,000,000 bushels. Receipts today were not so heavy as of late. Chicago shipped over 1,000,000 bushels today, and this compares with receipts of 200,000 bushels. Indications are that the increase in the visible supply this week will be light.

Corn had an opening bulge, but pressure to sell was ibera and the advance was sure to sell was liberal and the advance was commission house buying at the opening, stimulated by the strength in other grains as well as crop damage reports. Summer-like temperatures prevailed outside the exchange and this made it difficult for the trade to feel bullish on crop news. Shipping demand overnight was light. Offerings to arrive were small. Sales of 100,000 bushels of contract corn were made to go to store.

Oats were wildly excited at the opening as a result of a mad rush on the part of shorts and investors to buy what little oats there was offered. After an hour or so this demand was satisfied and prices had a reactionary tendency as a result of a desire of longs to take profit. Offerings to arrive were liberal and Eastern buyers were reselling oats bought from local shippers.

Lard prices again made new high records. Packers bought the nearby deliveries, and this suggested an enlarged export sale. Strength in hogs also had some influence.

Refined futures were nominal.

LOWER RANGE TO COTTON PRICES AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The cotton market opened fairly steady today and a decline of 10 to 13 points and soon showed net losses of 28 to 42 points. October sold off to 26.18 and December to 25.45 under week-end realizing and selling for a reaction after yesterday's big advance. Further covering and some trade buying caused slight rallies during the early trading but the tone of the market was rather unsettled and the trade seemed to be taking a more favorable view of the weather outlook. Telegrams received here from the Southwest reported export demands at a higher basis. October contracts here were relatively easy, but so far as could be learned only 17 notices were issued.

The early break was followed by a brisk rally on reports that exporters were buying spot cotton at a higher basis in the Southwest and a private report estimating the crop at only 11,584,000 bales. December advanced from 25.45c to 25.81c, or 8 points net higher, but offerings increased on the advance and prices weakened again under renewed realizing. December fell back to 25.38c, and the midday market ruled about 27 to 35 points net lower.

Liverpool Cotton Statistics.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 3.—Weekly cotton statistics: Total forwarded to mills 55,000 bales, American 32,000. Stock 320,000, American 117,000. Imports 61,000, American 38,000. Exports 5000, American 1000.

HOGS—Market opened active with prices 10c to 15c higher than the best time Thursday. Receipts were light at 11,000. Top advanced to $11.30 on the early rounds, the highest price paid in more than two years, or since March, 1922. Bulk of the butcher hogs from 190 to 250 pounds sold from $11 to $11.20, lighter kinds from 160 to 180 pounds quotable in a spread of $10.75 to $11. Pigs were strong with spots 25c up, better weight kinds from 130 to 150 pounds quotable at $9.75 to $10.25, medium weight kinds from 110 to 130 pounds at $8.50 to $9.75, and lighter pigs and pee wees from 110 pounds and down at $7.50 to $8.50, according to weight and quality. Packer sows were 25c higher at $9.25 mostly, stags selling at $7 to $8, according to weight and quality.

SHEEP—Trading ruled about steady in sheep and lambs today, under a light run of salable stock. Receipts were estimated at 1000 head, but the big end of these were through and direct stock. A few of the best lambs sold to packers early up to $13.25.

Good to choice consignments in full loads quotable in a spread of $12.50 to $13.50, medium to good grades at $11.50 to $12.50 and plain to medium kinds from $9.50 to $11.50, culls sold mainly around $7.50 to $8, with butchers occasionally going up to $8.50 for some. Skips sold from $3 to $5. Best light mutton ewes sold at $5 largely, medium and heavies at $3.50 to $4.50. Choppers and bucks at $2 to $3 and canners at $1 to $2.

HORSES AND MULES—Receipts moderate this week and clearance good. The horse market strengthened under the reduced offering, desirable Southerners showing the most improvement. Mules were not essentially changed in price.

Dry Goods Market Review.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The cotton goods market developed more strength today on increased activity of buyers. Print cloths were quoted up an eighth cent at 9⅛c for 64x60s and 10⅛c for 68x72s. The raw silk market developed a sharp upturn though business was reported rather quiet. Japanese raws advanced from 20c to 30c a pound.

Boston Wool Market.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Cabled wool prices indicate a cost per scoured pound of $1.46 for 64s to 70s bright shafty combing in bond, Boston. The local market was fairly quiet today, but prices were fully sustained.

London Wool Auction.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The offerings at the wool auction yesterday amounted to 11,222 bales. There was a large attendance and competition was keen for fine merinos at steady rates, while inferior grades were irregular and in the buyers' favor. Frequent withdrawals took place owing to the high prices asked.

STRIKERS KILLED IN CLASH AT TAMPICO

Workers in Oil Field Say Soldiers Fired Without Justification.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPICO, Oct. 3. — Several workmen have been killed in a clash between strikers and soldiers guarding the property of the Mexican Gulf Oil Co. The strike at this plant has been in progress for some time, and a general strike has been declared.

Nearly 500 strikers of the oil company attempted to prevent the loading of ships and were fired on by the troops. In addition to those killed, 13 were wounded. The military say the strikers threatened them, while the strikers assert the soldiers attacked them without justification. The strike leaders have been arrested.

The declaration of the general strike was in protest against the killing of the strikers. All activities immediately were paralyzed. Committees of the workmen set about to close all stores.

In the afternoon 6000 workmen formed a funeral procession and escorted the bodies of their comrades to the cemetery. As the procession passed military headquarters there was a demonstration against the troops. The strikers demanded the resignation of the military commander and the release of workmen who had been arrested.

$30,000 BONUS FOR WORKMEN

600 Employes of Brick Company Share in Annual Reward.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., Oct. 3.—A profit-sharing bonus totaling $30,000 was distributed among 600 laborers and factory workers of the A. P. Green Fire Brick Co. here Wednesday, under the plan put into effect by the company several years ago for an annual reward to workmen for satisfactory work and loyalty during the year.

"This bonus," said J. B. Arthur, general manager of the company, "is the company's method of showing our appreciation to the fellows in the factories and the clay pits. It is not a part of their regular wages. Payment is based on a certain rate per hour for all hours worked and the same rate per hour applies to all classes of labor from common labor to skilled mechanics. It does not include any officers of the company, the office employes or the traveling salesmen. It is paid only to the workingmen."

TWO MEN HELD UP BUS CREW

Conductor Robbed of $28 by Highwaymen.

Two men riding in an automobile left their machine long enough to board a People's bus of the new Lindenwood line, near Manhattan and Piccadilly avenues at 11:50 p. m. yesterday, holding up the crew, Conductor H. A. Meyer and Chauffeur Louis H. Jones.

The bus was just about to turn in for the night and carried no passengers. They took $28.40 from Meyer and escaped in their automobile.

Dr. Boving Assumes New Duties.

Dr. Charles B. Boving, formerly president of Westminster College, at Fulton, Mo., and pastor of several churches in Missouri, has assumed his new duties at the Sidney Street Presbyterian Church, Sidney street and Minnesota avenue. He will begin his pulpit duties next Sunday with a pre-communion sermon.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists call it "Joint-Ease" because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only.

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 7th and Washington, dispense it daily for about 60 cents a tube, as do first-class druggists everywhere.

Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.

Every rheumatic sufferer ought to send today for free book, "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" (Just out.) Address H. F. Clearwater, box 800, Hallowell, Maine.

V

THE Klaas Pools lived in a typical High Prairie house. They had passed a score like it in the dusk. These sturdy Holland-Americans had built here in Illinois after the pattern of the squat houses that dot the lowlands about Amsterdam, Haarlem, and Rotterdam. A row of pollards stood stiffly by the roadside. As they turned in at the yard Selina's eye was caught by the glitter of glass. The house was many-windowed, the panes the size of pocket-handkerchiefs. Even in the dusk Selina thought she had never seen windows sparkle so. She did not then know that spotless window-panes were a mark of social standing in High Prairie. Yard and dwelling had a geometrical neatness like that of a toy house in a set of playthings. The effect was marred by a clothes-line hung with a dado of miscellaneous wash—a pair of faded overalls, a shirt, socks, a man's drawers carefully patched and now bellying grotesquely in the breeze like a comic tramp turned bachanal. Selina was to know this frieze of nether garments as a daily decoration in the farm-wife's yard.

Peering down over the high wheel she waited for Klaas Pool to assist her in alighting. He seemed to have no such thought. Having jumped down, he was throwing empty crates and boxes out of the back of the wagon. So Selina, gathering her shawls and cloak about her, clambered down the side of the wheel and stood looking about her in the dim light, a very small figure in a very large world. Klaas had opened the barn door. Now he returned and slapped one of the horses smartly on the flank. The team trotted obediently off to the barn. He picked up her little hidebound trunk. She took her satchel. The yard was quite dark now. As Klaas Pool opened the kitchen door the red mouth that was the open draught in the kitchen stove grinned a toothy welcome at them.

A woman stood over the stove, a fork in her hand. The kitchen was clean, but disorderly, with the disorder that comes of pressure of work. There was a not unpleasant smell of cooking. Selina sniffed it hungrily. The woman turned to face them. Selina stared.

This, she thought, must be some other—an old woman—his mother, perhaps. But: "Maartje, here is school teacher," said Klaas Pool. Selina put out her hand to meet the other woman's hand, rough, hard, calloused. Her own, touching it, was like satin against a pine board. Maartje smiled, and you saw her broken discolored teeth. She pushed back the spare hair from her high forehead, fumbled a little, shyly, at the collar of her clean blue calico dress.

"Pleased to meet you," Maartje said, primly. "Make you welcome." Then, as Pool stamped out to the yard, slamming the door behind him, "Pool he could have come with you by the front way, too. Lay off your things." Selina began to remove the wrappings that swathed her—the muffler, the shawl, the cloak. Now she stood, a slim, incongruously elegant little figure in that kitchen. The brown lady's-cloth was very tight and basqued above, very flounced and bustled below. "Ly, how you are young!" cried Maartje. She moved nearer, as if impelled, and fingered Selina's gown. And as she did this Selina suddenly saw that she, too, was young. The bad teeth, the thin hair, the careless dress, the littered kitchen, the harassed fromn—above all these, standing out clearly, appeared the look of a girl.

"Why, I do believe she's not more than 28!" Selina said to herself in a kind of panic. "I do believe she's not more than 28."

She had been aware of the two pigtailed heads appearing and vanishing in the doorway of the next room. Now Maartje was shooing her into this room. Evidently her hostess was distressed because the school teacher's formal entrance had not been made by way of parlor instead of kitchen. She followed Maartje Pool into the front room. Behind the stove, tittering, were two yellow-haired little girls, Geertje and Jozina, of course. Selina went over to them, smiling. "Which is Geertje?" she asked. "And which is Jozina?" But at this the titters became squeals. They retired behind the round black bulwark of the wood-burner, overcome. There was no fire in this shining ebon structure, though the evening was sharp. Above the stove a length of pipe, glittering with polish as was the stove itself, crossed the width of the room and vanished through a queer little perforated grating in the ceiling. Selina's quick glance encompassed the room. In the windows were a few hardy plants in pots on a green-painted wooden rack. There were geraniums, blossomless, a cactus with its thick slabs of petals like slices of gangrenous ham set up for beauty in a parlor; a plant called Jacob's ladder, on a spindling trellis. The ebony scaffolding of the green-painted wooden stand was turned toward the room. The flowers blindly faced the dark, square window. There was a sofa with a wrinkled calico cover; three rocking chairs; some stark crayons of incredibly hard-featured Dutch ancients on the wall. It was all neat, stiff, unlovely. But Selina had known too many years of boarding-house ugliness to be offended at this.

Maartje had lighted a small glass-bowled lamp. The chimney of this sparkled as had the window panes. A steep, uncarpeted stairway, enclosed, led off the sitting room. Up this Maartje Pool, talking, led the way to Selina's bedroom. Selina was to learn that the farm woman, often inarticulate through lack of companionship, becomes a torrent of talk when opportunity presents itself. They made quite a little procession. First, Mrs. Pool with the lamp; then Selina with the satchel; then, tap-tap, tap-tap, Jozina and Geertje, their heavy hob-nailed shoes creating a great clatter on the wooden stairs, though they were tiptoeing in an effort to make themselves unheard by their mother. There evidently had been an arrangement on the subject of their invisibility. The procession moved to the accompaniment of Maartje's, "Now you stay downstairs didn't I tell you!" There was in her tone a warning; a menace. The two pigtails would hang back a moment, only to come tap-tapping on again, their saucer eyes at once fearful and mischievous.

A narrow, dim, close-smelling hallway, uncarpeted. At the end of it a door opening into the room that was to be Selina's. As its chill struck her to the marrow three objects caught her eye. The bed, a huge and not unhandsome walnut mausoleum, reared its sombre height almost to the room's top. Indeed, its apex of grapes did actually seem to achieve a meeting with the whitewashed ceiling. The mattress of straw and cornhusks was unworthy of this edifice, but over it Mrs. Pool had mercifully placed a feather bed, stitched and quilted, so that Selina lay soft and warm through the winter. Along one wall stood a low chest so richly brown as to appear black. The front panel of this was curiously carved. Selina stooped before it and for the second time that day said: "How beautiful!" then looked quickly round at Maartje Pool as though fearful of finding her laughing as Klaas Pool had laughed. But Mrs. Pool's face reflected the glow in her own. She came over to Selina and stooped with her over the chest, holding the lamp so that its yellow flame lighted up the scrolls and tendrils of the carved surface. With one discolored forefinger she traced the gold flourishes on the panel. "See? How it makes out letters?"

Selina peered closer. "Why, sure enough! This first one's an S!"

Maartje was kneeling before the chest now. "Sure an S. For Sophia. It is a Holland bride's chest. And here is K. And here is big D. It makes Sophia Kroon DeVries. It is anyways 200 years. My mother she gave it to me when I was married, and her mother she gave it to her when she was married, and her mother gave it to her when she was married, and her——"

"I should think so!" exclaimed Selina, rather meaninglessly; but stemming the torrent. "What's in it? Anything? There ought to be bride's clothes in it, yellow with age."

"It is!" cried Maartje Pool and gave a little bounce that imperiled the lamp.

"No!" The two on their knees sat smiling at each other, wide-eyed, like schoolgirls. The pigtails, emboldened, had come tap-tapping nearer and were peering over the shoulders of the women before the chest.

"Here—wait." Maartje Pool thrust the lamp into Selina's hand, raised the lid of the chest, dived expertly into its depths amidst a great rustling of old newspapers and emerged red-faced with a Dutch basque and voluminous skirt of silk; an age-yellow cap whose wings, stiff with embroidery, stood out grandly on either side; a pair of wooden shoes, stained terra-cotta like the sails of the Vollendam fishing boats, and carved from toe to heel in a delicate and intricate pattern. A bridal gown, a bridal cap, bridal shoes.

"Well!" said Selina, with the feeling of a little girl in a rich attic on a rainy day. She clasped her hands. "May I dress up in it some time?"

How You Can Give a Late-September Outdoor- Game Party.

By WANDA BARTON.

AN outdoor game party is a jolly one to give on a Saturday afternoon. When school opens again it is still warm and lovely and an outdoor party is a lot more fun than an indoor one. As usual, the selection of a party mother for the occasion makes things go more smoothly than when the young people are left entirely to their own direction. This arrangement also is one that allows the mother to devote her time entirely to the refreshments, usually homemade for these informal affairs.

The best game to start with is the ring toss game. It is the best because with two sets going, 16 players can play at a time. This makes it jolly and is a sort of "get together" start. No matter how well the children know one another, there is always a little party stiffness to be overcome, especially if there happens to be a few strangers present.

This game may be followed by one of the lawn games, garden archery, grace hoops, croquet, a paper chase or any one of the games that include as many players as possible. Next, it is a good idea to have a sitting game of some sort to rest and cool off before refreshments are served. This may be any one of the "circle" games or one or more of the table games.

After the refreshments have been enjoyed, the mottoes cracked and caps, aprons, wands and toys have palled, the children may be divided into groups for charades.

Care must be taken in selecting the prizes so that all first ones are of equal value and importance and the same with the booby prizes, then there will be no jealousy aroused.

Now, as to the all important point of refreshments. In the first place, they should be rather light, as they come between luncheon and dinner, and it is well to choose carefully what is best for warm and excited children.

Dainty little sandwiches served with either cocoa or orangeade are best. The sandwich fillings may be of minced chicken moistened with a very little mayonnaise, minced ham with a tiny bit of chow chow chopped through it, peach jam, cottage cheese with minced pineapple, or bread and butter sandwiches made of two kinds of bread. These are all simple, and if the sandwiches are cut small, they do not separate or come to pieces in annoying ways.

No party is really complete without ice cream and cake.

CARING FOR ALUMINUM

By Hannah Wing.

A Recognized Authority on All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

ALUMINUM utensils, although accepted as the most desirable of kitchenware for many purposes because of their lightness, durability and rapid-conducting of heat, are still a source of some worry to their owners. A notion persists in the minds of those accustomed to enamelware that acid foods — fruits, tomatoes, etc. — should neither be cooked in aluminum dishes nor allowed to stand in them. This is a mistaken theory, for while acid foods will often dissolve the stains formed on aluminum, the metal itself is not easily attacked by acids.

There can be no possible harm in permitting fruits or other acid foods to stand in aluminum dishes or to cook them in utensils of this ware. It is, however, a bad practice as far as the durability of aluminum is concerned, to soak utensils on which food has scorched, in soda and water, a weak lye solution or even a very strong soap suds if the soap contains much free alkali. This is because aluminum is dissolved by alkalis and not by acids.

Some owners of aluminumware are dismayed because their saucepans and kettles have a greasy black look on the outside, and this coating shows a tendency to come off on the hands, leaving black pencil-like marks. This is caused by the wrong method of caring for aluminum. Strong alkali soaps or soap powders used in dishwashing may affect the aluminum slightly, causing it to unite with grease in the dishwater and form this somewhat greasy black compound. Aluminum should be washed in clean soap suds as free from alkalis and grease as possible. After washing, give the outer and inner surface a light rubbing with fine mineral wool. This will prevent the black coating and is an especially necessary treatment for aluminum dishpans, which may become so discolored as to leave black marks on the china unless care is taken to keep them well polished.

Mineral wool is quite the finest method for the everyday cleaning of aluminum. This light scouring removes all surface stains and compounds and leaves the metal clean and shiny.

WINIFRED BLACK

WRITES ABOUT

Youth, the Surprising

WINIFRED BLACK

"HORRORS!"—the two young people were going on a camping trip, way up in the mountains.

Over the worst road you ever heard of, around the edge of fearful precipices, across deep and dangerous rivers, way into the dark forests far away from everyone they ever heard of—and they were taking the baby.

Think of that—a baby 2 years old, just at the trouble age! What on earth would they do with it all day long in the car? All their camping things would take up so much room—where would the baby sleep? And if she wanted fresh milk—what then?

And how would her mother keep her clean or even half-way clean, and what if she were taken ill, way off there in the mountains a hundred miles from a doctor and a hundred and fifty miles from a drug store—everybody just trembles to think of it.

Away They Went.

The neighbors reasoned with the young wife, and the old men who knew them took the young husband aside and warned him.

But neither would listen to a word.

They packed the little camp kit and the camp bed, and the camp stove and the camp table, and they put a side of bacon and a sack of potatoes, and some salt and pepper, and some flour and two or three dozen cans of things, into the back of the car.

"Toot-toot!" said the flivver—and away they went as gay as you please.

Nobody heard a word from them, and every day we expected notice that they had gone over a cliff somewhere, camp kit, baby and all, for Young Husband is just the sort of fellow who would be looking off at the scenery when he ought to be looking at the road—and, what if a snake bit the baby?—it really was too terrible to think of it!

And all at once—here they are home again, safe and sound and tickled to death.

Young Husband looks like an Indian, Mrs. Young Husband looks like a squaw, and the baby could pass for a papoose any time.

Their feet are blistered, their knuckles are skinned, their clothes are torn, the little flivver has the rheumatism and the ague and a few other delicate diseases and nobody will ever use that camp bed again—it's been rained on too many times.

But fun!—You never heard anything like it—they say they wouldn't take ten thousand dollars for that two weeks of fun and freedom—no, not twenty thousand!

Browned, Well and Happy.

They slept out in the starlight under the pines—and they feel as if they'd smother in the house.

They drank from the mountain streams, and they haven't much use for city water—yet.

And they're bigger and wiser, and kinder and more practical and more courageous than they ever dreamed of being in all their lives.

And we who fretted so miserably about them, just sit and stare at each other.

What a great time they do have fooling us—the young newlyweds.

We are always worrying and fretting about them, and all at once there they are as pleased as Punch and as fresh as paint, doing all the things we told them they never could do and having the time of their lives in the process.

What a glorious thing it is that there is no such thing as living forever in this world! We do have to take a fresh start every once in a while, don't we?

Here's to Youth and to the rashness of Youth, and to the folly of Youth and to the courage of Youth and to the light heart of Youth—where would this old world be without them?

Fried Apples With Pork.

I often serve fried apples with pork chops or bacon as a pleasant change from apple sauce. First wash the apples clean and core them. Cut into rings about one-half inch thick and fry in some of the fat from the meat. Serve on the same platter with the meat in any attractive arrangement.

Stuffed Egg-Plant.

PARIS.

THIS is the season for fine egg-plants, one of the Frenchman's favorite vegetables.

Choose the deep violet-red ones and cut into two parts lengthwise. Remove the center pulp and with it make a "farcie," with sausage-meat, a good piece of butter, salt, pepper, breadcrumbs soaked in milk, a very little garlic and some shallot.

Fill the egg-plants with this stuffing, roll in fine breadcrumbs. Bake in the oven until nicely browned.

Boiled Dressing.

Mix together in a measuring cup one-half teaspoonful mustard, one-fourth teaspoonful salt, and one and one-half tablespoons sugar and fill to the one-half mark with good apple vinegar; now pour this mixture slowly over the well beaten yolks of three eggs beating constantly; cook over hot water, stirring all the while until the mixture is thick. When ready to use, take out the quantity needed and mix with whipped cream. Evaporated milk is specially nice to use for thinning cooked mayonnaise. For fruit salad, thin with fruit juice.

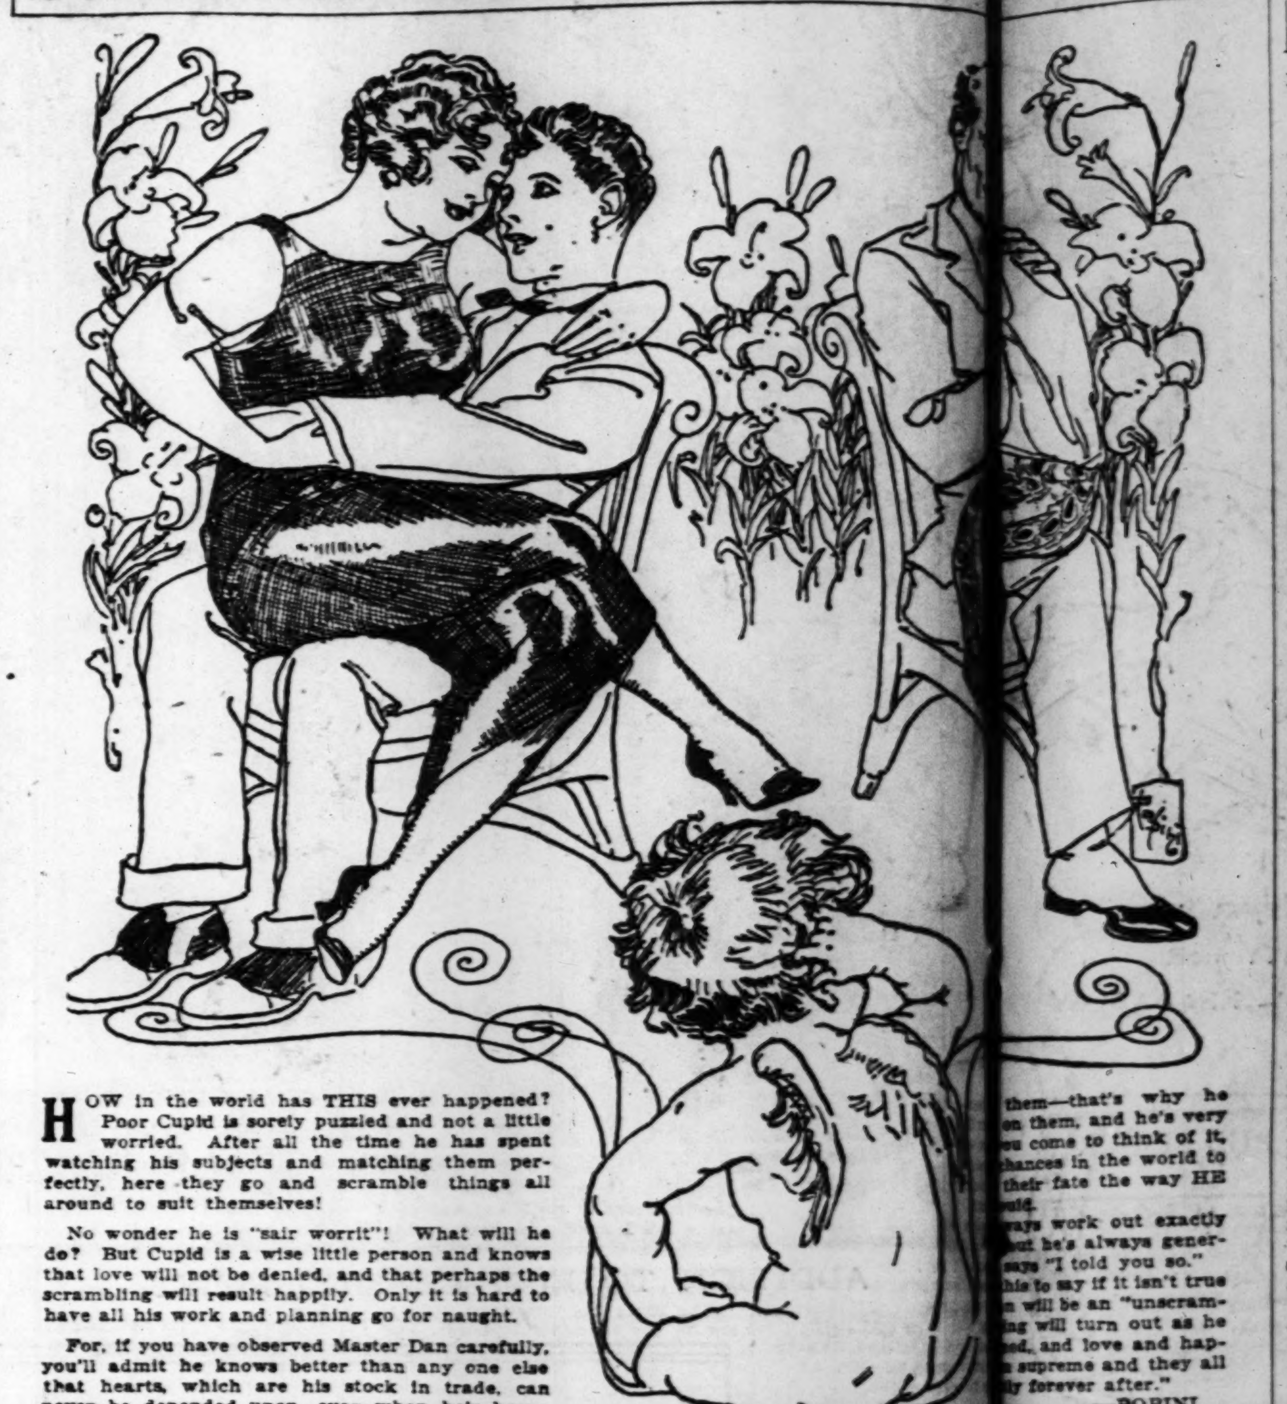
Scrambled Hearts



HOW in the world has THIS ever happened? Poor Cupid is sorely puzzled and not a little worried. After all the time he has spent watching his subjects and matching them perfectly, here they go and scramble things all around to suit themselves!

No wonder he is "sair worrit"! What will he do? But Cupid is a wise little person and knows that love will not be denied, and that perhaps the scrambling will result happily. Only it is hard to have all his work and planning go for naught.

For, if you have observed Master Dan carefully, you'll admit he knows better than any one else that hearts, which are his stock in trade, can never be depended upon, even when he's keep-them—that's why he on them, and he's very u come to think of it, hances in the world to their fate the way HE uld. ays work out exactly ut he's always gener- says "I told you so." his to say if it isn't true n will be an "unscram- ing will turn out as he ed, and love and hap- supreme and they all ly forever after."

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Colorings.

When you are coloring candy or icings at home, use beet juice for pink, orange juice or egg yolk for yellow, spinach juice for green and blackberry juice for lavender.

Mouse Traps.

Mice are canny things and unless the trap is clean they will avoid it. After a mouse has been caught in the trap, the trap should be thoroughly scalded and aired. Then all scent will be gone except the smell of the bait. Incidentally, try using a piece of bacon for bait instead of the usual cheese and see if you do not have better success.

• • •

Think It Over.

Dry tinware thoroughly and prevent rust.

Dried fruits should be rinsed with boiling water before using.

Washing the silk stockings after each wearing will unquestionably lengthen their life.

The up-to-date colander has a long handle that protects the cook from steam burns.

Cider Jelly.

Soften one-half a package of gelatine in one-half a cup of cold water and dissolve by setting the dish into hot water; add three-fourths a cup of sugar, and when dissolved and cooled, somewhat, add three cups of sweet cider; let stand 24 hours. Arrange in tablespoonfuls on platter for ham.

FORMER COMMISSIONER OF HEALTH,

CHILDREN are very apt to prosper in the summertim fall. In all the seasons when outdoor life is the ru little trouble with the health. However, we are the season when greater care must be practiced.

While I am thinking particularly of the children, tions made will apply just as well to the grown-ups. said that men are merely grown-up boys, and I suppose true that women are only grown-up girls. So the advice today is good for all of us.

My mail is filled with inquiries about the feeding of children. Just as it seemed time to give advice on the subject, there comes along from a great association a little booklet on "Food for the Family." It contains a lot of good ideas, including suggestions for menus and diets. I was greatly pleased with its helpful thoughts regarding the nutrition of children.

Here are a dozen health rules for children which I quote from the booklet. Bear in mind that grown-ups can use them with good effect. The rules read as follows:

What to Do.

Use Milk—Fresh, clean, whole milk for children. Every growing child should have a quart a day, in some form.

Eat plenty of vegetables.

Be sure that a school child has a good luncheon, not candy, pickles and ice cream cones.

Eat coarse food, such as oatmeal, bran muffins and vegetables, so that the bowels wi stipated.

Eat slowly and chew

Have the meals at hours each day.

Eat only bread, or milk, or bread and but meals, and only in the the morning or afterno

Wash hands and eating.

Drink plenty of wat meals.

Be in bed by 9 o'clock

Have windows opened sleeping room at night.

Brush the teeth at day.

What to Avoid

Do not let the childr or veal, much meat of fried foods, rich pie ce and vinegar, green oiled fruit.

WINNING THE CHILD HEART

By Wm. A. McKeever

Noted Lecturer and Writer on Educational and Sociological Subjects.

DO you give your children the right amount of appreciation of what they do and what they try to do? Every one of us must live for some one else rather than for ourselves, if we are to prosper morally and spiritually.

Now, ask your self whom you live for, dear parent. Somewhere within the secrets of your mind there is a pattern. It is a personality living or dead. It is a standard of conduct, a sort of code for the guidance of your daily cares. Or it is a voice from within, phrased in words and definite mottoes of action. You have a guide or a spiritual guardian, and somewhere back in your life there was a person to start you along the secret way.

Wherefore, consider your child. Just so soon as he can perform in a baby manner, he will begin to live for some one's appreciation. "Here, mamma, see my house," "Look at my doll," "Watch me do that," "Look at this picture of a cow I drew." So the little tongue will rattle along from morning till night, working out a series of personal contacts and turning more and more exclusively to those who give sympathetic attention.

But there always is a limit to every good thing. So you can give your child too much personal appreciation and make him a sort of young player-to-the-grandstand. In that event he will tend to become superficial.

As you continue to pass judgment upon your child's conduct and so keep yourself uppermost in his secret consciousness, you will begin to be inquisitor of yourself. Do I know enough to make decisions for my child? Am I giving him really intelligent answers or merely putting him off with the easiest remark? If my remarks to his presentations of work and achievement are insipid and perfunctory, will he not turn instinctively to someone who can approve him with a higher degree of intelligence?

The foregoing questions will occur to the thoughtful parent. And the best answer seems to be something like this: Do not merely praise and approve your little one when he comes to his performances, but stimulate his further effort.

Turn him to some overlooked aspects of his work. Suggest new ways of doing a familiar deed. Turn his thought and effort into entirely new channels. Thus you may continue long as the monitor and the spiritual guardian of your child.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

By HELEN ROWLAND

TOSTI WAS RIGHT.

ALAS, my Daughter, now cometh the Winter of our discontent and the Autumn of our disenchantment!

Lo, now, doth the Summer Damsel return to the city, and behold her "Hero" of the Beach, in a new and revealing light. And, Cinderella, at midnight, was not more astonished at the fading of her dreams.

For he that appeared SO fascinating under the light of the Summer moon showeth up as but a Tired Business Man in a ready-made suit.

He, whom she "understood so well," after three days beside the sad sea waves, now appeareth a total stranger in a city drawing room.

He that had babbled sweet nothings beneath the stars, and talked so glibly of love in a canoe, now mumbleth of the weather and twiddleth his thumbs and shuffleth his feet, when he sitteth at a tea table.

He that appeared a Sheik in white flannels and a glorious Son of Nature in a bathing suit now resembleth a butcher's delivery boy in tweeds and a clothing store dummy in evening clothes.

He that seemed a Prince Charming and a Golden Opportunity, where the men were few and the choice limited, now seemeth but an "also ran" and a "terrible mistake," where the assortment is varied and the heartbreakers are plentiful.

For, verily, verily, there is a dangerous magic in the air of a Summer resort, which maketh the moonlight in a man's eyes to resemble the lovelight, and a crooked profile to appear pure Grecian, and a half-portion lightweight to appear stalwart and heroic.

But, a youth that could clasp a damsel in his arms with dramatic fervor where the background was all scenery, may prove but a false alarm against a drawing room set.

And his golden silences and silvery speeches may seem but pure "brass" in the new perspective.

Go to! The damsel that taketh her HEART to a Summer resort deserveth to get moths therein. For, Summer love, like unto Summer frocks, appeareth strangely faded and tawdry in the cold, gray light of a September morn.

Yea, verily, it is a strong and hardy Summer romance that surviveth until Christmas, and intense and fervid flame that doth not flicker out in the first cool wind of Autumn.

For, a Summer resort is a place where a damsel will resort to ANYTHING, for devotion, and a man will resort to anything for diversion!

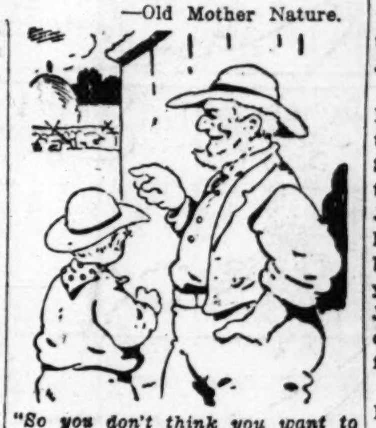
A Barrel of Trouble

The victim of a joke who grins
The good will of his neighbor wins.
—Old Mother Nature.



"So you don't think you want to keep him for a pet," said Farmer Brown

INSIDE of Farmer Brown's barn stood Farmer Brown himself, as far back as he could get. Outside, in front of the open barn doors, stood Farmer Brown's Boy. Between them, in the middle of the barn floor stood a barrel.

"Well, son," said Farmer Brown, and his eyes twinkled, "it seems to me that Possum must have changed his coat after he was caught. I don't know what you think about it, but it looks to me as if we have a barrel of trouble. And it is right here in the barn. It seems to me that, as you brought it here, you should be the one to get rid of it. What are you going to do about it?"

Farmer Brown's Boy saw the twinkle in his father's eye. He began to laugh. He laughed and laughed and laughed. At the same time he somewhat ruefully rubbed the back of his head, which he had bumped when he tripped over a box and fell in his hurry to get away from that barrel. "I guess the joke is on me," he admitted. "I never had a greater surprise in my life than when I opened that trap and Jimmy Skunk slid out of it into the barrel instead of Unc' Billy Possum. I guess the thing to do is to leave him alone for a while. He can't climb out of the barrel, and so long as he isn't disturbed he won't use that little scent gun of his. Jimmy and I have always been pretty good friends, and I think I know him pretty well.

"He probably is feeling rather out of sorts now over the way he's been treated, and I can't say that I blame him much. But he'll soon get over it. Then I'll slip up and put something over that barrel and we can take it outside the barn and let him go."

"So you don't think you want to keep him for a pet," said Farmer Brown, his eyes twinkling merrily.

"No," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "No, I think I'd rather let him go."

"Why not kill him and so get him out of the way altogether?" Farmer Brown asked.

"Kill Jimmy Skunk!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy indignantly. "I guess not! Didn't I tell you that Jimmy and I are friends? Jimmy minds his own business, and if no one bothers him he will bother no one. Jimmy does a lot of good on the farm. I know, because I've watched him and because I've seen where he has been at work. I've seen dozens and dozens of places where he has dug up white grubs, and any one who will help get rid of those pests certainly is worth having around. Kill Jimmy Skunk! I guess not!"

"All right, son," replied Farmer Brown. "I was just trying to tease you. I don't want Jimmy Skunk killed. I'm glad you feel the way you do. But I don't want Jimmy in my barn, either, so I'll leave it to you to get him out the best way you can. But, whatever you do, don't do anything to tempt Jimmy to use that little scent gun of his. Be careful, son, be careful."

"I will," replied Farmer Brown's Boy. "I'll get him out of here just as soon as I can, and I promise you that there will be no trouble."
